EXPECT VOTER BILL

Segregationist Legislation On Solons' Agenda

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana lawmakers will begin the third week of the 1962 session tonight expecting to see bills on voter registration and grants-in-aid for private, segregated schools.

Both houses will convene at 7 p.m., but segregation bills sponsored by the Louisiana Sovereignty Commission are not expected to be introduced before Tuesday or Wednesday.

"In the current session, our efforts are in three fields — voter registration, welfare and grants-in-aid," Frank Voelker Jr., sovereignty Commission chairman, of Lake Providence said.

While Voelker did not elaborate on proposed legislation, he indicated that bills would call for changes in Louisiana's voter registration system.

LEGALLY SAFE

"In the field of voter registration, we believe the proposal worked out will result in a system that is not only simple and fair to all, but one that will be safe from legal attack," he said.

Voelker, touching on welfare, pointed out that the budget includes $223 million in federal funds, but he added, "Far more important, in the long run, than even these large figures is our need to preserve every possible bit of our state sovereignty and integrity — to halt the increasing efforts to make Louisiana and all other states into federal districts."

He said welfare proposals "contemplate continued receipt of federal matching funds, with retention of maximum estate and parish control over their disbursement."

While the House, before adjourning on Thursday, voted to transfer $4 million in the grant-in-aid program to the general fund, Voelker said legislation would be introduced to maintain this program.

Without going into detail, he said, "The purpose of the grants-in-aid program is to guarantee to our school children their constitutional freedoms of choice of association by affording them an opportunity to attend private schools."

Lawmakers returning have until next Sunday to introduce bills.

Locally, Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe predicted in the capitol before going home for the weekend that he had obtained additional support for the third judgeship bill for Ouachita and Morehouse parishes.

The Ouachita - Morehouse delegations were 10 votes shy Thursday of a two-thirds majority needed to pass the bill, creating a new judgeship for the district.

With Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' $60-million bond issue already signed, legislators went home for the weekend with a new proposal of-

New Marine Group Joins Fleet At Sea

Ready To Assist In Thailand Area Should Need Arise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another 1,800-man Marine battalion landing team has been put aboard 7th Fleet ships to replace the one landed in Thailand, Pentagon sources said Saturday.

This makes readily possible quick reinforcement of U.S. forces in Thailand if an emergency arises.

SPEEDY ACTION

It is standard procedure to keep a Marine battalion at sea with the 7th Fleet's operating forces. But the Navy and Marine Corps appeared to have moved with unusual speed to fill up the forward-deployed elements cruising in waters off Communist - endangered Southeast Asia.

The converted carrier Valley Forge, now used as a helicopter base for Marines, and accompanying transports which carry heavy weapons, supplies and ammunition for a battalion, apparently headed back for Okinawa immediately upon putting the 34d Battalion of the 9th Regiment ashore.

At Okinawa, the 1st Battalion of the 3rd Regiment, reinforced into an 1,800-man team, quickly embarked and the ships steamed out at once to rejoin elements of the 7th Fleet.

That force is presumed to be operating in the South China Sea and along approaches to the Gulf of Siam, within easy reach of Thailand and South Viet Nam for both ships and carrier-based planes and helicopters.

UNLESS SOLONS ACT

Court Suit Slated On Reapportioning

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Former State Sen. J. D. DeBlieux said Saturday he will file a federal court suit to force legislative reapportionment if the legislature fails to correct evils of unfair representation in this session.

A House floor leader for Gov. Jimmie H. Davis has called for delay of apportionment problems until 1964.

DeBlieux, chairman of the Louisiana Advisory Committee on Civil Rights, said in an interview a request for federal court intervention may be the only recourse of the people.

He said he already had copies of the federal court suit used to force reapportionment in Tennessee, and would use the suit to pattern his own suit.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled the federal courts may step in at citizens' request if state legislatures fail to carry out their duties to apportion properly.

Georgia was ordered Friday by a three-judge federal court to reapportion at least one house of its legislature on population basis before January, 1963.

DeBlieux told the Democratic State Central Committee Friday Louisiana could expect more federal intervention unless it did some housecleaning on its own.

DeBlieux told a newsman the people should have some basis for being equally represented in at least one house of the legislature.

The house which represents the people according to population, he said, would act as a check and balance to the other chamber regardless how chosen.

At least 10 separate bills to reapportion the legislature have been introduced.

Hero Welcome Is Due Today For Carpenter

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronaut Scott Carpenter, the nation's newest space hero, will receive the Space Agency's highest decoration—the distinguished service medal — at ceremonies here Sunday.

Afterwards, he is expected to tell the public the tale of his mission and its harrowing finale at a news conference scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m. est (5:30 p.m. edt).

Carpenter and Project Mercury operations director Walter Williams—the man who made the final "go" decision—will receive the distinguished service medals from James E. Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Only five other persons have received the medals previously. They are astronauts Alan Shepard, Virgil (Gus) Grissom, and John Glenn; manned space director Robert Gilruth; and a retired NASA scientist, John Cowley.

ERROR DISCLOSED

Aurora 7 Ran Short Of Fuel

GRAND TURK, B. W. I. (AP)— In the busy moments of re-entry, astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter made a humor error that left him short of fuel to control his spacecraft's position and contributed to his own anxiety.

By accident, Carpenter left on a manual control system as he switched to a fly by wire, or semi-automatic, control system. Both were consuming fuel for three or four minutes.

This disclosure came as Carpenter prepared to return to Cape Canaveral Sunday to receive a big welcome, get a Distinguished Service Medal and hold a news conference.

REPORT ISSUED

Word of the error came from Lt. Col. John A. Powers, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a day after the report that the Hawaiian tracking station had doubts about the astronaut's condition during the third orbit.

The station, during a Thursday night critique among the 17 tracking facilities, said it "had the impression that he was very confused about what was going on," or at least preoccupied.

Powers said Sunday that to the extent that Carpenter should not have been on two control systems at the same time, he had erred.

Earlier, Powers quoted Carpenter:

"Yep, I had a few moments of anxiety near the retrofire (braking stage) over whether I was going to have enough fuel."

A a result of the mistake, Carpenter did, indeed, run out of fuel for his manual control system before he had put the Aurora 7 spacecraft into the proper position to re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

But he still had fuel remaining in the automatic system and was able to use this system in a semi-automatic or hand-controlled way to put the blunt end of the spacecraft forward.

ON FUND CUTBACKS

City Board Asks Aid From Solons

The Monroe City School Board met Saturday with members of the Ouachita Parish legislative delegation to gain their support in stopping funds for the schools from being cut during the present session of the Legislature.

J. H. Scogin, president of the board, said Saturday afternoon that the delegation was in sympathy with the board's needs and had promised to do what they could to see that the schools are not cut.

Scogin said that, with four new schools scheduled to open within the city system this fall, funds expected from the state would not be sufficient to operate the schools.

The city system is not paid on a per educable basis as are the other systems of the state.

"EQUAL TREATMENT"

Scogin said, "as we understand the pay formula, it does not provide for a fair distribution of money to our system for the year 1962-63, as it is applied to the other 66 systems of the state.

"All we are asking is for equal treatment, along with other school systems of the state."

Scogin said that Rep. Lawrence Gibbs and Rep. Mike John Jr. met with the board during a luncheon session. Sen. Jamar Adcock, Scogin said, had a previous engagement but had assured the board he would do "everything in his power to get our budget in line with other systems."

John and Gibbs both promised their full support to the city system.

The local meeting came after last week's legislative session saw a meeting of school superintendents and state Supt. of Education Shelby Jackson in Baton Rouge. Jackson told the parish educators that they would be cut for the coming year.

U.S. Ends Voyage Of Pacifists

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The sailboat Everyman sailed Saturday on an atom bomb protest voyage against U. S. government orders, but its crew of three was arrested on the high seas by federal officers and a Coast Guard crew put aboard to sail her back to San Francisco.

The 30-foot sailboat put to sea at 9 a.m. for the U. S. nuclear testing zone in the Pacific in defiance of an injunction issued late Friday at the request of U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Two Coast Guard cutters, one carrying Cecil Poole, U. S. attorney and three U.S. marshals, overtook the craft 18 miles southwest of San Francisco.

A marshal was put aboard by small boat and arrested the crew at 4:13 p.m. A sonarman and a seaman from the Coast Guard went aboard immediately after, turned the Everyman about and headed her for San Francisco.

The Everyman's crew was transferred to the 95-foot Coast Guard Cutter 95310 and into custody of the marshals.

The Coast Guard had little information on the high seas arrest, except that the sailboat's crew was "congenial."

Poole and the three marshals went out on the Cutter 95310. It has no other designation.

OAS Burns Schools In Algeria Orgy

Other Buildings Also Damaged: 35 Persons Die

ALGIERS (AP)—Secret Army Organization terrorists bombed and burned public schools and buildings Saturday, vowing to leave only debris and ruins for an independent Algeria.

Police reported a dozen empty schools were destroyed or damaged by plastic bombs, phosphorous grenades or charges of explosives attached to gasoline containers. Two town halls were damaged by fire.

CONTINUE ATTACKS

A secret army pirate radio broadcast said Moslems "will get Algeria as we found it 130 years ago."

The terrorists continued their attacks against Moslems and Europeans considered to favor Algerian independence.

Throughout Algeria, terrorist attacks left 35 persons dead and 31 wounded. Most of the victims were Moslems.

The day's bloodshed began at dawn, with the thunder of 29 mortar shells fired into the Moslem Belfort section in the suburb of Maison Charee. No one from the European side went to pick up the Moslem victims.

The Belfort victims were not included in the tally compiled by police.

On the waterfront, a small truck loaded with about 50 pounds of explosives blasted off, killing four persons and wounding 15. Hundreds of Moslems surged screaming out of the Casbah, several hundred yards away. They remembered all too well that a similar secret army bombing on the waterfront May 2 killed 62 Moslems and wounded more than 100.

The angry Moslems were intercepted by the newly organized Moslem police force, possibly preventing riotous retaliation against Europeans.

Stretcher bearers of the National Liberation Front, which enforces discipline in the Moslem quarters of this tragic city, bore off the wounded into the Casbah.

Among the victims were eight Europeans. Three were carried into the Casbah for treatment. One died shortly after arrival at a makeshift Moslem clinic.

Orbital Flight Films Damaged By Sea Water

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Experts at Eastman Kodak Co. revealed Saturday that motion picture film of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter's three orbits of the Earth last Thursday was heavily damaged by sea water and may be of little use to scientists.

While Carpenter's space capsule, Aurora 7, was bobbing in the Atlantic awaiting recovery, about 65 pounds of water sloshed into it and reached the pilot-observer camera.

The most critical portion of the 275-foot-length of movie film in the camera was on the outside of the reel and suffered the most damage, company experts said. That portion recorded much of the re-entry period.

The film is of vital interest to scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) because of the confusion over just what happened during the third orbit and re-entry period.

The film images, Kodak experts said, were very weak and very flat. They were determining possible methods of improving them.

Rain Continues To Elude Area

Hunting for isolated thundershowers, that have lately been secretive, goes on again today in the Twin Cities.

Parched Ouachita Parish people will face a likely high of 90 today, with the mercury dropping down to around 70 for tonight. It was 92 yesterday in Monroe.

Southerly winds will be breezing by at 5-15 miles per hour under clear, warm skies.

CITE TAX RAISE

Chamber Fights Four Measures

Monroe's Chamber of Commerce fired a verbal barrage Saturday at four bills now before the state legislature, which they claim would cost local residents an estimated $150,000 more annually in taxes.

The bills, all presented by south Louisiana representatives, would affect the fire and police departments.

"These four particular bills will come up at committee hearings in Baton Rouge next week," said Chamber President J. H. Scogin. "If the combined provisions of these four laws are allowed to pass, local citizens will be faced with possibility of a tax increase conservatively estimated at more than $150,000."

BILLS OFFERED

House bills 283 and 420, both introduced by Rep. James M. Brown of Calcasieu Parish, 335 introduced by Rep. Richard Bertrand of Lafayette of Lafayette Parish and 80 introduced by Rep. Rislley Triche of Assumption Parish are targets of the local blast.

The first three affect firemen and the fourth involves police pensions.

"We have requested the Chamber of Commerce board of directors and legislative committee members to wire or talk to our local delegation in the state legislature on these issues," said Scogin.

"We ask that our members call

Saucepan Lid Idea Adopted To Save Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — A postal employe used a saucepan cover to cook up an idea for saving the lives of children playing around trucks.

Mounted on a bracket extending forward from the windshield frame of a truck, the stainless steel kitchenware enables the driver to see youngsters playing near both front wheels of his vehicle.

This area normally is a blind spot in the field of vision of a driver about to drive his vehicle away from a parked position.

Department officials said Harry M. Knarr Jr. of Sarasota, Fla., got the idea for using the saucepan covers as mirrors while helping his wife dry dishes. Knarr was familiar with the accident problem because of his job as superintendent of vehicle maintenance service at Sarasota.

As a result of tests, the department announced Saturday it will order 20,000 disks for mounting on its trucks this summer.

MIXUP IN CHARTS

Two Babies Given Wrong Operations

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—Hospital authorities here were trying to figure out how two one-year-old babies were given the wrong operations Saturday.

Doctors were supposed to operate on 13-month-old Mark Trautman for a hernia operation. Meanwhile, 17 month-old Tracy Fernald was supposed to have a tonsilectomy.

But a mixup in their charts resulted in the operations being reversed.

Apparently the confusion started on the way to the operating room at the hospital. The wrong charts calling for operations were given to the two boys.

The switch was revealed when the mother of the Fernald boy went to the hospital. "That's not my boy," she told a nurse. Tracy had short hair while the Trautman boy had long hair.

"You're kidding," said the nurse. A stern look by Mrs. Fernald and the nurse vanished through a doorway.

Mrs. Trautman, meanwhile had followed them from the operating room. She asked a nurse to show her where doctors had operated for the hernia. All she saw was skin. There wasn't a bandage in sight. But little Mark had a sore throat. They'd taken his tonsils out.

Everyone said the two children look very much alike.

The Trautman's said they weren't planning to sue, but had contacted a lawyer. They said they didn't want to be billed for an unwanted operation.

The Fernald's said the hospital had agreed to give them a free hernia operation for their son.

FBI Checks Possibility Of Sabotage

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (UPI) — Federal and airline investigators said Saturday night that there is mounting evidence that a bomb tore apart a Continental Airlines jet liner, sending 45 persons crashing to their deaths.

The FBI joined air detectives from the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and Continental in a painstaking search for the evidence which could determine why the $5 million Boeing 707 jet exploded in the skies over Southern Iowa Tuesday night and spun into a valley in northern Missouri.

ASSUMED BOMB

The FBI investigation centered immediately on the travel patterns of the 37 passengers who boarded the "Golden Jet" at Chicago's O'Hare Field on a flight to Los Angeles.

Continental spokesmen at airlines headquarters in Denver said investigation by their experts indicated "a man-made explosive had been set off within the aircraft."

A highly-placed source at Centerville, where the federal investigation was headquartered, told United Press International "as practical people we can only assume it was a bomb."

The CAB also revealed that FBI agents had been investigating the crash for the last two days "under the assumption that there has been a violation of the criminal law."

The twin announcements from the CAB at Centerville and Continental president Robert F. Six at Denver raised the possibility that sabotage, one of the most fearsome threats to commercial

Jury Sent U.S. Data On Estes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department rushed confidential material Saturday on financier Billie Sol Estes to a Texas grand jury that is investigating the death of agriculture official Henry H. Marshall.

The material, part of a Department of Agriculture report on Estes and cotton allotments, isn't likely to shed any light on the circumstances of Marshall's death.

However, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said, there are several references to Marshall in the report and they are being made available under a well-recognized procedure.

Before he was found dead last June 3 on his farm near Franklin, Tex., Marshall had been investigating Estes' cotton acreage allotments. Marshall's death at first was ruled a suicide, but the case was reopened last week and a pathologist said Marshall probably was murdered.

The report already has been given to the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., which is probing Estes' tangled affairs.

Kennedy said the Justice Department's criminal division has prepared verbatim excerpts from the report and all possibly relevant parts were flown to Texas Saturday in an effort to cooperate as fully as possible with the Robertson County, Tex., grand jury.

Barefoot Sanders, U.S. attorney in Dallas, will offer the material to the grand jury when it reconvenes Monday in Franklin, Kennedy said.

Georgian Is Held For Authorities

A 30-year-old Georgia man was apprehended Saturday in Monroe for Griffin, Ga., authorities.

Monroe police identified him as Sam Finley, who gave a local address of 310 Sixth St., and was taken into custody at the railroad depot.

Police said that Georgia authorities want Finley for family desertion. He signed a waiver of extradition Saturday and the sheriff's department in Georgia will pick him up later.

LITTLE LEAGUE parade committee makes plans for the event slated for next Saturday, which will be observed as "Monroe Little League Day". Officials F. N. (Sticky) Steele, Saul Adler, Mayor W. L. ON TWO PLAYGROUNDS

Schedule Of Boys' Club Activities Is Announced

West Monroe's Boy Club has secured two playgrounds for its summer program, and will launch activities next Monday afternoon, June 4.

Kenneth Taylor, director of the Club, said that the program will be held during afternoons for the first week, to avoid conflict with the church bible schools. He released the schedule of events Saturday.

Starting June 11, the summer program goes on a full-time basis.

Judge John McCormick, club president, may be contacted for any inquiries concerning the organization.

Other officers include Howard Griffith, vice-president, Leslie Hamm, secretary, and Harold Roberts, treasurer.

The Board of Directors for the club will meet at 6 p.m. Monday in the West Monroe City Hall courtroom to discuss current activities.

The summer program will continue for nine weeks, through the second week of August, and will feature regular activities Mondays through Fridays with games, room tournaments and movies on Saturday mornings.

A total of 431 boys between the ages of seven and 18 are registered for the program.

Playground sites will be: 1. Lenwill school, through permission of the Ouachita Parish School Board. 2. Riser Junior High school on Washington Street, near the intersection of Smith street.

The club itself is located at the end of Violet Street, north of the New Natchitoches Road.

Taylor said that the club will have three softball leagues, one for boys aged seven through nine, the second for boys aged 10-11 and the third for boys aged 12 and 13.

"We already have one softball team consisting of 25 boys, ages 14 through 18, entered as a team in the West Monroe Recreation League," he pointed out.

Youngsters between seven and 10 will play in the Boys' Club league.

"All boys who plan to participate in summer softball are urged to report soon," Judge McCormick said. "The club members now are organizing."

Under the proposed playground program, boys either will practice or play a game each day.

Other activities will include:

A physical fitness program highlighted by the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation physical fitness tet.

Volleyball and badminton played on courts at the Club.

Arts and crafts programs held during the mid-day hours.

Project Future Spaceman — an educational class for boys aged 10 through 13.

Track and field program.

Field trip, one afternoon each week, to a point of interest, such as the airport, a courtroom, factory or other educational site.

Basketball. Swimming.

"Physical activities will be held from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., with less strenuous activities scheduled during the warmest part of the day," said Taylor.

Nasser Asks Collective Leadership

CAIRO (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser said Saturday he does not want to be president for the rest of his life leadership for his United Arab Republic.

"Collective leadership is necessary to forbid the whims and deviations of an individual," Nasser told 1,750 delegates at the National Congress of Popular Powers.

"Today, the president has unlimited authority. Shall we accept this as traditional I say no. We must create circumstances that protect us against deviation and whims. This naturally conflicts with the presence of a president for life." Nasser said.

"I say that no individual should alone hold authority for life."

The speech, in part, was in answer to a proposal submitted to the congress suggesting Nasser remain on as president for life. The congress is considering a new Socialist charter outlined by Nasser last Monday. He said then Arab socialism would lead Egypt to true democracy under collective leadership. Classless society is the goal, he said.

Nasser said there would be a meeting probably next October of the new Egyptian political organization—the Arab Socialist Union —to pave the way for the election of a National Assembly in preparation for a new constitution.

"It is time we thought of following a different way from the one we are following now," he said.

Nasser took over leadership of Egypt after the ouster of the monarchy of King Farouk in 1952. In 1958, he became president of the United Arab Republic, a union of Egypt and Syria. Syria has since broken the union.

Driver Escapes As Truck Flips

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Jeremiah Davis escaped with minor injuries when his truck overturned Friday.

Davis was pulled quickly from the vehicle, but then the troubles started.

It took a wrecker crew and crane more than four hours to get the 10-ton truck back on its wheels. The problem was that Davis had been hauling some 67 yards of cement. While the truck lay on its back, the whole mess solidified inside the mixer.

Strike Activity Drops For Year

Fewer workers were idled by strikes in Louisiana during 1961 than in any year since 1940, according to Brunswick A. Bagdon, Southern Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. In 1961, strike activity in terms of man-days lost increased sharply from the preceding year, but was exceeded in most postwar years.

Thirty - four new work stoppages in 1961 idled 5,840 workers, or 0.9 per cent of the number employed in nonagricultural establishments (excluding government) The 37 new work stoppages beginning in 1960 idled 6,040 workers.

Approximately 207,000 man-days of idleness, or about 0.13 per cent of the estimated working time of nonagricultural workers, resulted from strikes in effect in the state in 1961, compared to 115,000 man-days lost in 1960, or 0.07 per cent of working time. During 1961, New Orleans was the only Louisiana metropolitan area having five or more work stoppages. Fourteen new strikes beginning during the year idled, 2,280 workers and resulted in 34,400 man-days of idleness. In 1960, 13 new strikes in New Orleans involved 2,420 workers and resulted in 23,800 man-days of idleness.

ABOLISH COMMISSION

Wildlife Groups Against Legislation

The legislative committee of Louisiana's Wildlife Federation and the Ouachita Wildlife Unit came out as "strongly opposed" Saturday to bills now before the legislature, which would abolish the state Wildlife Commission and affect license fees.

Lloyd Voorhees, president of the Ouachita Unit and chairman of the state Wildlife Federation's legislative committee, blasted House Bill 167 introduced by Rep. Frank Fulco of Caddo parish.

"This bill is our number one target to defeat," said Voorhees.

"It would abolish the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

"We struggled for years to get a commission set up like the one we have today. The people of the state proved they wanted the Wildlife Commission two years ago, by defeating an identical bill aimed at destroying it."

Voorhees commented that, "Fulco must be 100 per cent against sportsmen and conservationists of the state, in introducing a bill of this sort."

Ouachita's Wildlife Unit and the Louisiana Wildlife Federation also oppose the bill now before the legislature, which would reduce the hunting license fee from $2 to $1. They also oppose the bill which would do away with the $2 big game hunting license.

"Sportsmen are willing to pay their way," said the local official. "In this session of the legislature, we hope to have a bill passed for a $1 universal fishing license."

He pointed out that failure to have such a license in Louisiana costs the state thousands of dollars each year. Money collected through such a license would be dedicated to the Wildlife and Fisheries Department, "to make fishing secure and better in future years," he said.

TO FINANCE CENTENNIAL

FTC Rules Store Coerces Suppliers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission ruled Saturday that Macy's Manhattan department store, the largest in the world, illegally coerced suppliers into contributing $540,000 to help finance the store's 1958 centennial celebration.

The FTC said R. H. Macy & Co. Inc., had used the leverage of its size and importance to extract cash gifts from suppliers who dared not refuse lest they lose a good customer. It said the New York store had annual sales of $225 million at the time.

Macy's said it would appeal the ruling. The store declined to comment further, saying it had not had an opportunity to read the ruling.

"There is clearly shown here a form of coercion or oppression, which, we believe, is an unfair trade practice," the commission said. To rule otherwise, it added, would "create a new hunting ground" for big stores that would be kept in check "only be self-imposed restraint on their own rapacity."

The unanimous opinion written by Commissioner William C. Kern rejected a recommendation by hearing Examiner Edward Creel that the case be dismissed.

The commissioners directed preparation of a cease-and-desist order to prohibit Macy's from making similar solicitations in the future. Such orders are enforceable in federal courts, and violators can be fined.

The opinion held that Macy's not only coerced suppliers but violated the Federal Trade Commission Act by injuring competitors which did not have access to such aid.

Kern reported that buyers from various departments in the big store had solicited $1,000 contributions from about 750 suppliers to help foot the bill for a year-long birthday fete. He said 582 suppliers agreed to make the payments and that, by early 1960, Macy's had collected $540,000.

"While the record does not show overt pressure upon vendors to give, such as threats of discontinuance of purchases or offers of more business, vendors, as a practical matter, could not well afford to refuse Macy's request," the opinion said.

Spy Ships Set Precedent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Russian spy ships monitoring secret U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific may be setting a precedent that America will find useful in future Soviet weapon experiments.

Defense officials refused to comment Saturday on the possibility that similar U.S. ships would be sent to the vicinity of northern Novaya Zemlla Island the next time the Soviets conduct nuclear tests in the Arctic. But they said there was "no need to worry" about America keeping up with the Russians in the business of monitoring.

They said there are definite advantages to mositoring from close range.

The Defense Department disclosed Friday that the 3,600 - ton Russian hydro - meteorological ship Shokal'skiy and two Soviet trollers equipped with radar antennas and other electronic devices were obtaining valuable information on U. S. tests from a point about 400 miles due west of Christmas Island, just outside the restricted test zone.

Novaya Zemlla is where the Soviets set off a 58-megaton bomb and other huge blasts last fall. It is only a few hundred miles from the route taken by U.S. ships to reach Murmansk in World War II.

The greatest advantage gained by the Russian ships is believed to be from prompt radiochemical analysis of the "debris" from the U.S. explosions. The Shokal'skiy was said to be maistaining 16 laboratories for this purpose.

Radiochemistry enables scientists to determine what materials were used in a weapon, and the proportions of fission and fusion in the explosion. They can probably determine down to the last pound the weight of the nuclear material used, and the size of the atomic "trigger" needed to set off the particular blast.

Life Of Jouhaud Checked To OAS

PARIS (AP) — French authorities Saturday in effect put the fate of ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud into the hands of his own secret army killers in Algeria.

Highly placed sources said the death sentence against the secret army's second-in-command will be carried out unless secret army terrorism eases up considerably in the next three days.

In Algerian cities, the European underground organization loosed a series of assassinations and bomb blasts without sign of a letup in its campaign to block independence for Algeria.

Cindemned to death April 13 for his role in the secret army, Jouhaud obtained a temporary stay of execution from the supreme court on his attorney's request for a new trial. The court will act Tuesday.

If, as expected, the court rejects the request, there would be no further bar to the execution except executive clemency by President Charles de Gaulle. De Gaulle now is reported determined not to intervene unless the secret army leadership halts the wave of terrorism in Algiers and Oran.

One basis for the appeal to the supreme court was the verdict of the special military tribunal in the case of ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, leader of the secret army, who was let off with life imprisonment because of "extenuating circumstances.'

Jouhaud's lawyers argued that its is inconsistent for a subordinate to be more severely punished than the chief. Attorneys for two other members of the secret army condemned to death have filed similar appeals for new trials.

It is an open secret in Paris that De Gaulle was infuriated by the tribunal's decision in the Salan case. The president feels that it gives new hope to the secret army and tends to demoralize police and army officers who are risking their lives fighting the secret army in Algeria.

De Gaulle was particularly incensed that in their courtroom appearances neither Salan nor Jouhaud disavowed the secret army killings nor pleaded for an end to assassinations.

The president feels that he must abide by the court's decision in Salan's case. But one Paris newspaper reported that Salan might be liable to new charges if, as the paper claimed, he continued to lead the secret army after his arrest last month. The paper claimed that Salan had smuggled out orders to his followers while he awaited trial. The case against Salan was based on acts up to the day of his arrest.

Jacques Isorni, attorney for ex-Capt. Jean Ferrandi, injected a sew note into the controversy with a statement implying that some political leaders in France had encouraged Salan's actions as head of the secret army. Ferrandi was an aide to Salan and was arrested along with the ex-general.

Isorni is well known as chief defense attorney in the postwar treason trial of the late Marshal Henri Petain.

DURING ORBITAL FLIGHT

Surgeon Offers Theory On Blood Pressure Rise

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A Project Mercury surgeon said Saturday that Malcolm Scott Carpenter's excessively high in-flight blood pressure readings may simply have been caused by a loose arm cuff.

Lt. Col. Evan W. Schear of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, said he removed the inflatable cuff from Carpenter's arm and noticed that although it had been taped securely, it had slipped down somewhat toward the elbow.

Dr. Schear's medical teammate Army Lt. Col. Richard A. Rink of Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., disclosed that when Carpenter came aboard his rescue helicopter, the astronaut took out a knife and slashed a hole in one foot of his rubber suit.

Then he stuck that leg out of the helicopter window—actually a door—and let sea water drain from it into the ocean.

Rink said Carpenter thereupon lay down on the helicopter floor, raised his other leg, and let more water transfer through the suit's relief tube and out the window.

Rink said the sea water in Carpenter's suit turned green by becoming mixed with the dye he carried to make himself a more visible target for search planes.

The astronaut's greatest concern as he climbed into the helicopter was that his suit was half filled with water, Rink said.

Rink added that water got inside because the astronaut had failed to unroll the suit's right-fitting collar before the flight, as in the recommended procedure.

Carpenter ripped the collar from around his neck, and asked first of all for a towel to dry his face and hands.

Schear and Rink, the medical team aboard the carrier Intrepid, were the first physicians to examine Carpenter after his three-orbit flight last Thursday. They told The Associated Press about it in a joint interview.

Rink, who flew 200 miles to the scene in the helicopter that made the rescue, observed Carpenter during the 140-mile flight back to the carrier.

Aboard ship, Schear disconnected the sensors that had been attached to Carpenter's body and gave him a general physical examination.

After a shower, a shave and a glass of iced tea, Carpenter lay on a bed and dictated his report for 45 minutes into a tape recorder.

Schear said that excessive perspiration—Carpenter sweats heavily even when he isn't locked up in a space capsule — apparently permitted the tape holding the clinical arm cuff to slide down the astronaut's arm a bit.

The arm cuff must fit securely when inflated in order to give proper blood pressure readings, the physician explained. If the cuff was loose it probably would not register accurately.

Both doctors said they found nothing unexpected or abnormal about Carpenter's physical condition. They quoted him as saying he didn't feel even the least bit sick, either in flight or on the water.

On the helicopter the astronaut wanted to know first, "Where am I?—how far down range?" He was 130 miles northeast of Puerto Rico and 250 miles beyond his planned landing area.

Then, Rink said, Carpenter wanted, and received, assurance that his Aurora capsule would be retrieved. It was recovered in excellent condition.

Taken aboard the destroyer Pierce, it was found to contain 65 pounds of water that had leaked in during Carpenter's three-hour wait.

"The one thing Carpenter managed to keep dry was his camera," Rink said.

"He held it in his hands all the time he was in the raft, and hardly let it out of his hands until we got him aboard the carrier. It had a special 35mm film cartridge, and he was real happy he had salvaged it.

"In the helicopter he walked around, looked out the window to see whether the paramedics in the water with him had been picked up.

"He was full of exuberance and bursting to talk about his experience, but knew that we preferred that he wait until he had debriefed himself aboard the carrier.

"He made some spontaneous remarks about the beautiful colors of the sunrises and sunsets, said they were 'much more vivid than down here in the atmosphere.'

"Finally he had to talk to somebody and went up and chatted with the helicopter pilot.

"Then he came back and was quiet—relaxed and reflective at last."

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Frank B. Ellis Friday took under advisement two motions and postponed inefinitely two others in the suit of a suspended Tulane student seeking readmission.

William E. Clark, 20, of Humboldt, Tenn., was suspended April 9 for taking Negroes in the Tulane cafeteria.

Judge Ellis took under study one Tulane motion to dismiss the suit and another claiming the court lacked jurisdiction in the case.

Reverse Rider Faces Brighter World In Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Cleveland Carter, 49, an unskilled, semi - illiterate Negro laborer who came here from the South Thursday, faced a brighter world Saturday.

Carter arrived here from New Orleans with 13 cents in his pocket and spent the night in a Greyhound bus station waiting for a reception that never took place.

He said the White Citizens Council in New Orleans had promised him someone from its Cleveland Branch would meet him. There is no Cleveland branch.

A bus driver came to his assistance and Carter was directed to the Cleveland branch of the NAACP and the Urban League, now working jointly to get him settled.

Women Voters League Fights Convention Bill

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana's League of Women Voters urged opposition Saturday to Sen. Howard Jones' bill to call a constitutional convention.

The group said the legislation (Senate bill 83) proposed by the St. Joseph senator, one of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' friends in the Senate, "provides for the complete rewriting of the Louisiana constitution without the consent of the people."

Sen. Jones told newsmen earlier the bill would contain a provision for the voters to approve the finished document.

But a league spokesman pointed out the bill required "the new constitution shall take effect at such time as may be fixed by the convention."

"Under this bill," the league said, "the voters will not be allowed to say whether or not they want a constitutional convention, will not be given an opportunity to elect delegates to that convention, and will not even be given a chance to accept or reject the new constitution under which they will have to live.

"The proposed convention would be made up of the present 144 legislators, plus 50 appointees," the league said. "This means over 25 per cent of the convention which would be given the power to rewrite our basic law will be appointed and in no way responsive to the will of the people."

Segregationist Legislation On Solons' Agenda

fered by Treasurer A. P. Tugwell for a quick sales tax to retire the bonds.

Tugwell suggested that the Legislature pass a one-half cent sales tax for three years or a one-cent tax for 18 months to retire the bonds, saving the $30 million in interest.

Administration leaders, however, quickly denounced the plan, but the members of the Legislature adopted a wait-and-see attitude, not convinced that the sales tax is completely out for the current session.

Work should begin within the next several days on the $785 million budget, which includes a $15 million reduction over spending during this year.

So far the biggest objections to the budget have been raised by Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, who informed school superintendents that their funds are being reduced.

The administration takes an entirely different position, however, with Rep. Risley Triche, a floor leader of Napoleonville, instructing House members before they left Thursday to inform their superintendents that all systems will receive additional revenues.

FBI Checks Possibility Of Sabotage

aviation, had caused the big jet to disintegrate 39,000 feet over the middle western farmland.

There have been six established cases of airline sabotage since 1949, two of them in the United States. The United States' worst case of air sabotage occurred in 1955, when a United Air Lines DC6 blew up over Colorado. John Gilbert Graham, 23, died in the Colorado gas chamber charged with placing a bomb in his mother's luggage so he could collect $37,500 insurance.

At Centerville, Civil Aeronautics Board public relations officer Edward E. Slattery Jr. said "an explosive force of unknown origin" ripped the rear part of the jet.

Slattery, in a terse statement, said the explosive force "caused the aircrcaft to break up in flight" as it cruised at 39,000 feet on a flight from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Slattery's announcement was the first positive word why the Continental "Golden Jet" disintegrated in the sky, raining down wreckage along a 120-mile line.

Speculation immediately after the disaster—the first fatal crackup in Continental's history—centered on the possibility that severe air turbulence in the thunderheads over the area tore the airliner apart. But air experts had been dubious whether even tornadic winds could wreak such damage.

A few hours before Slattery's announcement, a medical investigator announced corroborative evidence of some kind of an explosion.

Dr. Charles L. Judd, coroner of Putnam County, Mo., said he found extensive chemical burns on the arm of stewardess Martha Joyce Rush, 23, Manhattan Beach, Calif.

The burn area was "black and charred," Judd said. He believed it was caused by a "flash flame" and appeared to be "some type of chemical burn from a higher grade chemical than jet fuel."

Miss Rush had been believed to be working in the tail section of the plane when it blew apart. Her body was the last to be found, 42 hours after the crash, in tall grass 2½ miles behind the point where the plane's fuselage came down near Unionville, Mo.

Another body showed a slight burn, Judd said, and federal investigators reported "powder marks" on two of the bodies and the marks of an explosion on the plane's tail section.

The CAB announcement climaxed a day of fast-building rumors and reports of the circumstances surrounding the crackup.

There were reports that one or more of the passengers aboard the jet had carried unusually high air travel insurance policies. One of the insurance companies involved, Mutual of Omaha, said it had located two policies, one for $150,000 and another for $75,000. But a spokesman said such policies were not out of the ordinary.

The big jet was preparing to make a landing at Kansas City when it ran into a severe wind and lightning storm over southern Iowa. The pilot radioed for weather information, then announced he was going to steer a course through two storm systems.

He had apparently succeeded when the plane disappeared from the radar scope. Wreckage began to rain down on the darkened countryside. A search party of 700 persons followed the trail for eight hours to a muddy valley near Unionville where the fuselage had crashed.

More Negroes Board Bus For Hyannis Port

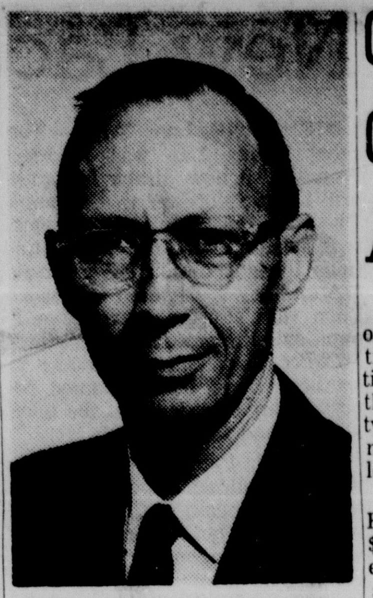
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Two more unemployed Negroes left Saturday by bus for Hyannis Port, Mass., their tickets paid for by the segregationist Capital Citizens Council.

Amis Guthridge, president of the council, called a news conference for the Negroes in his law office, then drove them to the bus station. He said three had been scheduled to go, but the third one didn't show up.

Departing were Eugene Duncan, 30, an unemployed truck driver and construction worker, and William Ricks, 20, an unemployed dishwasher. Both lived in Little Rock.

Guthridge gave the men $5 each in addition to their bus tickets.

The two brought to 30 the number of Negroes the council has sent to Hyannis. Duncan and Ricks said they hoped to get jobs. They said they were not married and had been out of work for some time.



JOHN D. WINTERS, professor of history at Louisiana Tech, will speak Sunday afternoon at the Ouachita Parish Library at 3 p.m. when he will discuss "The Civil War in Northeast Louisiana." The talk will be open to the public. Winters is the author of a recent publication, "The Civil War in Louisiana."

Chamber Fights Four Measures

the legislators' attention to the financial affects these bills would have on local residents."

"If these south Louisiana legislators are reflecting the true feelings of their constituents in introducing these measures, then the bills should have been presented only as local-type laws which would apply to their own parishes."

Local officials point out that Monroe now has Class three fire insurance rating, which is among the best for cities of its size in the south.

"We have always increased our police and fire department in accordance with the national yardstick formulas of law enforcement and fire fighting officials," said Scogin. "We question the wisdom of making laws at state level which would apply to Monroe."

House bill 283 provides that in municipalities over 60,000 population, there shall be an assistant fire chief over each two district fire chiefs, and that the assistant fire chief shall be on active duty on an assigned shift at all times.

The chamber comment: "Monroe, within just a short time, will come under the population provisions of this bill. We now have two fire districts, which would mean when we come under the provisions of the law we would have to hire an additional assistant fire chief, plus possibly hiring others, to comply with the bills "shift at all times" provision.

"Currently our Monroe fire department has six district fire chiefs, one deputy fire chief and a chief. We feel that they are doing a wonderful job. We take the further position that when Monroe wishes to add more fire department personnel that this should be accomplished along specifications of need set by Monroe officials."

House bill 335 lowers the population limits of municipalities which are brought under the provisions of firemens' minimum wages and maximum hours laws. This act also provides for a 48-hour work week for firemen.

The Chamber comment: "It must be brought out that due to the particular peculiarities and irregular "actual" duty service in all fire departments, that local recommendations should prevail as opposed to wide-sweeping legislative restraints.

"There is an indication locally that if this particular bill is passed, we would have to consider adding up to 33 per cent more firemen to our department."

House bill 420 provides that in addition to a district chief over each four fire stations in municipalities over 40,000 population, that there shall also be an assistant chief. Both chiefs would have to be on active duty on an assigned shift at all times in each fire district.

Chamber comment: "Monroe would be required to hire an additional district chief and also an assistant chief, to follow the directions of this bill. This would force great expansion of Monroe's upper level echelon of fire department officials, since we now have six fire stations."

House bill 80 amends and reenacts the sections of the Police Pension law by: 1. Increasing the permissive contributions to the police pension fund, by police department members. The increase would be up to five per cent of an officer's salary. 2. Permits retirement of a police employee after 20 years active service, or after 18 years if such an employee has reached age 65. 3. Removes the $300 maximum pension payment.

Chamber comment: "In the first place, locally we feel that the $300 maximum pension payment is adequate as a ceiling on the pension fund. (Locally, police contribute approximately one and one-half percent of their salaries). The $300 monthly payment made to retired officers is equal to the income which would be received as interest on $76,000 invested at current building and loan dividend rates of four and three-fourths per cent.

Cost Claims On Medicare Are Disputed

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the American Medical Association said Saturday the administration's proposed medical care for the aged would cost the taxpayer twice as much as President Kennedy and other proponents of the legislation have said.

Dr. Leonard W. Larson said the King-Anderson bill would cost $27.50 annually for the worker earning $5,200 a year. This, he said, is more than double the estimate of $13 a year made by Kennedy.

Addressing a convention of the National Parking Association, he said:

"The King-Anderson bill calls for a quarter per cent increase in Social Security taxes on the employe and one-quarter of one per cent on the employer on a tax base of $5,200. Now let's multiply this one-quarter of a per cent by $5,200.

"Yes, the answer is $13 a year for the wage earner making $5,200. And this is exactly what the proponents of the King-Anderson bill are telling the public it will cost annually.

"What they have conveniently forgotten is that the wage earner also would have to pay the current 3⅛ per cent Social Security tax on the extra $400 between the current tax base of $4,800 and $5,200.

Dr. Larson added that the half per cent Social Security increases slated for 1963, 1966 and 1968 were computed on a tax base of $4,800. The King-Anderson bill would establish the tax base as $5,200.

Therefore, he continued, the half per cent Social Security increase in 1963 will be figured on $5,200, not $4,800 and Social Security taxes would be $26 a year instead of $24 a year for wage earners making $5,200. The $2 increase makes total cost of the bill $27.50, Larson said.

Nickels, Dimes Build Memorial

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—After years of collecting nickels and dimes, Americans Saturday have a memorial honoring men who died Dec. 7, 1941. The USS Arizona Memorial of the Pacific was completed Friday.

The memorial, modernistic in design, straddles the hulk of the sunken battleship Arizona—symbol of America's day of infamy.

Below the new Memorial Bridge are the entombed bodies of more than 1,100 Arizona crewmen who went down with their ship.

On a marble wall inside the gleaming white memorial are names of those who died without a chance to fight.

New Laos Attack Reported

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The rebel Pathet Lao was reported mounting a new attack in southern Laos Saturday as Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist prince, took first steps to renew negotiations for a coalition government.

A military spokesman for Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western government said the pro-Communist forces were threatening Saravane in southern Laos, but he denied reports from Thailand that the town already had fallen.

He said Pathet Lao columns were 36 miles northeast and 22 miles southeast of Saravane, which is about 75 miles from Laos' southern border with Cambodia. The town is only 50 miles from the Thailand border and about the same distance from South Viet Nam.

Ubon, site of a radar observation post the United States is building in Thailand and likely camp for some units of the deterrent American force building up in that country, is about 100 miles to the southwest.

Tchepone, 80 miles north of Saravane, already is being used to channel arms and men from Communist North Viet Nam to aid the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Pathet Lao occupation of Saravane and its airstrip would open a network of jungle roads for wider infiltration into South Viet Nam, and also into Thailand.

A government spokesman reported on May 6 that the Pathet Lao had occupied Ban Phone, a junction commanding roads from Saravane to Pakse near the Thailand border and Attopeu in southeastern Laos.

The Thailand newspaper Bangkok Post said Saturday Saravane was surrounded and under heavy fire. This was the same newspaper which said Friday that the Thailand Defense Ministery had reports the town had fallen.

The rebel movements in the south were the first since the Pathet Lao broke the year-old cease-fire and overran Nam Tha and northwestern Laos early this month. The offensive caused Thailand to invite the United States and other SEATO nations to send forces to bolster that country's threatened border. Since then the Pathet Lao has remained quiet in the northwest.

Avtar Singh, Indian chairman of the International Control Commission, said Prince Souvanna has sent a letter to King Savang Vathana asking for an audience, and will convene a new summit meeting of Laos' three warring princes soon after the audience.

Souvanna has been agreed upon by both east and west as the choice for premier of a new government that would include the Pathet Lao, neutralists and Boun Oum's pro-Westerners.

Singh visited Souvanna and his pro - Communist half - brother Prince Souphanouvong at their headquarters at Khang Khay in the Plaine des Jarres. He was accompanied by the other two members of the international control commission, Brig. P. S. Cooper of Canada and Marek Thee of Poland, and British Ambassador John Addis. The Indian chairman said he was optimistic a coalition soon would be formed.

To Warm Baby's Bottle...

...or Power the Plant Where Daddy Works...

There's plenty of electric power for all jobs in Louisiana!

When Louisiana gains a new industrial plant — or a new baby — the need for electric power increases. And since our state will have more plants and more people in the future, the investor-owned electric light and power companies of Louisiana are building now to meet greater power needs in the years ahead.

These companies will invest $370,000,000 over a five-year period to build new and expand existing power facilities. New power stations to generate electricity and more lines and electric distribution centers to deliver it wherever needed will assure plenty of power for Louisiana's future growth.

Estes Case Stirs Review On Wetbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg may order a complete review of Kennedy administration actions involving migrant Mexican farm workers to see if favoritism was shown to indicted Texas financier Billie Sol Estes or Texas growers, it was learned Saturday.

He already has directed a preliminary check of decisions made in this field by former Asst. Labor Secretary Jerry R. Holleman who resigned after admitting he accepted a $1,000 gift from Estes last January.

A thorough review could involve reconsideration of state minimum wage rates for the Mexican farm hands. The rate was established by the Labor Department March 30 following lengthy hearings conducted by Holloman in the Southwest and other areas.

A 70-cent hourly rate was set for Texas—second lowest of the minimums in 22 states that import the Mexicans, known as Braceros—to help harvest crops under an agreement with Mexico.

Only Arkansas, with a 65-cent rate, has a lower minimum. The floor under Bracero wages is $1 in 14 states.

The government said it would not supply the Braceros under terms of a new law unless they earned the minimum wages prescribed by the regulation. The aim was to keep the Mexicans' pay high enough so it would not hurt the chances of American workers to get jobs or higher wages.

Estes, one of the nation's largest users of Braceros on his cotton holdings, was a member of a Texas delegation which discussed the department's attempt to stiffen the regulations shortly before the new rates were announced.

ORLEANS PARISH

Two Nominated For House Seats

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Philip C. Ciaccio, 34-year-old attorney, and Charles G. Smither, an insurance executive, won Democratic nomination to the Louisiana House of Representatives in a runoff primary Saturday.

Complete returns from the 9th Ward on the eastern edge of the city gave Ciaccio 7,691 votes to 6,420 for Louis Trent. The House seat was vacated by Daniel Kelly when he became a city councilman. Ciaccio will meet Republican Lucius D. Dalton in the June 5 general election.

Complete returns from the uptown 14th Ward gave Smither 4,486 votes to 2,610 for John Singreen. The vacancy resulted from the election of George Tessier to the state Senate. Smither will face Republican Hugues de la Vergne II in the general election.

Ciaccio, who ran unsuccessfully for the city council as a member of the Sen. Adrian G. Duplantier ticket, was backed in the current race by the AFL-CIO committee on political education. Trent was backed by Mayor Victor H. Schiro, the Regular Democratic Organization and the forces of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Smither was endorsed by the same forces which backed Duplantier. He withdrew from the last mayor's race because of a death in his family. Singreen ran on a conservative platform. He previously made an unsuccessful race for the Orleans Parish school board on a segregationist platform and was backed by the Citizens Council of Greater New Orleans.

Officers Probe Hammer-Knife Slaying Of Pair

WEOGUFKA, Ala. (UPI) — State and county officials continued their investigation Saturday in the hammer-knife slaying of an elderly farm couple here late Friday.

Estes said a state toxicologist was called in to examine the bodies of Jesse Morris, 86, and his wife, Viola, 76, to determine if they were murdered.

Officers said it was thought Friday night that Morris had beat his wife to death with a claw hammer then slashed his own throat. A later examination, however, showed Morris also was beaten on the head.

A respected father of 11, Morris had resided at his Weogufka farm for 35 years. Several of his married children live in the general area.

The bodies were found about 4 p. m. Friday by Morris' son, Willie, Estes said. Both died enroute to the hospital. Estes said Morris was reported ill for some time.

He said the wife died from a single blow in the middle of her forehead with a claw hammer.

The sheriff said Morris' throat was slashed with a kitchen knife.

UNDERGROUND CELEBRATION

GRAND ST. BERNARD PASS, Italy (UPI) — Swiss and Italian miners shook hands, cheered and drank wine toasts to each other recently when a dynamite charge blasted out the final link of a 3½ mile tunnel under the Alps.

The Swiss and Italians had been working for 47 months from opposite sides of towering Mont Blanc before meeting deep inside. The $16 million tunnel, when completed next year, will eliminate miles of winding, often-snowy mountain roads from the Rome to Paris route.

Texas Campaign Nears End

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two men with New Frontier ties but different approaches to their administration allegiance face one more week of campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas.

The party's runoff is next Saturday and the winner will meet Republican Jack Cox in the Nov. 6 general election.

The opponents are John Connally, former secretary of the Navy under President Kennedy, and Don Yarborough, Houston attorney.

Both are handsome, persuasive men and young for front - ranked politicians. Yarborough is 36 and Connally 45. Neither has held elective office.

Connally swears loyalty to the leaders of the New Frontier, particularly the President and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Connally has had a prominent hand in all of Johnson's campaigns.

But Connally so far has failed to express blanket approval of the entire New Frontier legislative program.

Yarborough says he is a New Frontiersman.

It appeared for a time that the candidates might make the New Frontier the chief issue. But in the last week or so, state issues have gained new prominence.

Connally in campaign statements has sought to label Yarborough a liberal, a tag not considered an asset in Texas politics.

At the same time, Connally claimed he received support from all political groups in the May 5 first primary, in which he led a field of six Democrats.

Yarborough denied the label of liberal, saying his campaign "is for the survival of free enterprise and better education," and stressing that he is for the small businessman and farmer.

Yarborough's most recent contention is that Connally has been a lobbyist for oil and gas interests and that eastern loobyists are backing Connally's obviously well-financed campaign.

Connally received 431,498 votes in the May 5 first primary and Yarborough 317,986 out of 1,449,000 cast.

Yarborough upset a veteran politician, Gov. Price Daniel, to get in the runoff. Daniel ran third.

All of the state's U. S. representatives were renominated May 5. However, many face opposition in the general election.

An office created after the 1960 census, congressman-at-large, has a runoff among Democrats. Contesting are Joe Pool of Dallas, considered a conservative, and Woodrow Bean, a liberal.

The congressman-at-large race has been spiced with the revelation that Bean, an El Paso county judge, has not filed a federal income tax return in 10 years and the Internal Revenue Service has taken no court action against him.

Louisiana GOP Charges Davis Betrays Public

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — The chairman of the Louisiana Republican party's platform committee charged Saturday that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis "has betrayed the people of Louisiana and that the legislature has compounded the deficit problem" by passing the $60 million bond issue.

Tom Stagg of Shreveport, said "the legislature has abandoned the people's interests and has saddled a future generation with their failure to measure up to their responsibilities as legislators with charged with guarding the people's interests."

The platform committee agreed on the topics to be covered in the party's 1962 platform. Subcommittees were named. The next session will be held in Alexandria June 30.

Stagg and Tom Hall of Lake Charles, newly-elected state GOP chairman, said the party would hold a state-wide convention July 7 or 14, probably in Baton Rouge.

Kinder Crash Fatal For Man

KINDER, La. (AP) — Charlie McNab, 52, of Fenton, was killed early Saturday in a headon car-truck crash on U.S. 165 three miles south of Kinder.

Police said McNab was passing a truck and trailer when his car slammed into a pickup truck driven by Nellius J. Fontenot, 19-year-old Elton Negro.

Fontenot and two Negro passengers, Betty Jo Mallet, 17, and her sister Katherine., 18, were treated in Kinder and transfered to a Lake Charles hospital.

Fontenot was to be released later Saturday and the girls, who had fractures, were to be transferred to Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

Texas Citizen Soldiers Plan Trek To Polk

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Citizen soldiers in more than 50 Texas towns and cities are getting things together for the 90th Infantry Division's trek to summer camp just around the corner.

More than 7,000 Texans will move into Ft. Polk, La., for annual active duty training June 2. And until June 16, the Army reservists will be training in the fundamentals of individual and unit infantry skills.

"The emphasis will be on increased field training and bivouac living," Maj. Gen. Earl Hudder, division commander, said.

For the first time in a summer camp the entire division will leave the barracks and take to the field for four days. Only part of the division at a time has been in the field previously.

The active duty training is the climax of a reserve unit's year, preceded by months of planning and training. Specialists will continue to attend schools at Ft. Polk, conducted concurrently with summer camp.

Widow Of Bandit To Face Charges

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The 19-year-old widow of robber-kidnaper Samuel Jack Robertson will be charged with armed robbery, Washington County Sheriff A. L. Hollingsworth said.

Sue Simmons Robertson drove the car which gave officers a merry 50-mile, 30-minute chase Wednesday after a robbery and kidnaping near Belzoni. Her husband and C. L. Chadick, a hostage, were killed.

Mrs. Simmons was in fair condition in a hospital here with one gunshot wound in the shoulder. She was shot from behind shortly before stopping at a highway patrol roadblock.

Officers were attempting to determine details of the deaths. Autopsies showed there were no bullets in either body and the shot through Mrs. Robertson's shoulder was never found.

However, Holingsworth said several slugs — believed to be .32 caliber—were found in the car and were sent to the FBI Laboratory in Washington.

The sheriff quoted Mrs. Robertson as saying Chadick was still alive after she was shot and began stopping the car. The widow told Hollingsworth he was begging for his life.

ON BOTH ORBITAL FLIGHTS

U.S. Astronauts Teeter With Disaster In Space

NEW YORK (AP) — Twice now U.S. astronauts have teetered on the edge of disaster.

Malcolm Scott Carpenter's ride particularly is an anxious reminder of the hazards of passing the gateway into space and taking the long path to the moon.

And it underscores the warning from John Hershel Glenn, Jr. — himself involved in cliff-hanging doubts about his heat shield — that this nation must be prepared to see men die in exploring space.

Perfect surety of safety is being sought, of course.

The fact, easily overlooked in a casual glance at initial successes, is that space flight is a new kind of dangerous experiment.

In science, as space officials point out, experiments are made to gain knowledge. With a man riding aboard a space capsule, you try to plan for every eventuality, such as providing air-sea rescue teams in case, as in Carpenter's descent, you overshoot and land 250 miles from the target scene. And you can supply extra methods of carrying out critical tasks, in case one system fails.

Yet you're still like the man exploring a huge, unknown desert for the first time, or trying to bring aviation all the way from Kitty Hawk to the jet age. Things even go wrong in the best-ordered household.

In stepping into space, there are enormous possibilities for mishaps, in mechanical failure of tested equipment, in the reactions of the best trained but still human pilots.

Each of four U.S. flights so far has brought some knowledge of things that went wrong, or didn't work perfectly, or suggested improvements.

With Glenn, the greatest anxiety came when a signal — faulty as it turned out — indicated his heat shield was loose. His first parachute came out too soon. He had trouble with the control jets governing the attitude or posture of his capsule.

Corrections were made, even up to the last minute of Carpenter's trip.

Carpenter's capsule used some fuel too fast, he was bothered by the cooling system for his spacesuit, overshot his mark because the attitude of his capsule was off the mark at the moment of firing his braking rockets.

N.O. Senators Oppose Bill On School Board

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Seven of New Orleans' eight state senators oppose a bill introduced by Sen. E. W. Gravolet to increase the size of the Orleans Parish School Board and change the method of board elections.

The States-Item interviewed all eight and all but one objected to the bill, primarily because they contend it interferes with home rule.

Sen. Charles E. Deichmasn said he had not read the bill, but added that if "the contents of the bill are what I have been told they are, then I will oppose it."

Sen. William (Cy) Hickey Jr. said the bill, which would increase the board from five to eight, would inject the board into politics.

The bill proposes that five members be elected on a councilmanic district basis and the other three at-large.

School board elections, now held on a non-partisan basis at the time of November general elections, would be thrown into political primaries by the bill.

STRANGE WAR

Laos Forces Don't Believe In Killing

SAYABOURY, Laos (AP) — Killing people? The Laoitn soldier at grassroots level doesn't consider that is his business.

A team from the U.S. special forces, trained in organizing resistance to Communist guerrillas, faces a tough task in the jungles of this northwestern province of Sayaboury south of the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Lt. Robert Lunday, Nashville, Tenn., heads a six-man team from the small U.S. mission of military advisers to the royal government.

"This is the strangest war you could conceive," he says.

The gentle Lao people have an inherited unwillingness to face death or inflict it, and the Lao soldier is the same, he has found.

As long as this is the case, disciplined troops of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao can grab government territory almost at will.

Lunday and his men have headquarters here, where pro-Communist patrols sometimes sneak across the Mekong River to harass the 2,000 or so government troops in the province.

Lunday said he suggested to the local commander that some pockets of the Pathet Lao in the province could easily be wiped out by simple coordinated strikes.

"Why should we do that? It would only mean killing people," the commander replied.

If a raiding party attacks a government camp, Lunday said, the Lao soldier often will not pull the trigger if he has an advancing enemy in his rifle sights. He would rather retreat without firing a shot.

But the Lao soldier's reluctance to kill does not deter him from firing a mortar or artillery piece in the jungle, he said, "because he can't see the enemy and death won't be on his conscience."

A dominating self - preservation instinct of the Lao soldier also creates hazards for himself and his fellow soldiers, Lunday said.

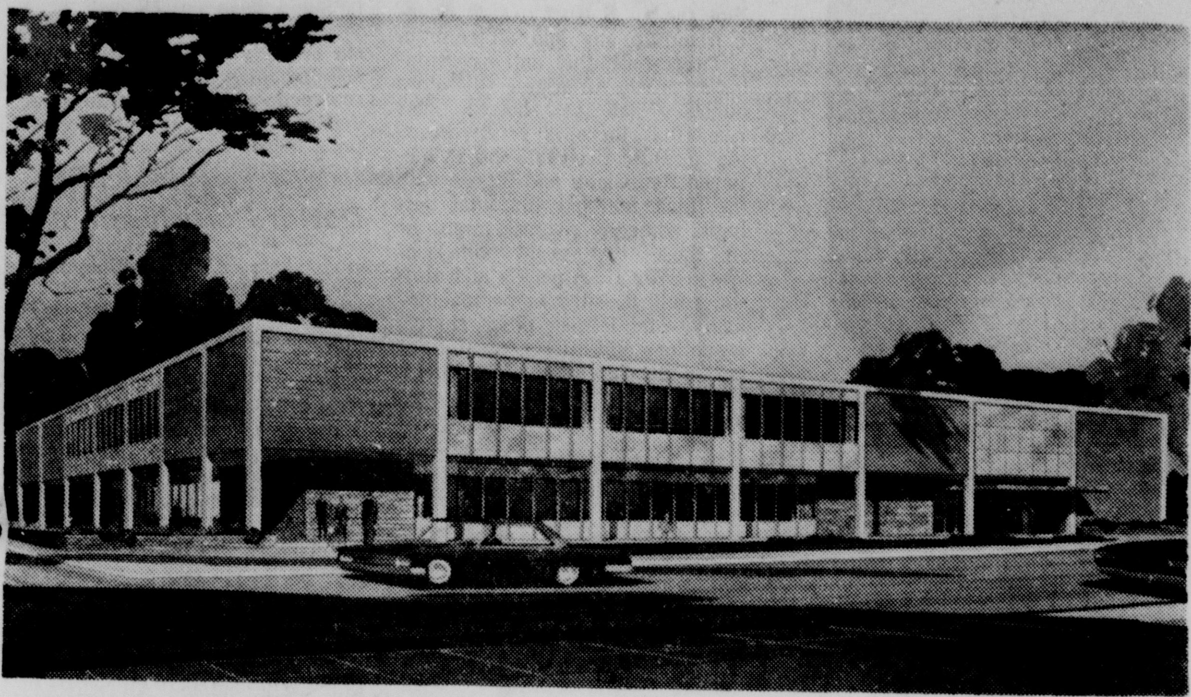
Northeast To Fete Historic Roster



SANDEL LIBRARY, shown here in an artist's sketch, is an $800,000 project now under construction at Northeast State. Named for Percy Sandel Sr., who before his death in 1931 was one of the strongest supporters for construction of a New Ouachita Parish Courthouse, a juvenile detention home, and a junior college in Monroe, the building will be one of the most complete library facilities in the South.

NORTHEAST STUDENTS enjoy the patio and outside verandas of a wing of Madison Hall, one of the air-conditioned buildings constructed during the current two-year building program at Northeast State valued in excess of $5,000,000. H. Flood Madison Sr., for whom the building was named, was a member of the Morehouse Parish School Board and of the State Board of Education. President of the Bastrop State Bank from 1900 until his death in 1926, he was also a member of the constitutional conventions of 1913-21.

AGRICULTURE

A CORNER ENTRANCE of Filhiol Hall, agriculture and home economics building at Northeast State, indicates the modernistic architecture that has been styled for Northeast's buildings. The building is named for Don Juan Filhiol, born in 1740 and died in 1821, who established Fort Miro, where Monroe now stands.

By JAMES (RED) PARRISH
Northeast State News Bureau Director

Northeast State will honor 15 prominent men and women for whom buildings and drives have been named and the nine authors of the principal legislation creating the college in a convocation here Friday afternoon.

The event will be open to the public, with the convocation program to start at 2 p.m. in Gunby Hall. A reception in Breard Hall will follow at 3 p.m., with the buildings to be open after the reception until 5 p.m.

The college's action follows a rapid increase in enrollment and facilities that makes Northeast one of the fastest growing colleges in Louisiana. Last fall the college had a total of 2,992 students, an all - time high. The total is a 13.3 per cent increase over the 2,641 enrolled the previous fall and is an increase of about 66 per cent in only five years.

OUTLOOK

The ratio of increased enrollment is expected to continue, and the college is faced with providing adequate facilities for a rapidly increasing student body. With four buildings now under construction, Northeast is nearing the completion of a two-year construction program in excess of $5,000,000.

In February the State Board of education approved names of four buildings to complete the naming of drives and buildings now at Northeast.

After legislation to be discussed later was passed, the Ouachita Parish School Board on Nov. 9, 1928, organized the Ouachita Parish Junior College District and called a special election for the purpose of voting a special tax of one mill for a period of ten years for the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of a junior college. The election was held on Dec. 12, 1928, and was carried by an overwhelming majority.

The college opened for its first session in 1931 in the first building, Brown Hall, named for T. O. Brown.

Men and women for whom other buildings and drives have been named and the buildings named for them are the following:

Biedenharn Hall, the fine arts building, named for Joseph Augustus Biedenharn, the first man to bottle Coca Cola. Born in 1866 and died in 1952, he was elected commissioner of streets and parks in 1921 and paved the first street in Monroe. As commissioner he also planted the oak trees in Forsythe Park and on Forsythe Avenue. In 1928 he sold to Monroe the grounds for Bernstein Park, and 20 years later he, with his family, gave for the forming of a country club the original grounds of Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Breard Hall, women's dormitory, named for Marquis John Louis Alexander de Breard, born in 1750 and died in 1830. Born in France, he entered the Navy at 14 and was captured in the war between England and France. After the war he brought a group of seven families to the United States and landed at New Orleans in the 1790's. Learning that his family, with whom he had lost contact, had settled at Fort Miro (now Monroe), he succeeded in obtaining a land grant for himself in this area. He served as assessor of Ouachita Parish, as it then existed with a population of 118 whites and 500 to 600 Indians.

FROM SWITZERLAND

Bry Hall, present library building, named for Henry Bry (pronounced Bree), born in Switzerland in 1781 and died in Ouachita Parish in 1850. At the time that Ouachita Parish was incorporated in 1807 the records show that he was parish judge. He was also a member of the convention of 1812 that framed the constitution preparatory to the state being admitted to the union. In 1811, he was one of the administrators of a school established on the original plat of Fort Miro. After the state legislature in 1837 authorized the corporation of private academies, Judge Bry was one of the first trustees of an academy in Monroe.

Caldwell Hall, pharmacy building, named for Stephen A. Caldwell, born in 1889 and died in 1956, a native of Bienville Parish, he devoted his adult life to public education. Dr. Caldwell served successively as principal of schools at Ringgold and Amite; superintendent in Morehouse Parish; instructor at Louisiana Tech, Brownsville (Tex.) Junior College, University of Texas, and Louisiana State University. He was acting dean of Northeast Junior College in 1936-37 and coordinator of junior colleges as dean of the junior division at LSU from 1944 until his death.

PIONEER

Cosper Hall, women's dormitory named for Anny Gray Cosper, born in 1841 and died in 1912, daughter of a Methodist minister, she was one of the first women in this area to hold a degree. She taught the first school in the colony 12 miles east of Monroe from 1860 to 1890. After her first husband, Dr. William Bloxom, had died, she went to Baltimore to look for a doctor for the Monroe community. Getting Dr. William Yeldell Cosper to come to Monroe, she later married him.

Filhoil Hall, agriculture and home economics building, named for Don Juan Filhiol, born in 1740 and died in 1821. Born in France, he traveled to San Domingo, thence to Philadelphia in 1779 and from there to New Orleans in the same year. He joined the volunteers to help Spain take Florida and Pensacola from Great Britain, and in 1783 was appointed by the king of Spain as a captain of the army and commandant of the militia at the post of Ouachita. He first established his post at what is now Camden, Ark., then in 1785 established Fort Miro, where Monroe now stands.

Garrett Hall, biology - geology building, named for Franklin Garrett, born in 1840 and died in 1896; born in Monroe, he served in the Second Louisiana Regiment in the Civil War. He taught school in Monroe, became chief clerk of the Senate enrolling committee of the first postbellum legislature in the state, and joined his father as a law partner and later served on the City Council, acted as city attorney and drafted many city laws. In 1880 he was requested by the council and private citizens to establish public schools in Monroe. In so doing he became one of the founders of the Monroe school system. In 1888 he was appointed to represent the Fifth Congressional District on the first State Board of Education — a position he held until his death.

TEACHER

Gunby Hall, cafeteria building, named for Andrew Augustus Gunby, born in 1849 and died in 1917; born in Georgia, he came to Louisiana at age 10 and was graduated from LSU in 1870. He taught school at Bastrop and Farmerville, then settled in Monroe after passing his bar examination. He is credited with the first move, in 1881, toward making LSU a coeducational institution. From 1884 to 1892 he served as judge on the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Harris Hall, women's dormitory, named for Susie West Harris, born in 1863 and died in 1926; a longtime resident of Monroe, she devoted her adult life to teaching young people. She started teaching in Claiborne Parish and in the late 1890's came to Monroe, where she accepted a position in the City School System. In 1900 she became a member of the faculty of the Ouachita Parish High School, a position she held for the rest of her life.

Madison Hall, men's dormitory, named for H. Flood Madison Sr., born in 1864 and died in 1926; a resident of Bastrop, he graduated from Tulane Law School in 1891. In 1900 he became president of Bastrop State Bank and held that post until his death. After graduating from Mississippi College in 1888, he taught school. He later became a member of the Morehouse Parish School Board and the State Board of Education. He was a member of the Boards of Trustees of Louisiana College at Pineville and Dodd College at Shreveport. He was a member of the constitutional conventions of 1913-21.

Mitchell Avenue, east - west street north of Brown Hall, named for William Rufus Mitchell, born in 1856 and died in 1927; born in Georgia, he came to Ouachita Parish in 1866. A postmaster in Cadeville for 17 years and a member of the Board of Trustees of Cadeville Normal School, he moved to West Monroe in 1895. A member of the Ouachita Parish School Board for approximately 20 years, he also served as president of the board. He was a landowner and planter in Ouachita and neighboring parishes and had business interests in a general merchandise store and a bank.

Nicholson Hall, men's dormitory named for Col. James W. Nicholson, born in 1844 and died in 1917; when only 16, he entered the Confederate Army. After his return he organized Arizona Seminary at Arizona, six miles from Homer. In 1877 he was elected to the chair of mathematics at LSU and became president of LSU in 1883. Since LSU was a military school, the governor conferred the title of colonel on him. He published numerous pamphlets on mathematics, and his textbook has been used extensively.

Renwick Circle, in front of Brown Hall, named for Joe Renwick, born in 1868 and died in 1942; born in Bastrop, he moved to Monroe in his childhood and for many years was successful in cotton operations and planting. After graduating from LSU in 1883, he returned to Monroe and was active in business. He was a member of the Parish School Board for 18 years and was president of the board for several years. He was a member of the City Council at the time of the erection of the City Hall and was also a member of the building committee when public utilities were inaugurated.

LIBRARY

Sandel Library, now under construction, named for Percy Sandel Sr., born in 1873 and died in 1931; a descendant of pioneer stock, he achieved a high place in Ouachita Parish affairs. In 1907 he was elected district attorney and in 1924 became judge of the Fourth Judicial District, comprising Ouachita and Morehouse Parishes. He was one of the 10 men who made possible the building of Camp Ki-Ro-Li, and he was one of the strongest supporters for construction of a new Ouachita Parish Courthouse and a juvenile detention home. He was a foremost lay leader in promoting the establishment of a junior college in Monroe, which later became Northeast Louisiana State College.

Stubbs Hall, the administration building, named for Frank Peter Stubbs, born in 1830 and died in 1908; born in Georgia, he moved to Ouachita Parish in 1847 and taught school for two years. After studying law in Monroe, he was admitted to practice by the Supreme Court in 1851. In 1864 he was appointed Confederate States Marshal for Louisiana — a post he held until the close of the war. He was an extensive landholder and held interests in several business enterprises. Although he was never a voluntary candidate for any office, he served as senator from 1876 to 1879 by choice of the people of his district.

FIRST SESSION

Northeast Louisiana State College opened for its first session in September, 1931, as Ouachita Parish Junior College and was operated as part of the Ouachita Parish school system. Principal legislative acts from 1928 to 1960 effected the development of the College, and the men who were active in writing this legislation are to be honored Friday afternoon at the convocation.

Act 173, Senate Bill 161, introduced by Senator W. C. Boone of the 27th Senatorial District, comprising Claiborne and Bienville Parishes, authorized parish school boards to create junior college districts and gave the right to levy taxes.

Act 231, Senate Bill 175, introduced by Senator James A. Noe, 30th Senatorial District, comprising Ouachita and Jackson Parishes, established Northeast Center of Louisiana State University at Monroe, and was approved by the governor on July 14, 1934.

Act 339, House Bill No. 450, introduced by T. J. Coenen Sr. (deceased) of Richland Parish, an amendment to and re - enactment of Section 1 of Act 231 of 1934 ratified the 1934 agreement establishing Northeast Center of LSU, approved by the governor on July 9, 1936.

Act 527, Senate Bill No. 306, authored by Messrs. John F. McCormick of West Monroe, Senator Brooks Oliver of Bastrop, and Senator Ralph E. King of Winnsboro (30th, 29th and 33rd senatorial districts, respectively) changed the name of Northeast Junior College of LSU to Northeast Louisiana State College, transferring it from the control of LSU to the State Board of Education, directing the State Board of Education to provide a school of higher education in the arts and sciences for the education of white children, approved by the governor on July 7, 1950.

Act 528, Senate Bill No. 307, authored by Senators McCormick, Oliver, and King, became effective only after Act 527 was passed, amended Section 10 of Title 17 of the Louisiana Revised Statutues of 1950: listed Northeast Louisiana State College under those administered by the State Board of Education; provided for transfer of facilities, assets, debts to the State Board, approved by the governor on July 8, 1950.

House Concurrent Resolution No. 14, by Messrs. Mike John Jr. and Lawrence Gibbs, representatives for Ouachita Parish, and Senator Jamar W. Adcock of the 30th Senatorial District, all of Monroe, authorized the State Board of Education to set up courses necessary to enable Northeast to grant the Master's Degree in Education, approved November 14, 1960.

EXPANSION

Since 1950, when the College became a four - year institution, Northeast has continued to expand in enrollment, curriculums, buildings, and facilities.

Curriculums are offered by Northeast in the following divisions: Business Administration, Education, Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, Pharmacy, and Pure and Applied Sciences.

The College also offers courses in the following pre - professional classifications: Pre - dentistry, pre - engineering, pre - forestry, pre - law, pre - medicine, pre-social work, pre - veterinary medicine, and pre - vocational agricultural education.

Thus the families of the men and women to be honored Friday at Northeast can be proud to visit a college that rapidly is gaining more and more prominence.

Woodchopping Sport Down Under

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the upside down world down under, woodchopping isn't a business or a necessity but a sport, and a big spectator one at that. Most of the woodsmen are cops or laborers or white-collar workers. Except for the champ. He really does cut lumber for a living. With a power saw.

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — How much wood can a woodchopper chop if a woodchopper only chops wood?

A lot of tall-timbered woodmen spend all their spare time trying to find out.

You and I might go for bowling or golf, tennis or baseball; their sport is woodchopping.

They spend their vacations competing in as many woodchopping carnivals as they can in Australia and New Zealand.

BIGGEST

The biggest woodchopping contest in Australia—and the world—is at Sydney's Royal Show, just recently over.

There were 120 axmen in all, from all over Australia and New Zealand, and one lone American, David Geer, who came all the way from Jewett City, Conn., just for the woodchopping.

These men are not professional timber workers who come to the city to show their skill.

They are husky policemen, sheep shearers, laborers, white-collar workers—and men who fell trees in the forests with portable power chain saws. Geer himself heads a construction company.

Woodchopping competition has been going on down under since the turn of the century, and it did originate with men from the forests trying to show they could fell a tree faster than the next man.

SPORT

Since then it has become a sport that includes scores of events — underhand chops, tree felling, big mitting, handicaps and world championships, all with logs of different sizes. There also is competition with crosscut saws, one-handed and two-handed.

Always the woodchopping attracts big crowds at the shows.

One of the odd things about woodchopping is that the youngsters of 30 or thereabouts generally aren't in the hunt. The champions mostly are 35 to 45.

The six finalists each carry two, three, or four razor-sharp axes, just as a top tennis player takes a handful of rackets onto the center court. Some even carried their axes in polished wooden boxes.

The axmen scrub the upright logs with water. "In case there is a bit of grit that would blunt the axe," explains an attendant.

Mervyn Youd, from Tasmania, seemed agonisingly slow as he determined precisely where to hit his log. The top toppled off after 25 blows, and there was another leader.

Salvation Army Week

As a closing ceremony of Salvation Army week, open house will be held this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the new Salvation Army building on Hart and Harrison Street in Monroe.

On hand to conduct visitors through the new building will be members of the Salvation Army board.

Salvation Army leaders, members of the board and others who have worked diligently in behalf of this worthy organization are to be commended on their success in bringing about the construction of such a good building for use in Salvation Army work and recreation.

A cartoon published in a national magazine not so long ago showed a small Salvation Army band on its way to an outdoor religious service. As it neared an outcast lying in the gutter, the band leader turned to his companions and said, "This'll be a good spot."

Besides pointing to a convenient illustration for a sermon on over indulgence, the cartoonist drew on a situation that has amused many of us at one time or another. The sight of fresh-faced, dedicated Salvationists, dressed in traditional uniforms, spreading God's word on a dirty street corner, inspires smiles by apparent incongruity.

At the same time the sight inspires respect. This religious group has ventured beyond the church building with its armor of sanctity in search of the wayward in their haunts, unpleasant though these so often are.

A facial expression of a companion sometimes indicates more than words, and we watch it to learn the other's mood, or true intent. But a more valid indicator of meaning are our hands, "the minds only perfect vassals," and servants of our thoughts.

Hands do, rather than promise, whether they lightly brush away a child's tears, or withdraw into fists, prepared for a fight.

The theme of national Salvation Army week is "Hands of Mercy," which is a concise summary of The Salvation Army's history. Since its founding in London in 1865, by William Booth, its officers and workers have extended countless merciful hands to the despairing, the troubled, and the afflicted all over the world.

They feed and clothe the filthy tramp we avoid; they have a noble record of caring for unwed mothers when society merely reviles them as scarlet women; they rush aid to disaster scenes; they counsel and salvage broken families; they search for lost loved ones.

In short, they apply their Christianity to active service, and we admire them for it.

The Salvation Army has proved itself many times over worthy of our respect and support. Let us demonstrate our appreciation of this fine organization.

Kennedy's Rich, Poor

A recent headline in the Washington, D. C., Star said: "Kennedy Rallies Rich, Poor." President Kennedy's actions are remindful of a Bible quotation which goes about like this: "The poor you have with you always but me you have not always."

Apparently the president's philosophy is that he hates the rich, of which he is one; that he forgets the middle class, composed mostly of substantial wage earners and businessmen, that he loves the poor because he thinks he can get their votes by promising them many things for nothing.

President Kennedy, who once said that "life is unfair," as if that were a new conception, divided his weekend in Manhattan between the cosseted and buffeted people of the world.

Saturday night at Madison Square Garden he laughed with the rich at a monster vaudeville show staged in honor of his 45th birthday. It is difficult to see how he could do much laughing because he is mad at the rich for making enough money to launch industries which provide enough jobs to keep most of us from being so poor that life seems unfair.

Sunday afternoon at the same place he commiserated with the poor at a rally in aid of medical care for the aged bill.

Saturday night's sleek and well-fed Democrats had dined well, if a trifle expensively even by New York standards, at $1,000 a plate and by doing so had wiped out with one stroke the Democrats' deficit.

Sunday afternoon's careworn legions were a different story. To them Kennedy said: "We depend on your help."

The irony of it is that under Kennedy's medi-care bill many of the "golden years" people who don't need help will get it while those who do need aid will be forced to pay a part of their medical expenses. It is really a movement toward general socialized medicine.

Urges Bypassing Court

Again the United States supreme court has run true to form in ruling in favor of persons suspected of communist activities. Because its ruling seemed largely to nullify any beneficial results that might come from congressional investigations of suspected espionage, one congressman suggested that congress bypass the supreme court and administer its own punishment to those guilty of contempt by reason of refusal to answer questions.

The supreme court reversed the convictions of six men sentenced to prison and fined for refusing to answer questions asked by congressional Red hunters.

Based on a legal technicality, the decision brought strong dissents from Justices John M. Harlan and Tom C. Clark.

Each case was decided on one question, said Justice Potter Stewart, speaking for the majority, adding:

"The grand jury failed to identify the subject under congressional committee inquiry at the time the witness was interrogated."

Thus, again seeking a loophole technicality, the majority of the court for the first time, he said, has laid down a specific requirement for contempt of congress prosecutions. The court previously had declared that congress has broad powers to investigate subversion and to cite balky witnesses for contempt.

With both the executive and the judicial branches of the government, as represented by the Kennedy administration and the supreme court, trying to usurp the powers of the legislative branch, as represented by congress, it seems time for congress to defend itself. The congressman may be right in saying congress should administer its own punishment.

President's Family Is Determined To Grab Still More Power

The battle of power in Washington is unceasing, but just now it is being obscured by the critical situation in southeast Asia and by the Billie Sol Estes imbroglio which has flared into the first official scandal to hit the Kennedy Administration.

Neither of those attention grabbing developments is directly involved with the continuing power fight, which is something more than the usual tug of war within government. For those who understand the determination which exists within the Kennedy family to gain power and more power, it portends a succession of major and minor battles between the President and Congress, the outcome of which will leave its imprint on the history of this country, just as the recurring debates over federal and states rights have since the adoption of the Constitution.

The Kennedy family is involved because Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father, now recuperating from a serious illness, has built his own powerful empire, which reflects no discredit upon him. Having attained his objective through determination, skill and a talent for gaining them through direct rather than devious routes, he has passed on to his sons a full appreciation of the desirability of complete authority in their chosen field, which of course is government.

President Kennedy is now engaged in an expanding battle with Congress to give the executive branch of the government greater power than it has ever held in United States history. His brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, has assumed greater authority as head of the Department of Justice than any of his peace time predecessors. And a third brother, Edward M. "Ted" Kennedy is now a candidate for United States Senator from Massachusetts.

Talk is heard in many quarters that the Kennedys intend to perpetuate themselves in the White House, but there is no outward indication that is true. However, Republicans will undoubtedly try to make some use of it in the 1962 congressional campaigns.

The opposition party in Congress, and some Democrats, are saying that if the President's requests are granted, Congress will have curtailed its own constitutional authority to an extent which would have been unbelievable in any previous peace time Administration. In support of this view, they point out that he seeks legislation giving him power to reduce tariffs by 50 per cent, to cut income taxes without consulting either the House Ways and Means Committee or the Senate Finance Committees, and to create a $2 billion dollar standby fund which he could use, at his own discretion if unemployment reaches what he considers to be a danger point.

He would do this by transferring funds allocated to five other agencies, up to $2 billion and would use them for the usual types of government public works, such as dams, bridges, and federal buildings.

If Congress should grant Kennedy's requests, he would take over some of the authority granted to Congress by the Constitution in three major and fundamental functions of government — taxation, tariffs and appropriations.

It is unlikely that his requests will be granted at this session of Congress. His predecessor, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, has joined the opposition effort to block these sweeping accretions of power, and a Senate coalition of Republicans and Democrats are determined to block the administration bills in the Senate.

Thus far, however, the President has demonstrated that his forceful personality and his political shrewdness can accomplish amazing things. His only major defeat on a proposal which he originated was on the creation of a Department of Urban Affairs.

Washington observers have come to realize that this is indeed a new era, with a younger man consistendly outmaneuvering older men, unaccustomed to a President who seeks more power and apparently knows how to acquire it.

But the older men are deeply concerned, just as they have been in every period of history. They foresee that once power is concentrated in the White House, it will not be nearly as difficult for the President to name his successor, even if it be his own brother.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Dr. Linus C. Pauling came to Washington recently and proved once again that, as a realist and as a cold-war strategist, he is a great chemist.

No one will argue with the fact that Dr. Pauling knows a great deal about chemistry. After all, he received the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 and is an acknowledged leader in this important scientific field.

But over the years, this distinguished scientist has provided his countrymen with ample evidence that he is utterly reckless and naive in his attitude toward the international balance of power, the realities of Communist world objectives and the measures which our country must take in all areas to counter the Soviet threat.

Right now, Dr. Pauling is lending his considerable prestige to the pacifist movement, which is busily belaboring the United States government for its enforced, if reluctant, resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere. He began earlier than some of the other pacifists by sending President Kennedy a telegram in March which asked the following question:

"Are you to give the orders that will cause you to go down in history as one of the most immoral men of all times and one of the greatest enemies of the human race?"

I suggest that this is not only strong language to direct to the President of the United States, but it is also insulting and arrogant. In fact, it is so unfair to the President and so unworthy of a renowned scientist that I believe the White House would have been justified in dropping Dr. Pauling from the list of Nobel Prize winners in the Western Hemisphere invited to dinner with President and Mrs. Kennedy on April 29.

But the fact remains that the President chose to overlook Dr. Pauling's ill-advised message. The scientist was invited to the affair even though his host, by reason of his decision to resume atmospheric tests, now qualified in Pauling's estimation as "one of the greatest enemies of the human race."

And, of course, Dr. Pauling attended the White House function, but not before adding insult to injury in a way that added immeasurably to his reputation for exhibitionism and discourtesy. On the afternoon of the dinner, he joined a pacifist picket line and demonstrated in front of the White House. Then he donned black tie, crossed his own ban-the-bomb picket line and attended the President's dinner.

It never seemed to occur to the Nobel Prize winning scientist that, in ordering a resumption of nuclear tests, the President of the United States was acting to preserve the kind of freedom which permits a man to picket the White House and then, a few hours later, enter it as a honored guest of the Chief Executive.

It strikes me that if Dr. Pauling believes half of what he says he believes, he wouldn't have the gall to show up for the White House dinner. While it is true that most guests invited to a Presidential function feel almost duty-bound to accept, there have been numerous instances where they haven't.

But if he hadn't accepted the invitation, perhaps there wouldn't have been as many photographers present to snap his picture as he smiled and demonstrated on the picket line.

How do you stand, sir?

Today is Sunday, May 27, the 147th day of the year with 218 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1860, Giuseppe Garibaldi invaded Sicily with 1,000 "red shirts" and captured Palermo in his drive to take over the kingdom of Naples.

In 1933, the Century of Progress Exposition opened in Chicago.

In 1937, a one-week celebration marked the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco Bay.

In 1941, after a pursuit of some 1,700 miles, four British battleships torpedoed and sank the German battleship Bismarck.

A thought for the day: Florentine statesman Machiavelli said: "Fortune is the arbiter of half of our actions, but she still leaves us to direct the other half."

Rank Propaganda

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

Government by television, that's what we're getting. If you can stomach rank propaganda, get up early and watch the Today show. If you're as gullible as a goose you will begin to believe that the U. S. should give financial aid to any and all communist dictators; that anti - communist, pro - American dictators ought to all be shot at sunrise; that there is gently brewing a most desirable break between Red China and Russia with the faint, feathery hint that perhaps, someday, it just might be so those two great allies of World War II, America and Russia, could possibly come together again. And lots of other shams, deceptions and misrepresentations too numerous to elucidate here. However, at present the airwaves are also using blockbuster tactics to put across the desirability of Medicare, and since this big push is so obvious we won't dwell on it.

Monday's Today Show was graced by the elegant, wavy-haired Dr. Cheddi Jagan, president of British Guiana, making his pitch for U. S. aid for his pro - communist government. The cunning conversation went something like this: Newsman: "Are you a Marxist?" Jagan: "Yes. I think socialism is the best system yet devised for the betterment of mankind." Newsman: "If the U. S. doesn't give you the money you're seeking would you turn to Russia?" Jagan: "Yes. We've got to get the money from somewhere. Where we get it has nothing to do with ideology and we will accept no dictation from whoever gives the money." Meaning we're already sold on Russian communism but if we take your money we won't like your system a bit better so don't expect anything from us. And Dr. Jagan was so pretty.

There was a neat bit of trickery. American grassroots opinion was being gulled for acquiescence in giving U. S. Taxpayer money to another communist dictator. In case there were any balky "extremists" or "America Firsters" around, those two actors employed the much - used artificial tactic of threatening the dangerous consequence of allowing a country to accept aid from Russia. We can't allow that because the Kremlin would then try to communize the country accepting aid. How stupid do they take us to be? The man had just said he was a Marxist; a handout from Russia would not make him more of a Marxist and it certainly would not make him less so. The entire by - play was a bit of stage-setting for what the news media think is the stupid American people's ability to swallow anything. Since this aid thing seems to work in reverse we ought to start agitating Congress to let Russia give the money and thereby cause countries to fall to Capitalism!

You can just bet that the propaganda boys on TV will never present the man who went to Russia recently to live in the Worker's Paradise (David Johnson) but returned after a few days because of misrepresented conditions there.

Doctor Participation

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I am prompted to write this letter as a result of the running battle that seems to be developing between Mr. Abraham Ribicoff, President Kennedy and others, and the vast majority of the Medical Profession and in order to prevent misunderstanding and biased criticism, I should like to make our statement of principles clear to whomever might be interest.

I feel that the Medical Profession believes in PARTICIPATION. We have always believed in PARTICIPATION. And I mean that we intend to PARTICIPATE in the practice of the best quality of medicine of which we are capable. We intend to PARTICIPATE in wholesome doctor - patient relationship. We will PARTICIPATE in the treatment of any and all patients and do not intend to see a single individual go unattended, be he rich or be he poor. A wholesome doctor - patient relationship automatically forbids any third party interference and this we will not tolerate.

As a whole I believe the Medical Profession is as loyal a group of Americans as exists. We love our country. We do not want to see it sliding precipitously down the toboggan course as laid out by those who would bring our entire nation under government edict and control. However, our only way to fight this battle is through encouragement to our Senators and Representatives to attempt in every way possible to stem this tide. This we also intend to do. However, we do not have direct control over this situation.

We do have control, however, over the doctor - patient relationship. And this we intend to preserve intact, that relationship which has existed through all the past generations and has been beyond the shadow of a doubt to be the finest that exists on the face of the earth.

Very truly yours
Fred A. Marx, M.D.

German Disbelief

Hostility By Kennedy And State Department Destroys Trust

A source very close to the German Foreign Office reports that relations between the United States and Germany are far worse than we have been led to believe. If they deteriorate much further, there is more than a possibility that the whole structure of the Western alliance will collapse.

This, on the face of it, is an alarmist prediction. But the facts would indicate that it has some validity. The root cause is Germany's growing loss of faith in America's determination to stand by its cold war commitments in Europe. The German Foreign Office is also deeply distressed by evidence of hostility on the part of President Kennedy and the State Department. This hostility has been manifested in a series of notes handed by the U. S. Ambassador at Bonn to the government which were so harsh and undiplomatic that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had to be persuaded not to refuse to accept them. German concern is also fed by a growing series of books and movies which depict the postwar Germans in racist terms as being inherently totalitarian.

In the past, Mr. Adenauer had complete confidence in America's European policies. He trusted the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and much of his strength derived from the fact that the German people shared that trust. But he and his advisers are now reluctantly coming to the conclusion that President Kennedy is ready to by - pass the Western alliance and to come to a bilateral "accomodation" with the Soviet Union which will seriously compromise and jeopardize the defense of Germany and of non-Communist Europe. Whether this is true is not the point. It is what the Germans believe.

Comrade Krushchev has strenuously argued that there are only two real powers in the world today — the Soviet Union and the United States. If these two great monoliths could get together, according to the Soviet line, they could cut up the world pie between themselves and arrive at some kind of Pax Sovietica. The Germans believe that President Kennedy has been contemplating this possibility — that he will eventually "negotiate" on West Berlin and East Germany to the detriment of the Bonn government and NATO.

According to my source, a highly reliable one, this is the official German reaction:

"If the United States is ready to make a deal with the Communists, we are left with two alternatives. First, we can make our own deals with the Soviet Union. If we speak for ourselves, they will be much more advantageous than if we are pawns of American policy. By hard bargaining, we might even be able to exchange 'neutralism' for the return of East Germany. Second, we could make a strong alliance with the French, who are equally disenchanted about the United States, and form the nucleus of a new power bloc which would stand up to the Soviets but cut loose from NATO and the other Western powers. If we move in that direction, we would be rid of the British, who still think they are back in the Nineteenth Century and can manipulate the rest of the world. Such a power bloc would attract Italy, despite the 'swing to the left' of the present government, and Spain."

The first alternative would be a crushing blow to U.S. prestige. It would undermine U.S. influence throughout the world and encourage other countries to make independent accommodations with the Communist empire. The second, as the Germans recognize, involves serious dangers. For the future of France raises many questions. Though there has been little pertinent news from Paris and Algiers on this point, those whose knowledge of the situation goes beyond what the papers print say that it is touch - and - go for President de Gaulle. Since the arrest of General Salan, the last moderating influence has been removed from the Secret Army command. I have spoken to some of the SAO's friends. They predict that the possibility that de Gaulle may be assassinated is a very real one. This could lead to open civil war in France. And then there would be more than an outside chance that the "new France" might be a Red one. If this happens, then the Franco-German alliance — and President de Gaulle's dream of a European third force of sovereign states — will go out the window.

CRITICAL AREA OF ASIA — Map locates southeast Asia where U.S. is moving to keep the area from going Communist. Troops have been sped to Thailand (1) and close to Laos border. AP WRITER CLAIMS

U.S. Lays Cards On Table In Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States has laid more of its cards on the table to keep Southeast Asia from going Communist.

There is little betting either way whether President Kennedy's new approach to this critical area of Asia will succeed. The real decision on the success or failure of U.S. moves in Southeast Asia likely lies with what the Communists do or try to do.

The United States has put 2,000 troops into Thailand, close to the Laos border. Not all officials agree that this show of force was necessary, since recent Communist advances in Laos apparently were not aimed at a complete takeover. There is some speculation that the military move in Thailand disturbed the balance in Laos, where the United States is seeking a negotiated settlement based on the formation of a truly neutral government.

Supporters of Kennedy's decision say the move was necessary to show the Communists that Laos—if it cannot be kept from their hands—is not to become a launching point for further military and subversive moves into Southeast Asia.

U.S. troops in Thailand appear destined to be here for some considerable time. They add another link in the American military cordon facing the giant Communist China to the north.

The U.S. moves in Thailand may spark a settlement in Laos but there are wide gaps of disagreement among the Lao factions. The outlook for keeping Laos in the pro-Western camp is dismal. The Communists virtually control the northern part of the country. The chances of a really neutralist government's succeeding are slim. Yet the Kennedy administration's approach to the problem may be the best left open to it.

If there is any reason for cautious optimism from the West's viewpoint, it is in South Viet Nam. The effect of military aid and of the guerrilla warfare training by American advisors is beginning to be felt. Success will have to be measured in years, as in the 12-year campaign against the Communists in Malaya. The war will end when the Viet Cong have been eliminated or pushed into Communist North Viet Nam.

In another sector the United States is attempting to mediate the West New Guinea dispute—with little success so far.

War drums beat in Jakarta while Indonesian infiltrators parachute into New Guinea. The Dutch have resisted the intruders and strengthened their defenses.

While turmoil extends from north to south in Southeast Asia, neutralist Cambodia and neutralist Burma have remained aloof from becoming embroiled in recent developments.

Cambodia's diplomatic relations with Thailand remain broken over a border dispute. There has been no official reaction to the movement of American troops into Thailand.

Burma, with Gen. Ne Win again in control, is preparing to launch its own version of socialism. It is not happy about the American troops in Thailand. There is fear that unrest in neighboring countries might generate increased trouble from rebel elements within Burma.

SMALL BATTLE WON

Fight For Health Now Worldwide

GENEVA (AP)—The fact that land values are rising in Cambodia is hardly world-shaking news, but hundreds of medical men gathered here find it a symbol of success in the greatest public health operation ever undertaken.

It means that mankind has won another small battle in a total war against the ancient scourge malaria.

Similar victories are being disclosed at the annual assembly of the World Health Organization. The WHO-directed program of malaria eradication, largely subsidized by American contributions, reports:

1. More than 700 million people are affected by the program.

2. Tens of thousands of square miles of land have been opened up for settlement by clearing infested zones.

3. Since the program was started in 1955, the number of people who annually fall ill from malaria has dropped from 250 million to 140 million.

4. The number of malaria deaths per year went down from two million to one million.

But V-Day is still many years away, WHO officials warn.

Malaria, characterized by high fever, weakness and often fatal liver disturbances, was known and dreaded in Biblical times. For thousands of years people were helpless against the disease they blamed on the foul smells arising from stagnant waters. Malaria is Italian for bad air.

The true cause of malaria was discovered less than 90 years ago. A blood parasite is passed on from one person to another by only one agent. The female anopheles mosquito sucks it up with the blood of an infected person and then infects a healthy person.

This discovery identified the anopheles as the main enemy. It took another half century before DDT insecticide gave malaria fighters an effective weapon.

Then the anopheles developed resistance against the insecticide in some regions.

This was an alarm signal. Piecemeal use of DDT created the danger of developing a new strain of anopheles immune to the insecticide. This immunity could mean final defeat in the battle against malaria. To meet the threat, WHO in 1955 proclaimed a coordinated global operation.

"It is a real all-out war," says Argentina's Dr. Carlos Alvarado, director of the malaria eradication division. "Half measures mean defeat."

His 423 international experts cooperate with thousands of local helpers. They must spray millions of huts and houses, check millions of blood samples, and feed drugs to countless people.

Red Grip On Hanoi Dims City's Glow

EDITOR'S NOTE— One day in 1954 Hanoi was there, a living city where West mingled busily with East. The next it was gone, another lost world behind the Iron Curtain. But one of the few who have been there since and returned reports how the Red grip has squeezed the life from a city.

By BEVERLY DEEPE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—He'd only been gone six days. But it was enough.

"I felt like getting drunk," said the traveler after returning from the once gay, prosperous land of North Viet Nam.

"The entire atmosphere in the north is impersonal and distressing," he said. "You feel pity for the people and what they're in for. What life affords me, they can never have. They have no say in their own lives.

"There was not a smile on the face of any one," he continued. "It seems as though they were moving like machines. You oil a machine and it works, but without human variations."

RARE TRAVELER

Hardly anyone from the free world goes to North Viet Nam and its capital, Hanoi, any more. The traveler was a rare find. He asked me not to disclose his name, nationality or even occupation.

He had flown to Hanoi by Aigle Azure Orient, a French-owned and operated airline that seems to specialize in leapfrogging from one world boiling point to another. The airline, under contract to the International Control Commission which supervises the 1954 Geneva truce agreement, stops at Phnom Pehn, Cambodia and Vientiane, Laos, on its way to Hanoi. It is the only connection between the divided halves of what was once French Indochina.

Hanoi, for many years the lively political and intellectual capital of Indochina, was famous for its night spots and cultural attractions.

"You should see the beautiful French buildings now," the traveler said. "They're in terrible shape, having been white-washed. And in the old French villas, a whole family lives, eats, and sleeps in only one room.

"On the streets not one person was dressed in rich clothes," he said, "but not one was in tatters either."

The traveler counted only five cars in North Viet Nam during his six-day stay.

"You could sleep right in the middle of the street without fear of being disturbed," he said. "Buses, trams, bicycles and walking are the people's transport. There were no motorcycles. Here in Saigon you can't even sleep in your own room with all the traffic below."

CITY OF DEAD

He said he had seen a few stray military vehicles but no convoys, which he was told moved at night.

The traveler and a friend walked for an hour to find a small restaurant.

"We finally found a small shop that was probably an elegant French restaurant in the old days. It was very austere, with small wooden benches and stools, but it had Vietnamese music. The waitresses, who spoke French, put on four or five records for us of old French tunes and fast American music of the 1920s.

He said the girls who used to work in Hanoi's bars and night clubs "are now in the coal mines. You wouldn't dare try to strike up a friendship with a woman in North Viet Nam. She'd just disappear. You would not ask what happened to her—or you would go to the same place she did."

He said the women in the northern half of the former French colony all were dressed in black trousers and white blouses. They wore no cosmetics or fingernail polish, as Saigon women usually do.

"I saw only one woman in a dress," he said, "and she was the wife of a government employe at an official social function."

He was told each North Vietnamese is issued only six meters of clothing material a year.

Despite the grimness, he reported, Hanoi still had a little romance left.

"I was surprised to find lovers sitting on park benches late at night," he said. "It was rare, but it was there."

He told of long working hours and rigid discipline of the North Vietnamese, which he attributed to fear. Factory and office personnel begin work at 5:30 a.m. and stop at 7 p.m., with a lunch break from 11:30 to one each day, he said.

OVERCROWDED CITY

Hong Kong Hit By Red Refugees

HONG KONG (AP)— The little Diesel switch engine and its string of ten passenger crowded coaches made the 2½ mile trip six times one day.

At the end of the line the passengers got out and trudged across a wood planked bridge that had a guardhouse, flying a yellow starred red flag at the far end.

Hong Kong sent 6,000 refugees back to Red China that day. Somewhere among them was a middle - aged Chinese peasant woman who, when caught by a Hong Kong border police patrol the day before, had bitterly shouted, "You are sending us back to starve."

Hunger now and fear of famine to come sent upwards of 60,000 flooding across Hong Kong's twisting 22-mile long border since May 1. They forded rivers, climbed rock-strewn cliffs, tore down fences, crawled under barbed wire. They crossed in twos and threes and by dozens in mass waves of 500 to a thousand at a time.

Some 55,000 were rounded up by police and soldiers and sent back by a Hong Kong government that has absorbed nearly 1.5 million refugees in the past 14 years and has no room, facilities or money to absorb more.

Some 8,000 to 10,000 were believed to have escaped the helicopter-guided patrols and lost themselves among Hong Kong's 3.5 million people. Some will find jobs but most are unskilled peasant farmers who will become a further burden upon Hong Kong—which spent 30 per cent of its total budget in 1961 and will spend 35 per cent this year on housing, health, education, welfare facilities and services for refugees already here. In the past six years Hong Kong has built 11 huge resettlement housing projects and moved 440,000 refugees into modern ferro-concrete apartments.

But a half million still live in the squatter area in tarpaper shacks, another 80,000 in huts on rooftops, and 10-15,000 sleep in the streets.

The refugee situation has not been entirely one-sided. Hong Kong owes part of its postwar industrial growth to those political refugees who fled the Communist takeover of the mainland.

The rich ones brought capital which they sank into new businesses and factories. The poor ones supplied a surplus of cheap labor and made it possible for Hong Kong products to undersell competing nations on the world markets.

Yet out of approximately 1.25 million employables, about 45,000 are unemployed and 200,000 underemployed. Entire families eke out a bare subsistence by having everyone from a pre-school grandchild to a grandmother twisting artificial flowers or weaving bamboo. The bulk of the unskilled Kwangtung peasants who tried to reach Hong Kong in May would have been largely unemployable.

There is no farm land left to till, little need for coolie labor, and the cottage industries of artificial flowers and woven bamboo are beginning to glut the market.

Meanwhile the human flood continued to pound at the gates.

A refugee who reached Hong Kong in midweek said a Communist guard ignored him as he waded the Shumchun border river and crawled under Hong Kong's boundary fence.

"The word went all through our village that the guards would not try to stop us and they did not," the escapee, 23, told relatives, who passed the story on to newsmen. He said he did not know who brought the report to his village. He said he had spent several days with would-be refugees from other villages and they all had gotten similar reports. He said he and the others had no idea why the Communist authorities were allowing them to cross freely.

The question also puzzled Western diplomats trying to assess the Communist motives. A number believe that the Reds saw propaganda value, both at home and overseas, in letting hungry people batter at Hong Kong's door and then be refused admittance. They point out that there was no Red border relaxation until after Hong Kong publicly announced in mid-April it was going to send all escapees back. Some believe the Communists saw a good opportunity to embarrass Hong Kong and the Free World and at the same time dim the beacon of hope which Hong Kong has always been for mainland Chinese in time of trouble.

CONVICTED WAR CRIMINAL

Krupp Probably World's Richest

By JOHN WEYLAND

ESSEN, Germany (AP) — Alfried Krupp, once a convicted war criminal but now perhaps the world's richest man, is within grasp of final victory in a long struggle to save his great industrial empire.

What he will do with it eventually, however, is a question mark in Germany today.

In victory 17 years ago the World War II Allies feared Krupp's concentration of power as a menace to the peace of Europe. They confiscated all the farflung holdings.

Reduced to poverty and disgrace, Krupp was put into prison under a 12-year sentence for using slave labor and plundering conquered territories to produce instruments of war at his mines, factories and shipyards.

It was a dramatic reversal of fortune for the fifth generation head of an industrial dynasty whose wealth, power and fame were unrivaled in Germany.

Today, thanks to the changing times, Krupp is once again a free man worth more than a billion dollars by conservative estimate. He has reacquired the position he held before his world crumbled around him in 1945.

There is one exception.

While cutting his prison sentence in 1951 and restoring all his properties, the United States, Britain and France insisted that Krupp give up half his empire by selling coal and iron operations at Rheinhausen in the Ruhr Valley.

This was to end his absolute control over production from raw materials to finished goods, a massing of economic power then considered potentially dangerous to democracy in West Germany.

Krupp agreed to make the sale no later than Jan. 31, 1959.

Before that time arrived, West Germany was established as a trusted ally of its onetime enemies. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, arguing that the agreement was based on outdated policy, pleaded for nonenforcement. Krupp himself, free to set any price he chose, protested that no qualified buyer ever turned up.

Under these circumstances the deadline was repeatedly extended. The newest date is July 31 this year.

The expectation prevails that no serious attempt will ever be made to force Krupp to comply. The three governments, should they make a surprise decision to get tough, would have a hard time finding a court to hear the Krupp case.

Meanwhile, Krupp employs 115,000 persons and makes 3,500 products from diesel engines to false teeth.

Now 54, Krupp lives an apparently lonely and quiet life here. Two marriages ended in divorce. He finds his greatest pleasure in amateur photography and fast cars.

Hints are being dropped that he is considering a complete break with the tradition that has given the Krupp firm its unique status of a private enterprise passed on in kingly succession to a single heir.

Because this has drawn public attention, making Krupp stand out from other German industrialists, he reportedly may turn his firm into a corporation. This would give it the faceless character of other great modern businesses.

Unless a change is made, Krupp's only child, Arndt, will one day take over his father's position. A bright and good-looking 23-year-old, Arndt is studying business administration at the University of Cologne.

Engrossing Book On The Forests

WHOSE WOODS THESE ARE. By Michael Frome. Doubleday. $5.95.

Here is a combination volume—a blend of history, personalities, anecdotes, opinions and a general guidebook—all related to the National Forests.

Because Frome starts with a brief background of the land-grabbing era and the pioneer forest-saving efforts of Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot — Franklin D. Roosevelt gave a later assist —the reader soon gets a perspective on the Forests (which are different from the National Parks).

The author does not limit himself to the views of the government and the conservationists. He brings in the specialized interests of timber, mining, water, recreation, grazing and science, as well as the ideas of sportsmen and naturalists.

Most of the book is a running description, well written, of wilderness beauty at first hand. There also are engrossing personality stories. For example, about Woody, the barefoot ranger and his practical ways; mountain climbers, canoeists, an earthquake specialist, smokejumpers and many others.

Frome knows his economics and politics, labels his opinions frankly, and for good measure writes like a poet and naturalist in his appreciation of the Great Outdoors.

Critic Says We Can't Have Fun

THE DECLINE OF PLEASURE. By Walter Kerr. Simon and Schuster. $5.

The grim thesis of this book is that the American society has lost the knack for real play and fun, and has substituted synthetics for taste and discrimination.

Kerr comes to the unhappy conclusion that we are engrossed in "entertainment" rather than cultural realization.

If his conclusions are grim, at least his exposition is not. He spreads forth his ideas in a garb of wit and keen observation, leavened with humor and the sardonic touch.

Kerr gets a strong argument going, that modern society has been betrayed by adherence to the position of a 19th Century economic philosopher, Jeremy Bentham, who asserted that the real worth of anything was determined by its utility. According to Bentham, even pleasure was to be evaluated by the yardstick of usefulness.

And as the author points out, Bentham was followed by John Stuart Mill, who tried irrationally to excuse the pleasure of the arts and the esthetic senses on the ground that they were indulged in by worthy men.

The 20th Century aftermath of this utilitarian philosophy, Kerr goes on, has been a general feeling of guilt whenever we are enjoying ourselves. We drive ourselves into "recreation" because it has useful therapeutic values, and let it go at that. At the same time we have reached the deplorable belief that "If a little taste is unimportant, a lot of taste is twice as unimportant."

Kerr is disturbed by the thought that in the younger generation we may have reached a mutation where (intellectual or esthetic) enjoyment is a zero quantity submerged in boredom. Unfortunately, he fails to come up with any of those things the sociologists call "remedial measures."

The author, drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune, is a cultured man who writes epigrammatically and with a fine flourish. Slow-minded readers would be lost in these pages, but quick-minded creatures will find here a good many striking observations by a discerning writer.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Books Are Very Interesting

By FRANCES FLANDERS

A new title by Herman Wouk is always an event in the publishing world. His latest book is a large book of fiction called "Youngblood Hawke." Mr. Wouk is a natural story teller, but his central character in this book is not as convincing as those in his earlier novels such as "Marjorie Morningstar" and "The Caine Mutiny." This book covers many places and many people and it will appeal to many readers, but the central character is not quite believable. A very unusual book is "Death of a Highbrow" by Frank Swinnerton. It deals with one day in the life of an octogenarian, a man who stands at the pinnacle of his career as critic, essayist, arbiter of taste in the world of belles letters. It begins with the funeral services for his bitterest literary enemy and through flashbacks and recollections the whole world of their past comes alive. Mr. Swinnerton is a novelist of high repute and only one with his background could have written such a book.

NEW TITLE

Mystery story readers will welcome a new title by Rex Stout, called "Homicide Trinity." It includes three new stories about the inimitable Nero Wolfe and his assistant Archie Godwin. Ian Fleming has received much publicity as a writer of mystery stories since it has become known that he is one of President Kennedy's favorites. His latest title is called 'The Spy Who Loved Me" and is an exciting story of international intrigue and adventure.

Frank Slaughter has written several novels with a Biblical theme and his latest one is "David; Warrior and King." This story based on the Old Testament account is a colorful one, full of pagentry and action. One feels that Mr. Slaughter has not truly understood the character of David, but he has produced a book which will be popular with his many readers. "A Long and Happy Life" is a first novel by Reynolds Price. It has a Southern setting and has received much critical acclaim. It will interest many readers. "For the Time Beingf," by Julie Siebel is a quiet novel with the setting in Post War Kansas. It has a depth of perception which will recommend it to a large group of readers.

MANY REQUESTS

A book for which the library has had many requests and which we are happy to have for our readers is an account of the "C.I.A." written by Andrew Tully. He knows what he is writing about and does it well. This book should appeal especially to men. A book which is certain to be popular with women and girls is "The Polly Bergen Book of Beauty, Fashion and Charm." It contains many wonderful suggestions and every woman who wants to be more attractive can get some pointers from it. A very humorous book is "How to Talk at Jin" written by Ernie Kovacs, who lost his life so tragically several months ago. One of the outstanding books to come out about Russia in 1961 is "House Without a Roof" by Maurice Hindus. People who have visited that country give it high praise. If you really want to know what life in Russia is like, don't miss "House Without a Roof."

Books about World War II are becoming more and more popular. The latest one is "Ploesti; the Great Ground-Air Battle" written by James Dugan. The author has painted an unforgettable picture of that earth-shaking event and there are many men and boys who will want to read this book. "Six Crises" is the title of the new book by Richard Nixon, which gives an account of his political life. It is a book for the student of the times.

WILL BE HAPPY

Many readers will be happy to know that the Library has two new books about Senator Goldwater. One was written by Stephen C. Shadegg and is a good biography of this national figure. It is called "Barry Goldwater; Freedom is High Flight Plan." The other is written by Senator Goldwater himself and is called "Why Not Victory?" In this book the author takes a fresh look at American foreign policy. There are two significant autobiographies among this week's new titles. One is "A Bridge for Passing" by Pearl S. Buck. In this book she tells of her grief at the loss of her husband and how a sojourn in Japan helped her back to normalcy. The other is "George," the autobiography of the Welsh actor, George Emlyn Williams. Everyone who has seen him on the stage will want to read this book.

Two recent additions to the Genealogy collection were gifts to the Library. One is "Descent of Henry Head" by Idress Alvord and the other is "The Sessions Family in America" by Francis C. Sessions. Both of these books were given to the Library by Mrs. Beatrice Rhymes Earle, just a few weeks before her home was destroyed by fire. If you have rare books of this type, you might consider the safety of the Library for them.

Singers Sought In U.S. For British Play

NEW YORK (AP) — American actors can't talk Cockney but they do sing better than English performers, according to director Peter Coe.

Here from Britain to audition players for a pending presentation of "Oliver!," Coe appraised the skills of about 1,500 aspirants.

"Every actor or actress who came along sang better than any actor did in London," he declared.

TAX ADVANTAGES OF LIFE INSURANCE

People are not moved to buy life insurance because of its tax advantages. Life insurance is bought for love, for replacement of one's economic value to his family, for peace of mind, for financial independence, for estate conservation, for sound business purposes. But when people buy life insurance for these reasons, they automatically acquire tax-favored property . . . something of which many are not aware.

The fact that life insurance receives favorable treatment is no accident. The federal government has done this for economic and social considerations . . . to stimulate people to provide for their families' future and their own; to encourage working people to supplement and extend their social security benefits; to foster thrift; to preserve businesses and conserve estates; to instill a sense of family and social responsibility.

Below are just a few of many tax advantages of life insurance which make an already wise and wonderful investment that much more appealing.

TAX-FREE ACCUMULATIONS

A permanent plan of insurance provides a cash value which is constantly growing and is earning compound interest. This annual increase in the policy's cash value, much of which is due to the consistently good investment earnings of the life insurance company, is not taxable income to the insured.

ESTATE TAX FREE

For some people, this tax advantage of life insurance is, perhaps, its most important tax advantage. An individual whose estate faces an ultimate shrinkage because of the federal estate tax can purchase insurance on his life, give up its ownership but continue to pay the premiums, and remove it from his taxable estate. To make sure that the proceeds will not be taxed in his estate, the insured cannot name his estate or executor beneficiary of the policy, or retain any incidents of ownership such as the right to change the beneficiary, or to borrow the policy's cash value.

In general, by removing life insurance from his taxable estate, but maintaining it with his own funds, an estate owner can save thousands of dollars in federal estate taxes, and leave his family more of what he has worked so hard to attain.

TAX-FREE DEATH PROCEEDS

When an insured dies, his life insurance proceeds, under ordinary circumstances, are received by his beneficiary free of the federal income tax. This is one of the most important tax advantages of life insurance.

MISSISSIPPI OIL

Pan-Am Continues Testing Of Wildcat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Corp. continued production tests at a Monroe County wildcat this week in an effort to evaluate the commercial worth of oil shows logged. A gas blow two weeks ago cut off tests for a short while.

The Watson No. 1, sec. 32-15s-7e, located about three miles southeast of the Muldon Gas field, was perforated to a zone at 5,724-27 feet with swabbing operations underway.

The wildcat could bring about increased wildcat drilling activity in the Black Warrior Basin if completed as a commercial oil well in the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi.

Pure Oil Co. is below 12,600 feet in the Kemper County wildcat, the Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e. Contract depth is 15,000 feet, and it would be the deepest test drilled in that section of the state.

A half-mile east of the producing limits of the 20-year-old Pickens Field in Yazoo County, Mississippi-Tex Producers and Max B. Andrae are below 7,400 feet after coring oil sand at 5,031-61 feet in the Bridgforth No. 1, sec. 29-12n-3e.

It is reported that mud log shows have been encountered in three different zones below 5,200 feet that were not cored. The well is scheduled to be drilled to 8,200 feet which should be sufficient depth to test the Rhodessa zone.

The Pickens Field to date is entirely productive from the Eutaw zone at about 5,000 feet.

In Franklin County, Griffin, Kelly E. Byrne are continuing to run production tests at the Steward No. 1, sec. 29-6n-2e, wild cat, near the abandoned Roxie Field.

Operators are testing an oil sand in the Wilcox formation from a perforated interval at 6,239-41 feet, with reports that the well is flowing an unestimated amount of oil.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. is below 11,600 feet in the Franklin No. 1, sec. 4-4n-8e, a Greene County wildcat logged slight shows of oil of undetermined commercial worth below 8,200 feet and the well is contracted to a depth of 12,500 feet.

About a mile north of the producing limits of the Chaparral field in Wayne County, petroleum management has set production casing to 11,007 feet in the unit 12-15, sec. 12-10n-7w, with very little detailed information released.

Field drilling during the past week completed two new oilers and finaled two gas wells.

At Mallalieu in Lincoln County, Southwest Gas Producing Co. completed the Martin No. 1, sec. 9-6n-8e, pumping 127 barrels of oil daily from perforations at 10,506-20 feet and 10,285-340 feet.

George Thurber and Son finaled the Jarrett and Player No 1, sec. 27-1n-17e, pumping 231 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 3,170-92 feet in the West Langsdale field of Clarke County.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. completed the Hub Gas unit No. 1, sec. 20-2n-14e, in the Hub field of Marion County, flowing 2,911,000 cubic feet of gas per day and 29 barrels of condensate. Completion was in the Paluxy formation at 11,650-660 feet.

At Knoxo in Marion County, Humble completed its Forbes-Dunnaway No. 1, sec. 9-2n-12e, as a dual well. A sand at 12,382-394 feet flowed 2,017,000 cubic feet of gas daily. The second sand at 12,840-864 feet flowed at the daily rate of 2,318,000 cubic feet of dry gas.

3-Way Economic Summit

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Business, labor and government held an unusual economic summit meeting the past week but the gulfs between them weren't visibly narrowed.

The government was taken to task for what business considers its antiprofit attitude. Labor and business renewed their old arguments.

On other fronts, representatives of the steel, automobile and oil industries got in their licks against the government's price-holding stand.

And it was a week in which business and financial circles were alarmed by severe drops in stock market prices.

President Kennedy told the business conference at its outset that industry and labor should cooperate in raising production to increase the benefits which workers, management and stockholders can share.

"If we can operate this economy at full blast, then the division that comes out of that full blast is going to be a much easier task," he said.

The President asked the 200 conference members to drop their party labels and join the government in trying to solve critical economic problems.

But, for instance, AFL-CIO President George Meany contended that business was resisting government programs which would create new jobs, and failing to support free collective bargaining; J. Ward Keener, president of B. F. Goodrich Co., called the administration's guidelines for noninflationary wage bargaining impractical and unwise.

Despite the bickering, Kennedy said he felt that in private discussions the conferees showed "a willingness to forget some of the old basic arguments between labor and management and to consider some of the new challenges."

He added the hope that the meeting would be the first of a series.

There were few concrete economic developments during the past week but there was lots of talk.

At the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, industry leaders expressed apprehension that the sharp decline in steel production was due not only to inventory reductions by users who built big stocks prior to the labor settlement in March, but to a slowing economy.

Arthur B. Homer, president of Bethelehem Steel Corp., said he saw lack of confidence in the economic outlook, and called for a rebuilding of confidence.

He said "a lot depends on the attitude of the government in helping to broaden the economy as well as its attitude toward improving the profit picture."

Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co., told his company's annual meeting that he was concerned with the Kennedy administration's attempts "to intervene directly in collective bargaining and the economic decisions of business in an effort to hold a lid on costs and prices."

L. D. Welch, chairman of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) said at his annual meeting that "the shadow cast by big government over freedom of decision by management" is a peril to economic growth.

The stock market took some stiff blows to the chin as selling ballooned. Prices fell to their lowest level in 16 months. Brokers said stockowners were disturbed by the prolonged decline and were leaping in to salvage profits or avoid further loss.

Brokers Try To Diagnose Market Ills

NYSE Stocks Fall Near $23.7 Billion During Last Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Brokers, the men closest to the stock market, struggled Saturday to diagnose its ills and prospects, and came up with varied and sometimes conflicting judgments.

A cross-country sampling of broker opinion yielded agreement on a few points—notably that stock prices started the current plunge from dizzy heights in some cases, and that investor confidence has wilted.

There was division on whether the market, after staggering losses last week, has hit bottom.

In some minds there was frank puzzlement.

"I would expect a good rally next week," said Derry Hilgeer of Rauscher, Pierce & Co., in Dallas. "But possibly a little more decline may come later."

In Los Angeles, Ernest Ochs of Sutro & Co. said "I don't look for an upturn in the near future."

"Unfortunately, hysteria sometimes takes the place of reason and this prolongs the downtrend," Ochs added.

Attention focused on what is happening in the stock market after the market this week absorbed its worst shellacking in more than 30 years.

Based on the Associated Press average, an estimated $23.7 billion was whacked from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was the heaviest in a year, rising to 22,988,850 shares from 19,566,700 in the preceding week, itself an unusually large turnover.

Blue chips and the more volatile "growth" stocks were hit indiscriminately.

Asked why, a broker in Boston, Mass., who asked anonymity, shrugged.

"We don't know, the market's acted very poorly. When it'll turn around is anyone's guess." He added:

"We don't put out any advice to customers like some houses do. Everything's been said and who knows who's right? There just isn't any way to forecast."

A feeling apparently shared by many brokers was expressed in San Francisco by Wendell Witter, a partner in Dean, Witter & Co.

"I think it has been a matter of shaken public confidence, the market starting down about the time of the steel price situation. You take confidence out of the economic picture and people stop looking so favorably on the future," Witter said.

He foresaw an early leveling off on prices, with an increase in buying by pensions and investment funds tending to lend support.

Signs of an end to the slide were seen in Chicago by Reuben Thorson Sr., a partner in Paine, Webbere, Jackson and Curtis.

"There has been a lot of froth in unproven growth stocks," Thorson said. "They appear to have been pretty realistically adjusted.

"I believe we're rapidly approaching a culmination."

U.S. Treasury bond prices reversed a downtrend to post a fairly good but uneven advance this week. But for the most part, they failed to recover ground lost in last week's sharp setback.

In heavy turnover, corporate bonds milled inconclusively and finished the week about where they started.

Corporate volume zoomed to a high for the year with turnover measured in par value rising to $40.27 million from $36.99 million the preceding week.

Lt. Gov. Johnson Silent On Plans

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson remained noncommittal Saturday on whether he would run for governor as the Senate presented him with an overnight travel bag

Johnson said he had traveled a lot all his life and would use the bag in his travels next summer "for whatever I may be seeking."

Johnson has been reported certain to run for governor but some informed sources now say some of his friends are urging him to seek re-election as lieutenant governor instead.

Business Briefs

Red River

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. district courts in Texas and three nearby states would have concurrent and original jurisdiction to consider issues arising from water-pollution control on the Red River, under terms of a bill passed Monday by the House. The measure went to the Senate.

Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas—the states affected—are negotiating an interstate compact to apportion Red River waters for pollution control. Most of the trouble comes from brine seepage from oil and gas wells.

Continental Oil

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Continental Oil Company Saturday announced promotion of T. M. Anderson to its newly-created position of division manager of exploration here. Promotion of three other exploration men was also announced.

The Hillsboro, Texas, native will supervise the company's exploration activities for the entire division, covering north Louisiana, east Texas and south Arkansas. He was formerly division geologist.

BATTLE OVER IMPORTS

Oil Independents Lose One Round

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Independent oil operators lost a round this week but say their fight for stricter limits on oil imports is not over.

They have not given up hope of amending President Kennedy's proposed Trade Expansion Act.

The House Committee on Ways and Means turned down the amendment this week by a 15-10 vote.

A 13-12 vote three days earlier had given tentative approval to the controversial amendment that would spell out a formula for White House use in limiting imports of a commodity threatening national security. The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act that expires June 30 merely authorizes the President to control such commodities.

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., author of the amendment, had warned the independents the victory scored by the committee's first vote might be only temporary. He also said any final victory would be "by the skin of our teeth."

Steed has asked the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America and the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association to help muster strength for the next round.

He hopes a House vote can force the ways and means committee to reconsider once more and accept the amendment.

Under normal rules, the trade bill would not be subject to amendment from the floor but the House could resubmit it to the committee with instructions to include specific provisions.

Steed told the Texas independents last week he believes a coalition of congresemen from oil and coal states can push through a motion to resubmit.

Such a motion could develop into a major test vote on the administration's trade program.

Steed said 60 Democrats have pledged themselves to support such a motion and that he believes only 47 Democratic votes are needed for a successful Democratic-Republican coalition.

The current mandatory program to control oil imports is based on the national defense clause which, with backing by oil independents, was added to the Reciprocal Trade Act in 1955 and renewed in 1958. This action opened the way for control of any commodity threatening national defense but, in effect, left the formula for control to the White House.

The Kennedy administration wants to retain this authority without basic change.

The Steed amendment differs with the national defense clause in two major respects.

It would direct the President to place quantitative limitation on derivatives of a commodity as well as the basic commodity.

It also would limit all imports of such a commodity and derivatives to a fixed ratio with domestic production of the same articles. Selection of the representative year on which the ratio would be pegged would be left to the President.

The independents always have contended it was the intent of Congress in adopting the defense clause in 1955 that the 1954 ratio be used in limiting oil imports.

Part of the Steed amendment was deleted by the House committee on its initial vote. The deleted portion would have specified a 14 per cent ratio for oil imports.

OUACHITA GAS FINALS

Monroe Oil, Gas Activity Falls Off

Oil and gas activity declined moderately in the Monroe District over the past week, with but two completions reported through the office of Manager Duncan S. Cook. They came in Concordia Parish,, the Kincaid Bayou Field, and the Baskinton Field of Franklin Parish.

Ouachita Parish led the field of 14 parishes with gas finals over the week prior, but listed no new producers on yesterday's report.

In new locations staked during the preceding seven days, however, a Ouachita Parish total of six was high out of a combined 19 throughout the area. All gas sites, five are in the Monroe Field with a lone location in the Cheniere Field.

Other new locations are spotted in Catahoula, Concordia Grant, Tensas and Union Parishes over the 14 parish district.

Cook's records showed 16 wells active at week's end. LaSalle Parish had seven of them, five of them testing in the Tullos Urania (3), Trout Creek (1) and Little Creek Fields and one a wildcat. The drilling rig also was in the Tullos Urania Field at 1592 feet.

Ouachita Parish reported three weels active, two in Cheniere Field drilling at 4176 and 5177 feet, respectively, and the third in the Monroe Field at 2200. Other active wells were found in Tensas, Union, Grant, Caldwell and Catahoula Parishes.

A single re-completion was reported on the week, that in LaSalle Parish, the Searcy Field, being the Justiss Mears Oil Company's Clarence Mobley No. 1, recompleted at 3516 feet.

AUTOMATED SUPERMARKETS

Vendor Sees Credit Card Grocery Buys

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Credit card grocery shopping?

Not too far away, says Spencer L. Childers, vending machine maker, who has been keeping his engineers and layout men busy on a pilot layout using the latest possible computer equipment.

Childers, on a recent visit here, told of plans for use of a card system in an automated supermarket. He did not anticipate the immediate use of the popular credit card although he said this concept was a future possibility.

Rather, he said the system would work like this:

A customer going into a supermarket would be given a card prepared for us in automatic data processing machines.

When she came to the display case for, say, detergents, the card would be inserted in an opening. It would activate machinery which would hand out the desired number of boxes or bottles or packages of the item and record the price on the card.

The card then would be released by the machinery and taken to the next bank of items; sacks of apples, potatoes, packaged meat or whatever, the process being repeated until the shipper's needs were filled.

"If she wanted to" said Childers who is President of Vendo Co. and has been working on the supermarket idea at Kansas City headquarters, "she could be packing up the purchases for carrying out as she went along, instead of putting them into the cart with the idea of taking them out again at the checkout counter and repacking them for the trip home."

He explained why this was possible. Once shopping was finished the shopper would take the card to the pay counter, where it would be inserted in another computer-operated machine which could add up the total from the individual amounts printed or punched on the card.

The amount would be displayed as it is on a cash register and the customer then would pay—in currency—into the machine. If necessary, the machine itself could give the change.

"There would be almost instant reading of the amount of the bill —these things work in milliseconds" said Childers. "And the pile-up at the checkout counter when a checker now must tab each individual item and then set up the total and repack the purchases, would be avoided."

Childers' company also has worked out, using standard equipment an automated grocery store designed to distribute up to 500 items through coin-in-slot machinery. He refers to it as a "condensed version of a supermarket." Each vendor may offer up to 80 selections, depending on the size of the package, and can hold from 600 to 700 items.

Cotton Futures Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices slipped lower last week after moving irregularly within a narrow trading range.

At the close of trading Friday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were 15 cents a bale higher to 90 cents a bale lower.

In the previous week prices ranged from $1.25 a bale higher to 25 cents lower.

The nearby July delivery was sustained by commission house and trade buying, with offerings furnished through hedge selling and uncertainty resulting from the possibility of a one-price support system on the 1963 crop.

Observers interpreted the official consumption report for April as somewhat unfavorable in that it showed a decline in the daily rate of more than average proportions.

For the five-week period ended May 5, domestic mills used 868,000 bales of all cottons, compared with 730,000 in the preceding four weeks and 646,000 in the four-week period to April 29, 1961.

Observers noted that the daily rate had dropped 4.9 per cent from its level of one month earlier, whereas the average decline for the past five years was only 1.7 per cent.

Encouragement came from indications that exports by this for the week ended Tuesday exceeded those of a year earlier for the second week in a row.

The exchange estimated exports totaled 71,000 bales, compared with 79,000 one week earlier but only 51,000 in the same week last year.

Businessmen Coast-To-Coast Express Economics Opinions

Varied Feelings Recorded Regarding Kennedy Policy

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, just completed a coast-to-coast tour interviewing big and little businessmen to test the climate of business opinion. Industrial leaders in the Midwest, the Far West and the Southwest spoke freely of how they feel toward the Kennedy administration and on other issues. In Washington, Dawson sat in on the President's recent economic conference for a further sampling of views. The following article outlines Dawson's findings.)

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

"The business climate is changing and we know it, even though almost no businessman will admit it yet," says a Chicago industrialist. "We all go on talking about the right, and the need, for business to make its own decisions. But increasingly government is going to be a party to our wage-price-profit decisions. We'll have to live with it."

A hard shell opponent of government's greater role in business calls this "a definite trend toward setting up in Washington of a benevolent economic dictator," although he questions the benevolence.

The West Coast isn't that pessimistic. A banker thinks it's much too early to say just how the Kennedy administration's business policy will finally jell—"The President has some advisors who are definitely friendly to us; we don't know which side will win out."

A West Coast industrialist looks for a reaction to the recent trend he terms anti-business, saying the pendulum will swing back to more freedom for business.

In Texas businessmen are perhaps even more convinced they know better than Washington what's good for them—and the country—and are more determined to fight back. Several feel sure that for political reasons the administration will soon be forced as one puts it, "to throw business some bones."

In Washington the administration is at great pains to assure both business and labor that the guidelines it proposes for resolving their conflicting aims in the public interest aren't wage and price controls, nor are they inflexible.

But at the White House conference on national economic issues last Monday and Tuesday neither management nor labor seemed to be buying that. There appeared to be a chip on every shoulder.

If it's a new climate we're to adjust to, both management and labor are entering upon it wearing their old dogmatic apparel.

A swing around the nation sampling opinions of top executives of industry and banking shows wide divergence on how best to get along with labor and government and the consumer.

But some things they are all agreed upon:

1. The trend toward more government involvement in business has been going on for some time, with only a deceptive lull while the Kennedy administration was more occupied with foreign affairs.

2. The clash between the administration and the steel companies over prices was a shock—and without exception the businessmen voiced disapproval of some of the methods the President used to win.

3. What businessmen all are watching now is: Will the President really crack down on labor if it steps over his guidelines; and if he tries, can he get away with it?

4. The stock market drop is rough on public confidence, most business leaders feel that the steel battle merely gave it a nudge in a direction it may already have been about to take.

What are the gripes of business against the government's role?

Most often heard perhaps is the conviction that there is a deep rooted bias against bigness within government regulatory agencies and among some of the President's close advisors. Cited are the increase of antitrust suits, of bans on mergers, of investigations.

"This administration is using all the forces of government to move against big business," says one industrialist. "Business baiting has become too popular a sport," says another.

Defense of bigness is widespread in the business community, both among those who are big, and those who are busy growing.

"Bigness is necessary for economical operations in our industry," says a steel man. "Business must get bigger if the economy is to grow," says a merchandizer. "In our industry competition is so keen that bigness isn't a problem," says an electronics and appliance manufacturer.

But another gripe of some businessmen is growing competition with government itself.

A banker complains that the federal government is urging farmers to set up their own credit union, "although private banking can meet all their needs." The head of a big utility says "there is a constant running battle with the government over public power projects and sale of this tax-favored power in competition with ours."

A specific complaint about new government practices is voiced by an electronics leader—a trend to extend government setting of prices and profits down through the many levels of subcontracts on defense and space age projects.

Most businessmen interviewed feel strongly that present tax regulations on depreciation have them in a straitjacket when it comes to expanding or modernizing. They welcome the promise of a revision this summer but all say they want to wait and see how good the new rules are before they do any cheering.

A common business complaint about the present administration —and in many cases, about previous ones—is that unions are favored over business in many ways.

Grain Futures Little Changed

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market worked over a fairly broad range last week but finished with relatively small net changes after Friday's good general advance on the Board of Trade.

Transactions were geared mainly to weather conditions and a variety of crop reports, some conflicting, with activity almost coming to a standstill at times.

The bullish sentiment of a week ago in wheat was all but washed out by rainfall last weekend. But after additional reports came trickling in and speculators took another look they decided that perhaps the moisture was too late to do anything more than to halt deterioration.

Reds Hoping For Gains In Iceland Vote

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Iceland's voters will choose new city and town councils Sunday in an election that will test Communist strength in this NATO country defended by 4,000 U.S. sailors and Marines.

Transcending local issues, this first countrywide vote since a coalition government took office in February 1960, will be watched closely in Washington and Moscow for clues to the effect of ceaseless Communist propaganda against the North Atlantic Treaty Organization base and its American garrison. Iceland, a nation of only 175,000, has no armed forces of its own.

The Communists, who captured almost a fifth of the vote at the last general election in October 1959, have assailed the base as a danger to the country, a blow to national pride and a threat to culture. They sought last March to cancel the American-held license for a television station at the U.S. Naval Base at Keflavik but were defeated 43 to 8 in Parliament.

The Communists claimed the station, the only one in the country, was damaging the culture of 1,000 Icelanders who owned sets and tuned in on jazz and Westerns.

The base issue was the forefront again this week with the expulsion of the Czechoslovak trade envoy from Iceland. The government charged he tried to get an Icelandic pilot to collect information on the kind and number of U.S. military planes at the base.

About 99,000 Icelanders are eligible to vote, 43,000 of them in the city council election in Reykjavik, the capital. The Reykjavik council has 15 seats, with the Conservative Independence party holding 10, the Communist party three, the Leftist Progressive party one and the Social Democrats one.

The Independence and Social Democrat parties are represented in the coalition government headed by Prime Minister Olafur Thors.

ON ORBIT FLIGHT

Carpenter Stirs Up Tiny Fireflies

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Malcolm Scott Carpenter learned in orbit how to stir up little flurries of space fireflies.

All he had to do, come satellite sunrise, was rap smartly on the walls of his Aurora 7 spacecraft.

If there were no tiny sparkler in the rosy dawn, a bang with his fist would produce some.

And if there already were some of the dancing lights, a wall-tap would increase their number.

Carpenter, relating this to his fellow astronauts, concluded that the glittering objects were snowflakes—or more specifically, frost flakes.

He suggested that somehow frost must accumulate on the capsule walls during the short but frigid orbital nights, and then come off in puffs at dawn when there is a force to motivate them.

To arguments that there is no moisture at orbital altitudes to precipitate on the metal exterior, Carpenter suggested that:

1. Possibly sufficient frost accumulated during the climb through the atmosphere to last out the three orbits.

2. Perhaps steam from the systems of the spacecraft itself is enough to build up a frost source.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientist suggested that the particles—reported by astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., and also by his predecessor in space, Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov—might be flecks of paint.

Both Glenn and Titov said they did not think the objects were paint specks. Glenn's response to Carpenter's new theory was not made known immediately.

Titov called the objects phosphorescent particles. Glenn used the term "fireflies" merely to indicate their action and not, of course, to suggest that they were of an insect nature.

Carpenter also gave a fascinating account of the actions of the balloon he was towing.

He said it zigzagged so erratically and unpredictably that apparently it was in effect ricocheting in a near vacuum from an initial force at release.

The 100-foot tow line did not seem to be pulling the balloon, because it would loop and wind around much of the time. But when the balloon got to the end of the tether, the result apparently would be to whip the 30-inch-diameter sphere off again in some other direction.

HE WHO HELPS HIMSELF

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An alert priest, armed with a mock sword, trapped a would - be burglary who attempted to loot the poorbox in the Immaculate Heart Church of Phoenix.

The Rev. Dominic Fonseca said he was awakened by the ringing of an alarm he had wired to the poorbox. The only weapon he could find was a stage prop sword. The intruder didn't know the difference and Father Fonseca held the man at bay until police arrived.

Soviet Plans Propaganda Peace Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet government is organizing a mammoth new peace offensive aimed at polishing up Russia's self-appointed role as leader in the world peace movement.

Whatever reputation Moscow had in that role was badly tarnished by its resumption of nuclear weapons testing last fall.

The U.S. government has decided to discourage American citizens from becoming involved in the climax of the Soviet campaign in Moscow in July. A "World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace" has been called there. Even the Soviet Embassy in Washington is now involved, at least in a minor way, in promoting it.

U.S. officials said Saturday they expect that some Americans, notably including Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton, longtime advocate of closer U.S.-Soviet relations will attend the congress.

Bertrand Russell, the 90-year-old British philosopher and pacifist, says he will serve as a sponsor of the affair despite threats to expel him from the Labor party if he does so.

Americans who ask the State Department's advice are being told that the big Moscow gathering will be completely in the control of Soviet propagandists and that persons from outside have no prospect of influencing the outcome. The State Department is thus discouraging people from going but is not putting any other real obstacles in their way.

State Department experts say the peace congress will give Moscow its biggest propaganda spectacle in about four years. The last comparable session there was a world youth festival.

The buildup for the conference is expected here to have some influence over Soviet policy on Berlin, Laos and other issues which may arise.

GOP To Fight JFK'S 'Slush Fund'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans tightened their lines Saturday for an attack on what one of them called a political sluh fund provision in the administration's $1.5-bilion public works bill.

The Senate will take up a modified version of the bill Monday. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he expects passage Tuesday.

Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said after a conference with GOP members of the Public Works Committee he believes most of his party members will vote against giving President Kennedy standby authority to initiate projects in a threatened recession.

"Republicans are for public works," he said, "but we are not going to give the President a blank check. We want these projects passed upon by Congress."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said in a separate interview this proposed authority represents a "purely political contrivance" which the President might use to win support for his New Frontiers program.

"Just think what the President could do with such a slush fund," Aiken said. "He wouldn't have to spend any of the money. He could just promise candidates that their districts and states would be in line for it if they went along with his legislative program."

The bill represents a strategic retreat from the original request for a $2-billion standby program and $600 million in immediate projects.

The revised measure would authorize a $750-million public works program aimed at reducing chronic unemployment in distress areas. A second provision would authorize an additional $750-million program for the year beginning July 1, 1963, if unemployment should reach 5 per cent of the labor force.

Under the latter provision, the President could initiate projects not individually authorized in advance by Congress.

Under the weight of attacks from Republicans and some Southern Democrats on what they call "back door spending," the administration abandoned its proposal to let the President dip into government trust funds to finance emergency projects.

REV. W. L. FONTENOT

Rev. Fontenot Speaker For Revival Here

Revival services will get underway tonight at Liberty Baptist Church with the Rev. W. L. Fontenot of Palmer, Texas, serving as evangelist.

Rev. Fontenot, who is pastor of the Fundemental Baptist Church of Palmer, and formerly of Collinston, will speak daily at services starting at 7:30 p.m.

The revival will continue through Sunday night, June 3. A nursery will be provided for small children.

Liberty church is located one-quarter mile off of Winnsboro Road on Ticheli Road.

Jimmy McGough, music director of Victory Baptist Church in Monroe, will be in charge of music for the services.

Pastor of the church is Rev. John Dallalio.

4 Churches Join Today In Service

A special joint service, sponsored by the four Episcopal churches of the Twin Cities, will be held 10:30 a.m. today, Rogation Sunday, on the grounds at St. Alban's, in Parkview Subdivision. The subdivision is located just south of Plum St.

A celebration of the Holy Eucharist will open the festivities, celebrated by the Rev. R. W. Wilson of St. Thomas' Church in the College Area, assisted by Father W. Alan King, host priest. The Rev. William Baldridge, curate of Grace Church, will present the sermon.

OTHER EVENTS

A family style picnic, games, and a movie, will complete the day's activities.

Rogation-tide had its origin in the fifth century of the Christian era in France. These are days of solemn supplication for God's blessing upon the crops of the land and for a good harvest. An ancient custom of this day is blessing of the farm fields and animals.

The offering at this service is designated for the Diocese of South Florida for its work among the Cuban refugees.

Art Galleries In Churches, Artist's Aim

NEW YORK (UPI) — A leading modern painter who specializes in religious subjects is conducting a one - man crusade to persuade churches to establish art galleries as well as recreation rooms.

Fred Nagler, noted for his madonna and child and last supper paintings, feels liturgical works belong in churches, not in private homes or museums. He is convinced that if churches made a place for paintings and sculpture, they would receive such works as gifts.

"In the old days, a church would have its walls decorated by one artist," Nagler said in a recent interview. "What they ought to do today is to have art galleries, to interest the intelligentsia in religion.

OTHER FEATURES

"I know lots of churches have swimming pools and gymnasiums but ignore culture. To hold the people they have to try to bring in the intelligentsia through art, music and dancing. If there were galleries in churches, paintings bought by wealthy people would be given to churches instead of museums. They would be put in church galleries where they really belong.

"Twenty million people went to major museums in the United States last year. A lot of these same people would go to churches if they had exhibitions. Religious leaders do not know the value of art. They are so involved with the word that they don't see the power of the picture."

Nagler has managed to get a few of his works hung in religious institutions. Two are at Notre Dame University. Two are in the Church of the Redeemer in Reading, Pa., and one is in the chapel at Yale University. But most are in private collections or museums.

MOST RECENT

His most recent work is based on the Biblical account of the replacement of the murderer Barabbas by Jesus at the crucifixion. Nagler and five other artists were paid commissions by Columbia Pictures, which has made a film on Barabbas for release later this year. Since nothing further is known of Barabbas beyond his release from the sentence of death, the movie is an imaginary account of what happened to him later. The six artists were given equal license in their paintings, one of which is an abstraction. Their paintings are being sent on a nationwide tour of art galleries during the spring and summer.

Nagler hopes the display will call attention of the public to religious art and perhaps stimulate churches to try to obtain worthwhile paintings and sculpture.

IN VERDANT SETTING

Church Building Effect Ethereal

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)— Two Episcopal clergymen, motoring along the Pennsylvania Turnpike through this verdant countryside, glanced out and saw a strange sight—a huge, sunny, ring-shaped edifice whose pillars beneath and lancet windows above gave it an ethereal, floating effect.

"Say," one of them said, "some church ought to build a building like that!"

ALREADY FACT

The idea already was fact.

The gleaming loop of white stone and concrete is the new $8½-million national headquarters of American Baptists. Its dedication Saturday marks a nostalgic transition in setting for the denomination's administration.

The big-city staff has gone rural. It also has moved back to its roots.

"We're in a more average community now," observed the Rev. Dr. R. Dean Goodwin, director of the denomination's communication division, noting that most Baptist congregations are in small-town areas. "It's also more neighborly."

Across a road from the unusual structure, a herd of Black Angus grazed. Trees and little frame houses dot the terrain. "We have a closer relationship with people here," Dr. Goodwin said. "They are aware of us. Back in New York, no one noticed."

The shift to the tranquil atmosphere here from seven scattered, crowded offices in New York City and Philadelphia also brings the church's main center back to the area where Baptists first organized jointly in America more than 250 years ago.

FIRST TIME

It is the first time in the 1,600,000-member denomination's history that all of its score of agencies and boards have been united under one roof.

"I believe," Dr. Goodwin went on, "that our life here in a community more typical of America than we have known for some years will help us better understand our churches, and our churches to understand us."

The new building itself is a great, graceful swirl of quartz-glinting stone and tiers of arched windows, mounted in front of an arcade of columns through which can be seen the grassy inner courtyard.

Inside the building, the corridors go 'round and round. Because of the structure's oval shape, employes have come up with various descriptive titles, humorous and otherwise, such as "The Trotters' Track", "The Doughnut", "The Busy Bracelet", "Buddha's Wheel".

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I am a freshman in college and I am told that science has disproved the Genesis record. What am I to believe? C.A.M.

ANSWER: There is never any conflict between true science and our Christian faith. Many times in the past some have thought that certain discoveries had disproven the Bible, only to find the "discoveries" either inaccurate or completely compatible with the Scripture, when properly understood. It is my own feeling that when all of truth is known — and this will never happen in this life — it will be found that the Genesis story is a wonderfully accurate record of what took place when the world was created. This may be a telescoped record, giving only major points, but I believe it is scientifically accurate.

To discard the Bible because we do not understand everything in it, or in the world, would be a very foolish thing to do. Let me also suggest that teachers should confine themselves to those areas in which they are qualified. I have known unbelievers to attack the Christian faith through their teaching, even when they did not have the remotest idea what true Christianity really is. For instance, one does not send an art critic to write up a baseball game, or a sports writer to evaluate a painting.

Ask God to give you the wisdom to keep things in their proper perspective and above all faithfully read your Bible and pray every day. If you do, God will give you the faith and wisdom you need to meet any problem.

OUTSLUG CLEVELAND

Senators Break Tie; Beat Tribe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators prevented Cleveland from taking over the American League lead Saturday night as they came from behind to outslug the Indians 8-6 before 15,651 fans.

The Senators broke a 6-6 tie with two runs in the sixth. Bob Allen walked Jim King and Jim Piersall moved him to third with a double to left center. Frank Funk relieved Allen and Bob Johnson greeted him with a single, scoring King. Bob Schmidt's sacrifice fly scored Piersall.

Marty Kutyna pitched four scoreless innings in relief to pick up his first victory. Allen second of four Cleveland pitchers, was the loser.

Piersall helped Kutyna with two dazzling catches, one in the eighth and one in the ninth inning to rob the Indians of extra-base hits.

The Indians added to their home-run hitting feats, making it 35 in 15 games on Woodie Held and Tito Francona homers. Dale Long homered for the Senators.

It was a rough night for starting pitchers. Jim Grant, who had beaten the old and new Senators 11 times without losing in Washington, was knocked out in the Senators' four-run sixth.

Dave Stenhouse, whose 1.69 earned run average led the American League, lasted only 3 2-3 innings. Both Grant and Stenhouse were charged with six runs.

Held doubled and scored in the second, and hit his sixth home run in the third with two on. The Indians made it 6-2 in the fourth when Francona hit his second homer.

Long's third homer gave the Senators a 2-0 lead in the first and they tied it with four in the sixth. Grant walked the first two, and Schmidt beat out a hit off Grants glove. Allen took over and gave up a two - run single to Danny O'Connell, and a two-run triple by Chuck Cottier.

Golden Leads Colts To Win With 3-Hitter

HOUSTON (AP)—The spectacular three-hit pitching of right-hander Jim Golden and a two-run burst in the third inning brought the Houston Colts a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday night.

Golden, acquired from Los Angeles in the expansion draft last winter, struck out five and didn't walk a man in pushing his record to 3-1.

He was in control all the way, allowing the Pirates only three base runners, none of whom got past first. He retired the last 13 men in order.

The only hits off him were singles by Don Leppert in the second, Don Hoak in the third and Howie Goss in the fifth, each with two out.

Golden got all the backing he needed on the Colts' two-run uprising against Pirate starter and loser Bob Friend (4-4) in the third.

Friend walked Billy Goodman, then hit Roman Mejias with a pitch to start it.

Now Has Five Four-Baggers In 3 Games

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays smashed two home runs, the second with a man aboard in the 10th inning, and carried San Francisco past the New York Mets Saturday 7-6.

The league's leading home run hitter belted a solo shot over the left center field fence in the eighth inning to tie the score 5-5.

The Mets went ahead by a run on Felix Mantilla's four-bagger in the 10th, but Mays won the game with a one-out blast off loser Jay Hook's 3-1 pitch, his 16th homer of the season.

Harvey Kuenn had singled to open the 10th, but Chuck Hiller was on base after grounding into a force play.

Mays, given a day of rest by the Giants Manager Alvin Dark on Wednesday, has blasted five home runs in the three games since then and has eight hits in 11 trips. He also contributed a run-producing triple Saturday.

Don Larsen, who pitched three innings of relief, gained his third win against no defeats. Hook, who went the distance, is 3-4.

The Mets rapped starter Billy O'Dell for three runs and seven hits before O'Dell retired at the end of three innings with a blister on his pitching hand.

But the Giants pecked away at Hook with two runs in the second and one in the third. Mays tripled to open the third and scored when Orlando Cepeda bounced out to second base.

A & E Grovery slipped by T. A. Sanders Lumber Company 5-2 in the first game on the Northside Park Saturday. Marty Tidwell and Mike Jones were the winning battery while Ronnie Nuggent and Bill Foster took the loss. Dennis Sims led the winner's hitting attack with one hit in four attempts. Bennie Beard went two for three for the losers.

Bancroft downed Heard Oil 10-3 in the second contest at the Northside Park. Billy Foster and Ricky Audrick were the winners and Rodney Payne and Bill Ragland were the losers. Randy Cole went four for four for Bancroft and Ragland went two for three for the losers.

In the third tilt, American Oil collected 21 runs on 21 hits and limited Barker's Rent All's to only four runs. Charles Bamburg and James Arrant were the winners. Wayne Fleming and David Barr and Arrant each went five for six to lead the winner's offensive action. Freddy Roberts went three for four for the losers.

Pulp and Paper defeated Firestone, 8-1, in the final game at the Northside diamond. Steve Clark went two for two and Jerry Hennon went two for three to lead the winners at the plate. Clark and Terry Thompson were the winning battery. Steve Holloway and Herman McGuire were the losing battery.

In Little League action played Friday night at Northside, Monroe Brick topped Gays, 12-0, and Van Trow won over King Finance, 7-3.

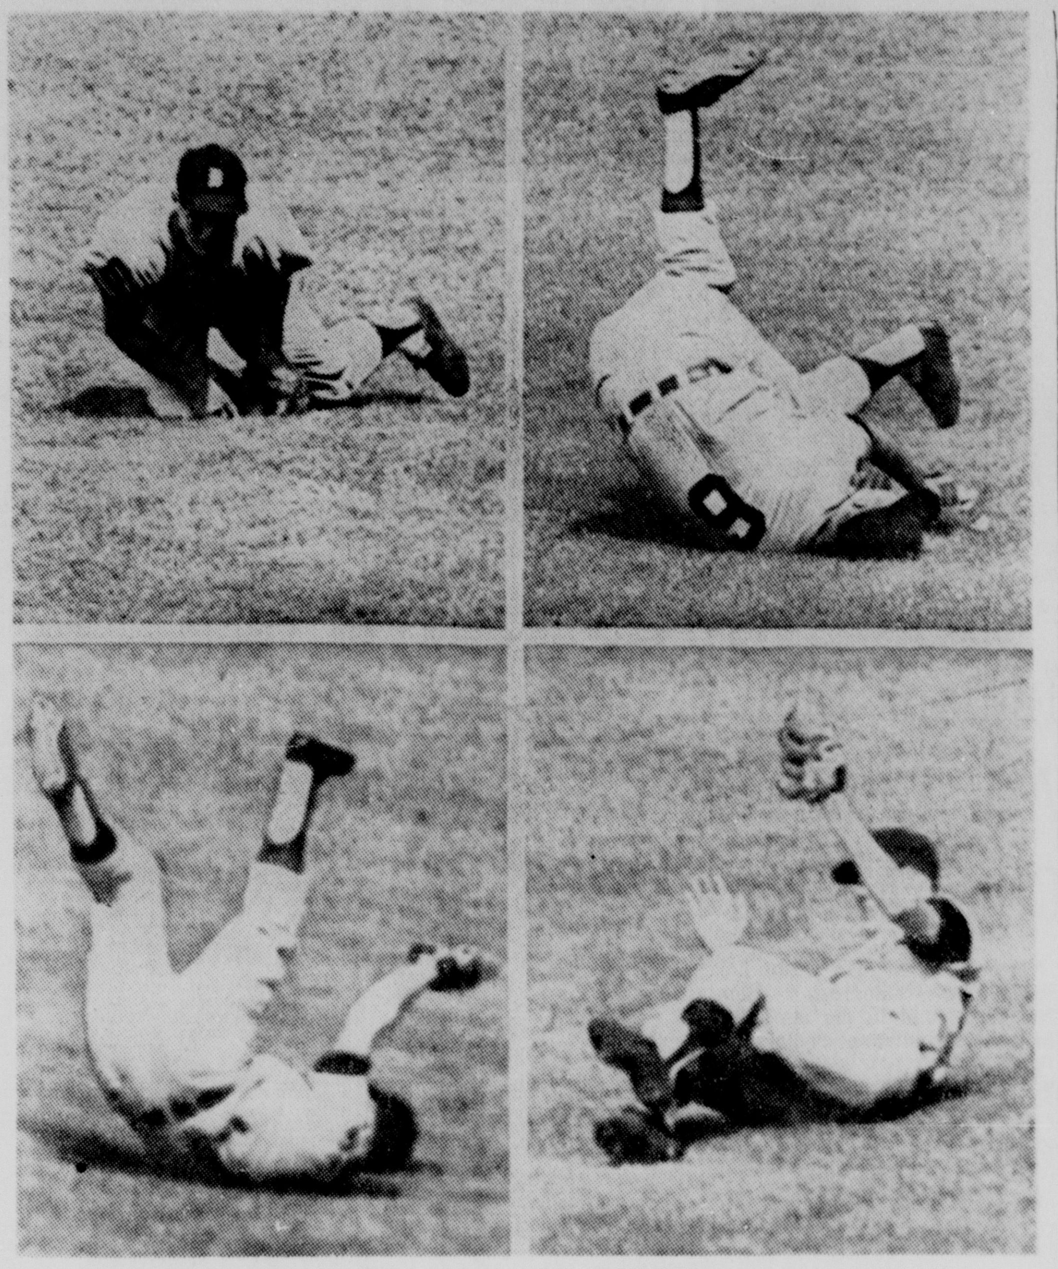
In Monroe Brick's win, Brown and Rogers formed the winning battery and also led the offensive attack with one home run each. Watson and Osborne were charged with the loss.

Van Trow's winning combination was Dayton and Guyton. Campbell homered for the winners. Moncrief and Nelson took the loss. Moncrief also got 2-3 for the losers.

Shell Oil defeated Central Bank 4-1 in the first tilt on the Southside diamond. Both teams collected four hits. Steven Spencer and Terry Peddy were the winning battery and Clint Jordan and Joe Lambert took the loss.

In the second Southside contest, Texaco pounded Green Brothers Dairy, 16-9. David Roark and Robert Poche were the winning battery. Raymond Poche led the winners at the plate with four safeties. Eugene Zuber and Bill Clampit were the losing battery. Mike Calhoun and Gary Cartwright each collected two hits for the losing nine.

Colbert's Sports topped First National Bank 5-3, in the last tilt on the Southside. Mike Ferlicca and Richard Seale were the winning combination. Ferlicca belted out two doubles and Seale went two for three while collecting the win. Richard Martin and Charles Lenard were the losing battery. Lenard homered for the losers.



THIS TREMENDOUS catch by Tiger outfielder Al Kaline proved to be a costly one for Detroit. Although the catch saved Detroit's 2-1 victory over the Yankees, Kaline suffered a broken collar bone on the play and will be out of action for approximately two months. The action came in the ninth inning of Saturday's game when NY catcher Elston Howard hit a sinking liner to right field. (AP Wirephoto)

THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR

Frank Budd & Company Take Outdoor Title Meet

By ED CORRIGAN

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)—Villanova's powerful forces rolled to their third straight IC4A Outdoor Track and Field Championship—and fifth in the past six years—Saturday on the wings of a double by Frank Budd and a first and second by Pat Traynor.

Jumbo Jim Elliott's legions fashioned 49½ points in a meet which saw seven records broken and one tied and retired the championship trophy but all Villanova really needed was Budd, Traynor and Paul Drayton. Among them, they scored 27 points, more than second place Yale, which finished with 25½ points. Morgan State had 23, New York University 22½, Maryland 17½, and Fordham 16.

Budd hustled to a 9.6 victory in the 100-yard dash and a 20.6 decision in the 200-yard dash. He was the defending champion in both, and Drayton, his shadow, finished second in both.

Budd was off like a shot in the 100 and finished coasting, hoping that he might come back and break the world 220 record of 20 flat. He tied the mark two weeks ago and has been plotting a new assault on it since.

But a headwind of 1.8 meters (about 3 miles an hour) frustrated him. After the first 10 yards, he had no trouble with Drayton—who is more dangerous in the 220 than the 100.

Traynor pulled a Hercules act, winning the 3,000-meter steeplechase in a meet record 9:19.1 less than an hour and a half after finishing scond to Harvard's Mark Mullin in the mile.

Traynor's 3,000-meter effort broke his own record of 9:25.3 set last year. Had it not been for Mullin, he would have had a second meet mark. Mullin won the mile in 4:06.4, shattering the standard of 4:07.8 set in 1958 by—of all people—Ron Delany.

Traynor was only three yards or so back in 4:06.9. Larry Rawson of Boston College was third in 4:07.1. So all the top three beat Delany's record.

Koufax Tops Phils On Neat Five-Hitter

By Charles Maker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lefthander Sandy Koufax pitched a five - hitter, struck out 16 and scored his sixth victory Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers extended their winning streak to six games by defeating Philadelphia 6-3.

Pinch hitter Wally Moon drove in the deciding run with a seventh inning single and Koufax singled in a run himself in the same inning.

The victory was the 14th for the Dodgers in their last 18 games and it kept them 1½ games behind the league-leading San Francisco Giants.

Koufax, who held the Phillies scoreless after the third inning, gave up only two walks, one of them intentional. This was the 34th time in his National League career that Koufax had fanned 10 or more batters in a single game. In 83 innings this season, Koufax has struck out 100.

Post, Edwards Propel Redlegs Over Cubs, 11-6

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wally Post and Johnny Edwards drove in seven runs between them with two home runs Friday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 11-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Post's homer with two on in the fifth—his ninth of the year and 200th of his career—put the Reds ahead for the first time, 6-4.

Edwards' seventh-inning grand slam sewed things up for Cincinnati. It was the first grand slam of his career and his third homer of the year.

Sloppy Chicago fielding helped the Reds to win their third game in a row. The first six Cincinnati runs—including those on Post's homer—were unearned. Chicago was charged with three errors.

Tremendous Catch Saves Detroit Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Kaline sustained a broken collar bone Saturday while making a game-saving catch in the Detroit Tigers' 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the Yankee physician who treated Kaline at Lenox Hill Hospital said the Tiger outfield star will be out of action for about two months.

Gaynor described the injury as "a longitudinal fracture of the edge of the right clavicle." He said the break was at the point where the collar bone joins the shoulder.

Kaline made a diving catch off Elston Howard with two out in the ninth, landing heavily on his right shoulder.

Kaline's loss came as a serious blow to the Tiger chances. They won their fifth straight and moved into fifth place. Kaline was tied with Jim Gentile of Baltimore for the league home run lead with 13.

Kaline's catch killed off the last chance for the Yankees and dashed the hopes of 22,699 Yankee Stadium spectators. Hector Lopez, who had singled, was on first base with two out when Ellie Howard drove a low liner to right center. Kaline made a diving catch and landed on his right shoulder. Had he failed to come up ith the ball, Lopez probably would have scored the tying run.

It was feared Kaline might have suffered a serious injury as mates gathered around him. However he started off the field under his own power. The pain became so intense that he fainted twice in the clubhouse and a doctor was called.

After a preliminary examination in the clubhouse, Kaline was taken to a hospital for more complete examination. No indication was given as to the extent of the injury.

The Tigers, who won on five hits Friday night, had only six off loser Roland Sheldon Saturday but two of them, together with a sacrifice fly, accounted for both their runs.

Dick Brown opened the third with a single. After Aguirre had fanned, Wood tripled to right center scoring Brown. Bill Bruton's sacrifice fly brought Wood across the plate.

Moose Skowron accounted for the Yankees' run with a fifth inning home run, his seventh of the season.

Pascual Hurls Twins To Win Over Sox, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Camilo Pascual, cushioned by Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer in the first inning, pitched his seventh victory and seventh complete game Saturday as the Minnesota Twins ended a three-game losing streak by defeating the Chicago White Sox 4-1.

The 28-year-old right-hander yielded 11 hits in expanding his record to 7-2. Pascual, last year's American League strikeout king with 221, fanned five to raise his season total to 54 and walked only one in beating the Sox for the first time in the campaign.

Killebrew parked his 10th home run into the upper left field deck. Scoring ahead of him was Vic Power, who had singled. The Twins picked up another run in the fourth when George Banks singled, went to third on Bernie Allen's single and scored on an infield out.

They added another run in the fifth on three successive singles by Power, Rich Rollins and Killebrew without none out.

Ed Fisher then replaced starter John Buzhardt, whose loss left him with 5-3, and held the Wins hitless through the sixth when he was yanked for a pinch hitter. Russ Kemmerer finished with a hitless performance and struck out two.

The Sox clustered three of their hits in the third inning for their only run. Sam Esposito led off with the first of his three straight singles. Sherm Lollar followed with another—his first of four for a perfect day at the plate—driving Esposito to third. Jim Landis' double, the only extra base blow off Pasqual, scored Esposito.

Pascual also was cat-like on the mound, having five assists and three putouts. He started a key double play in the fourth that eradicated another Sox scoring chance. Esposito and Lollar followed it with wasted singles and Buzhardt struck out to end the inning.

Jerome Awarded First In Century In Modesto Run

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Oregon's Harry Jerome was awarded first place in a disputed finish of the 100-yard dash at the California Relays Saturday night with Bob Hayes of Florida A&M second.

Most observers in the press box saw Hayes the winner by a narrow margin but officials announced Jerome the winner in the time of 9.3 seconds and Hayes second in 9.4 with Dennis Johnson of San Jose third.

Jerome was off to a fast start but Hayes appeared to catch the Oregon sprinter at about the 80-yard mark and it was a stride for stride race the rest of the way.

Hayes had run a 9.3 in winning his heat and Jerome matched it in the final despite a light rain.

A crowd of about 10,000 watched this 21st relays renewal that saw Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club break the meet record with a discus throw of 195 feet even, but fail in his attempt to surpass his world record breaking toss of last week that sailed 200-5½.

Athletics Down Los Angeles 9 On Cimoli's Hit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gino Cimoli two out single in the ninth inning scored Dick Howser to give the Kansas City Athletics a seesaw 8-7 victory Saturday over the Los Angeles Angels.

While Cimoli's one-baser was the deciding hit, Ed Charles was the A's earlier batting star with a grand slam home run and a pair of singles. Lee Thomas drove in four runs with a pair of round trip shots for the Angels, and Leon Wagner tied the score in the ninth with his 12th four-bagger.

Howser started the ninth with a bunt single off Art Fowler, the sixth Los Angeles pitcher, and was sacrificed to second by Jerry Lumpe. After Norm Siebern grounded out, Cimoli stroked the ball into left for the winning hit.

Indians Sign Ace Thinlie Cline Averett

Northeast Louisiana State has signed West Monroe's Cline Averett, second in the state triple-A 440, to a track scholarship.

Averett, a husby 6-1 and 185, has turned in outstanding times of 49.9 in the 440 and 10.1 in the 100 this year and has broad jumped 21.1½.

Averett's times are doubly impressive since 1962 was his first season to ever participate in the sport and his high school does not have a track.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Cline Averett of 2522 Swiss, the West Monroe athlete also played football, baseball and basketball in high school. He played tackle in football and first base in baseball.

Signed by Northeast Track Coach Bob Groseclose, Averett plans to major in pre-engineering at the Monroe college.

Northeast has also announced the signing of four other prep thinclads — Tommy Poindexter of Byrd High in Shreveport, Charles Golightly, also of Byrd, Bill Smith of Haynesville and Bernie Armstrong of North Caddo.

Poindexter, a hurdler, has run the 120-yard highs in 15.2 and the 180 lows in 20.0 Armstrong was district 1-AA champ in the 440 with a 51.0 clocking.

Smith was state class AA mile champion and Golightly set a Shreveport City Meet record of 1:59.9 in the 880 this year.

Wildlife Group Sets Fishing Contest Dates

The annual fishing contest held by the Ouachita Parish Wildlife unit will begin June 1 and run thru August 26, according to Jim Packer, chairman of the event. Monthly prizes will be awarded at regular summer meeting, with the July awards to be given at the Unit's annual fish-fry to be held at Cheniere Lake Saturday July 28.

Packer stated that in the contest, as in the past, one must be a member of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit at least four (4) days before he can register a fish. However, anyone obtaining a membership before the 1st of June will be eligible for the coming week-end, Jim said.

A. S. "Bud" Tidwell, a member of the committee, stated that the monthly prizes and the grand prizes are the nicest ever offered. Boats, a fishing car, a 3.6 HP motor are among the grand prizes this year.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wild Life Unit will be held this coming Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel. Armand Rabun, Chairman of the D'Arbonne Lake Commission will speak on the progress of the Lake and show films of hunting trips taken by himself.

Boston Defeats Barber; Gentile Hits 14th Homer

BOSTON (AP)—Boston defeated Baltimore nemesis Steve Barber 12-6 Saturday in a hail of home runs by Gary Geiger, Carl Yastrzemski and rookie Bob Tillman.

Successive circuit blows by Geiger and Yastrzemski capping a four-run third inning put the Sox in front to stay 4-3 and were the first homers surrendered this season by Army Pfc. Barber, the Orioles' weekend wonder.

The only previous loss tagged on Barber in five earlier decisions required a no-hitter by Los Angeles Bo Belinsky. When Tillman drove Barber out with a towering two-run belt in the sixth, it marked only the second time in nine lifetime verdicts the Sox have beaten the southpaw.

Jim Gentile of Baltimore took over the undisputed American League lead in the home run derby by hitting his 14th off winner Gene Conley with a mate aboard in the seventh. Gentile had contributed one of two sacrifice flies in a three-run Oriole third which also included a double and three singles.

Creed Wins Southern Amateur Golf Tourney

By ED YOUNG

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Clifford Ann Creed, a relentless 5-foot-3 100-pounder from Alexandria, La., won the Southern Women's Amateur Golf Championship Saturday with a 6 and 5 victory over Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C.

It was the eighth tournament victory of the year for Miss Creed, 23, who won the first four holes of her scheduled 36-hole match against the dead game, dead tired Miss Burns and never once trailed.

For the 31 holes they had to play before Miss Creed closed out the match, the Louisiana star was only two strokes over par. She piled up a five-hole lead by the end of the morning 18 and though Miss Burns played fine golf most of the way she never could erase her dificit.

Miss Burns was nine strokes over regulation at the James River course when the match came to an end. She played perhaps her finest golf in the afternoon round even though her cause looked hopeless.

In the morning, the 36-year-old Miss Burns, who has an ailing back, was never in the lead and hardly ever out of the traps. She hit nine traps on the morning 18, including six on the last nine holes.

Miss Creed started out strong in the morning, winning the first two holes with par 4s, sinking a 10-foot putt for a birdie 3 at the third and winning the fourth with another 3 to move 4 up before Miss Burns knew what had hit her.

Birdie 4s at the sixth and ninth holes on putts of 10 and 20 feet enabled Miss Burns to close her deficit to two holes at the morning turn, and she sank an 11-foot putt at No. 10 to trail by only one.

But after that, her luck quickly ran out as she began to hit the traps with alarming frequency. Miss Creed won the 13th and 14th with pars, the 15th with a birdie and the 17th with another par to move 5 up as they went to lunch and it was never close again.

Cadiz Takes Thrilling Win At California

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Cadiz, overlooked in most calculations, shot out the powerful entry of Prove It and Olden Times to win the $121,400 Californian Saturday at Hollywood Park.

The 6-year-old chestnut from the Vicgray Stable, with jockey Bill Harmatz giving a skillful ride, won by about a length and a half as the less-feared part of the Rex C. Ellsworth team, Prove It, came up to take second and Olden Times finished third.

The time for the 1 1-16 mile feature was 1:41 3-5.

The sentimental rags-to-riches cole, Crazy Kid, produced the excitement in another rousing but unsuccessful attempt to steal a major stakes.

Johnny Longden, no kid at the age of 55, whipped Crazy Kid into a quick lead and held it until his colt faltered in the stretch and finished fourth.

The winner returned $26.80, $8.80 and $9.60, and the Ellsworth entry paid $2.80 and $3.00.

The victory was worth $71,200 to the Vicgray Farm of Vic Garber of Oakland, Calif.

Cadiz, a New Zealand invader purchased for a reported $16,000, won his first start at Santa Anita last winter and then scored his only stakes win in the Christopher J. Fitzgerald Handicap.

A week ago Crazy Kid, who was claimed from Ellsworth last year at Caliente for a mere $2,750, almost bagged the $50,000 added Los Angeles Handicap at seven furlongs.

He wound up a neck behind the winner, Winonly. And Saturday it appeared he might make an even more spectacular burglary.

The Kerr Stable's Grey Eagle kept up the closest pursuit of the Kid, with Willie Shoemaker laying back most of the way on Olden Times.

Longden, seeking his fourth victory in this stakes, had Crazy Kid in front by a length and one half going down the backstretch, still on top by ¾ of a length at the far turn and by half a length entering the stretch.

Harmatz then took charge on Cadiz as Olden Times faltered. Jockey Alex Maese and Prove It were well back until the tandem began to run down horses in the stretch.

It appeared Olden Times was blocked on the rail at the head of the stretch and Shoemaker had to tak him up. Prove It then came up on the outside to salvage the second place for his stable.

AFTER THREE ROUNDS

3 Tied For First In Festival Open

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A storm-disrupted third round of the $50,000 "500" Festival Open Golf Tourney ended in a three-way tie for the 54-hole lead Saturday among Joe Campbell, Billy Casper and fast-finishing Dave Hill.

The three leaders were among the last six finishers in the 91-pro field, which tore par 71 apart after a mid-morning downpour deluged the Speedway course. Speedway's first nine record was shattered twice.

The pace-setting trio in the cavalry charge for the $9,000 first prize held only a one-stroke lead over Jerry Steelsmith and Billy Collins, tied at 201, and was only two strokes ahead of a quartet knotted at 202.

This foursome included George Bayer, Don Fairfield, Don January and Bob Goetz, who fashioned the best PGA round of the year, a 6-under-par 29, on the front nine.

Goetz stroked his 29 a short while after a former Hawaiian Open champion, Herman Coelho, had posted a 30 which also broke the former course first nine mark of 31 shared by several players.

Goetz had a third-round 65 and Coelho a 66.

In all, 56 players shot under par, with a 64 by South African Gary Player setting the pace. There were 2 65s, 4 66s, 6 67s and 16 shot 68s.

Only three strokes off the pace, as the field was trimmed to the low 60 scores and ties, were Bob Goalby, Dave Ragan, and Bob Rosburg, each with 203s.

Another trio was bracketed at 204, including the rallying Player, who opened Thursday with a 72, but perked for a 68 Friday and the 64 Saturday. Tied with him were Australian Bruce Crampton and Billy Maxwell.

A photo finish appeared likely Sunday in this prelude to next Wednesday's Memorial Day 500-mile auto classic. In event of a deadlock, a sudden death play-off will be held.

Defending champion Doug Ford, who was favored to win his third successive Speedway title, failed to make up much ground despite his best round to date, a 68. Ford still was nine strokes off the pace with 209.

Campbell, who had shared the 36-hole lead with Ragan at 131, blew a chance to grab undisputed lead at 54 holes when he double bogeyed the par 3 ninth out of a trap and was penalized a stroke on the 18th.

Campbell's second shot on the 18th landed in a creek bank hole which Campbell claimed was made by an animal. His appeal was overruled and it cost him a one-stroke penalty to lay out. He wound up with a bogey 6 on the hole and a 6 round.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics gave right-handed pitcher Bob Grim his unconditional release Saturday and recalled Gordon Jones, another right-handed veteran from Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

Championship Wrestling At Roll-Arena

Wrestling takes the spotlight Monday night, May 28, 1962, at 8:15 p.m. Featured on the card will be a double main event.

The first match of the evening will be a one hour, two fall to win contest. Chief Kit Fox will wrestle The Bat (pictured above) for top honors in that match.

Kit Fox is a clean cut wrestler from the plains of the West. He is rough, tough, and ready for opponent. And he will be out to scalp The Bat this Monday Night.

The Bat will be making another visit to Monroe this Monday evening to add to his collection of victories. He is yet to be beaten in a single match at Roll-Arena. The masked villian has received numerous remarks from fans about a concealed weapon in his mask although there is no definite proof that such an object exists.

In the second match of the double main event, Carlos Rocha will oppose Danny Savich. The delight of the crowd, Carlos, will be out to match his ability against Savich for victory and the praises of his fans.

Dynamite Danny, however, has other ideas about who will be the winner. Being one of the fine wrestlers who uses foul tatics, Danny can always rely on "down to earth hard wrestling" to lift him out of close spots. And if that doesn't help, his professional boxing fists always come in handy.

The place for top wrestling this week will be Fox's Roll-Arena, 312 Walnut, where talent is number one and excitement is no stranger. Adv.

BATON ROUGE — Forty-two bills affecting the Louisiana sportsman have been introduced to date in the 1962 session of the legislature while there is a possibility that more will be offered before the deadline next Sunday.

Some of the bills pertain to local matters that are not of particular interest to sportsmen in the Monroe area.

But there are bills before the Legislature that are of major importance to sportsmen all over the state, bills that sportsmen should speak to their representatives about.

Rep. Frank Fulco of Shreveport has presented the most serious of the wildlife bills, in that his joint resolution calls for the abolishment of the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

The people of Louisiana have rejected a constitutional amendment twice to abolish the commission. The Legislature should do likewise in this session.

While the commission has not solved all of the woes of the state game program, it has served to give the people more representation in the affairs of wildlife management. Rep. W. K. Brown of Grant Parish is sponsoring a bill to do away with the big game license, which would abolish the tagging systems on deer, turkey and bear.

The deer tagging system is a program that was badly needed in Louisiana before it was adopted two years ago and should be maintained now.

Unfortunately, to date the Commission and Director L. D. Young have made no effort to lobby the Legislature to keep the big game license.

The bill has not been brought before the House for a vote yet, but the Commission could wait too late to begin work. Interested sportsmen should hope that the Commission's hands have not been tied.

Rep. Hiram Allen of Tangiapahoa Parish has introduced a bill to reduce the hunting license to $1, another bill that the Commission has remained silent on.

Before getting into other bills, the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, through its one-man lobby of Executive Secretary Charley Bosch, has managed to have introduced by Rep. William Bernard of Baton Rouge the $1 universal fishing license.

Again the bill would require that all fishermen must buy a $1 license. The federation estimates that Louisiana loses $75,000 annually in federal funds.

Federal funds are available from a federal excise tax on fishing tackle, collected under the Dingell-Johnson Act.

But because Louisiana does not have a fishing license to cover all anglers, the state does not get its fair share of the federal money.

Rep. Mike John Jr., of Monroe, is a co-sponsor with Bernard on the bill.

Bernard also introduced a bill to protect the land owner in cases of hunting accidents on the owner's property. The bill provides that no property owner can be held responsible for outdoor accidents on his property.

Here are other bills:

HB 15 (Simon) — Appropriates $175,000 out of the Rockefeller Refuge Fund for the Department of Public Works for the dredging of a navigation canal in Vermilion Parish. This is a bad bill, in that revenue in the Rockefeller fund cannot be used except for the refuge or by the department of education.

HB 86 (Strother) — Appropriates $125,000 for the fiscal year from the Rockefeller Fund to the State Board of Health for the construction of a health center in Allen Parish. This bill is unlawful. It should be pointed out that the U.S. Department of the Interior has authority to remove the Rockefeller Refuge, which is Louisiana's greatest waterfowl area, from the state's program if the act of donation is violated.

Still in line with this, the administration is taking $5 million from the Rockefeller Fund for the Publc School Fund. This is not contrary to the law.

HB 124 (Munson)—Repeals the severance tax on skins or hides taken from wild fur-bearing animals or alligators within the state.

This is part of the Little Hoover Commission's package to repeal the so-called nusiance taxes.

Other Hoover Commission bills on wildlife are as follows:

HB 125 (Munson)—Repeals the severance tax on salt water shrimp.

HB 126 (Munsos)—Repeals the severance tax on oysters.

Sen. J. C. Gilbert of Sicily Island has introduced his dog theft bill, establishing fines and penalties for the theft of dogs:

First conviction, $25 to $300 or three to six months in jail, or both; second and each subseuent conviction, $100 to $500 or six months to two years in jail, or both.

OVER BRAVES, 4-3

Curt Flood Lifts Birds To Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Curt Flood's ninth inning bases-loaded single—his fourth hit of the game—lifted the St. Louis Cardinals past Milwaukee Saturday night, 4-3, halting a three-game St. Louis losing streak. Joe Adcock's two-run pinch homer tied it in the ninth for the Braves.

The victory kept the Red Birds in third place, when a defeat would have dropped them into fourth a few percentage points behind Cincinnati.

Carl Sawatski drove in two runs for the Cards with a single in the first and his fifth homer—a solo shot to the pavilion roof leading off the sixth inning off Carlton Willey.

The Cards loaded the bases with none out in their ninth. Lefty Bob Hendley walked Doug Clemens, who took second on a wild pitch. Lew Burdette took over on the mound and handed an intentional pass to pinchhitter Alex Grammas.

Another pinch hitter, Charley James, faked a bunt and singled to left, filling the bases. Flood then hit Burdette's first pitch to left to win the game.

AND GETTING RESULTS

Pepitone No Glory Hog; Just Hustling

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — That new kid who has been walloping all those home runs for the Yankees in recent days is not trying to make the fans forget Mickey Mantle. All he wants them to do is remember Joe Pepitone.

And from the looks of things, Yankee fans will be getting to know Pepitone quite well. He should be around for a long time.

Pepitone is only 21 and has played less than 20 big league ball games—first base and in the outfield—but already he has accomplished something only 14 others have been able to do in all baseball history. That happened last Wednesday when he hit two home runs in one inning.

Just to show it was no fluke, the lean left-handed hitting rookie walloped another homer the next day, a Ruthian smash of well over 400 feet.

That gave him five homers in his first 15 games. In some of those, he was a pinch hitter and at bat only once.

"That kid is gonna be a great hitter some day," said Yogi Berra, no slouch at the plate himself. "He's good right now. All he needs is experience."

The sudden surge, which had him hitting around .300, happily hasn't gone to Pepitone's head.

"Those home runs, especially those two in one inning, sure felt great," he said, "but it's too early to get excited. So far I've hit all the pitchers I've faced pretty well, but the true test is the second time around . . . when the pitchers get to know more about me.

"I've always felt I could hit and I don't think I lack confidence, but I'm not fooling myself. It's tough up here. You've got to bear down all the time. That's one thing I've promised myself. I'm going to hustle all the time. I know there will be times when I won't be able to buy a base hit. That's when I've got to bear down all the harder.

"That's what impressed me about the fellows on this club. When they have a bad day they don't sulk or take it out on the rest of us. Naturally, they don't enjoy it but instead of flinging things around, they come into the clubhouse quietly, determined to do better next time. That's something I have learned from being with them."

Pepitone is a tall, lean (6-foot-2, 185 pounds) youngster with a nice smile and piercing black eyes. He talks easily and sincerely. He is grateful for all the help and advice he has been receiving from the other players.

"Everybody on the club has helped me," he said. "Maris, Skowron, Mantle, Blancard, Howard, Berra, all have been wonderful to me. I guess Berra has talked with me the most. Before each game, he tells me something about the pitcher we're due to face . . . some little things that he has learned about the pitcher . . . what sort of pitch to look for, what pitch to lay off and things like that."

Pepitone, who generates a lot of power from an easy, level swing, said he has begun to relax at the plate.

Membership Shoot Today At Pine Hills

The Pine Hills Gun Club will hold its first club shoot of the year today at the club's location out of West Monroe at Bancroft Camp.

The first competitive round is slated to begin at 9 a.m.

Trophies will be awarded in A, B, C, and D classes in both skeet and trap shooting. Members will compete in both events on a handicap basis, according to their known ability.

A special high-over-all trophy is to be awarded.

The Pine Hills club held two similar events last year and officials indicate plans are being made to hold another club shoot later in the year.

No one shooter will be able to capture more than one trophy.

Practice rounds for the shoot are slated to begin at 8 a.m., with the first shot for score scheduled to be fired at 9 a.m.

The program for the bi-annual shoot indicates today's activities will be an all-day event since competitive shooting is not slated to end until 6 p.m. The club members will hold a party immediately following the shoot with the awarding of trophies to be included.

One of the added attractions for today's activities will be a special father - and - son - father - and-daughter shoot with a trophy, donated by Sheriff Bailey Grant, to be awarded the winning pair. The younger members of the teams must be below 15 years of age.

Dr. R. W. Dickenhorst will be field captain for the shoot.

Members of the local organization also shoot, at the camp, each Sunday beginning at 2 p.m., and hold a special Challenge Cup shoot, on a handicap basis, each month.

Several of the Pine Hills shooters were reported earlier this week as planning to attend the Rebel Open Trapshoot today in Jackson, Miss., however a spokesman for the group indicated Saturday that they would be present for today's competition.

ERNIE BANKS

'Could Not Move,' Says Cub Slugger

CINCINNATI (AP)—"I saw that ball coming all the way but I just couldn't get out of the way," said Chicago slugger Ernie Banks of the pitch that put him out of action with a concussion.

"I saw it all last night, too," he added, referring to a restless night at Christ Hospital. He said, "I'm still seeing it."

Former teammate Moe Drabowsky, who threw the pitch in a Cincinnati game against Chicago's Cubs, went up to see Banks at the hospital Saturday.

Drabowsky, dismayed about the incident after the game, said the 1-1 pitch was a fast ball that got away.

Banks, the Cubs' all-time home run king as a shortstop, said the ball hit just under his left ear below the protective helmet.

"I feel good except for a little headache, but they're going to keep me here until tomorrow morning."

Dr. George Ballou, the Reds' team physician who gave Banks another thorough examination Saturday, said, "He's doing very well. We're getting additional films but the original Xrays didn't show any fracture."

Whether Banks could return to the Chicago line-up for Sunday's game was in doubt.

Dr. Ballou commented: "I think that remains to be seen. It depends on the weather and how well he feels."

Banks, who already has 11 home runs this season, fell unconscious after the pitch Friday night but recovered before being taken out on a stretcher.

The injury came after teammate Billy Williams doubled with one out keeping alive Chicago hopes to overtake a one-run Cincinnati lead. The Reds won 2-1 after Bill Henry finished the game for Drabowsky.

Banks, the league's most valuable player in 1958 and 1959, said, "I've been in this league nine years and this is the first time I ever was hit on the head."

Consistency, Not Speed, Is Cited For Fastest Lap

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Consistency, and not peak speed, made possible the first 150-mile an hour lap in Speedway history, driver Parnelli Jones said Sunday.

Other drivers, he said, have gone faster than his estimated speed of 185 miles an hour down the home straightaway, but they couldn't round the turns as fast, and hence his average speed was greater.

"We've got a chart that figures out tire size against motor RPM's," he said, "and it showed that I reached 185 miles an hour on the home chute, just after crossing the finish line.

"The same chart showed that the Novi's were going faster than that, and Bill Cheesbourg told me he was going 200 miles an hour at the same point. But he didn't go as fast in the corners."

Jones, a 28-year-old Californian driving in the Memorial Day 500 for the second time, estimated he was turning "between 138 and 140 miles an hour" in the corners on his record run and that he reached "155 to 160" miles an hour in the short straightaways between the turns.

He credited experience gained in driving 192 laps in the race last year, better tires and an asphalt paved home stretch—instead of bricks—as contributory factors to his record speed.

Jones, who lives seven months a year in Indianapolis in order to be nearer the sprint tracks and the major speedway type races, said he hit higher speeds in the home straightaway rather than in the back stretch favored by other drivers.

"That's because the No. 1 turn is my poorest," he said.

Brides Advised To Be Natural

If you are about to become a bride, here are some suggestions by a leading beauty authority which may help you look your loveliest on your wedding day.

The important thing to remember is to look natural. If you are the glamorous type and regularly make-up that way, be a glamorous bride. But, if you are not in the habit of grooming yourself in this fashion, don't strive to achieve such a look for the first time on this very important occasion. By the same token, don't have your hair set in a style you have never worn before. An unfamiliar hairdo will not only add to your nervousness, but it will be distracting as well.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a waltz length gown, styled with bodice of Chantilly lace featured portrait neckline and long pointed sleeves with full skirt of silk organza with inserted band of lace. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and feathered chrysanthemums atop a white Bible.

Mrs. John Jones of Tallulah, served as matron of honor with Miss Anne Stevenson of Monroe, as bridesmaid. They wore frocks of green silk crepe with overskirts of matching silk organza. Their headdresses featured brief veils attached to bands of green roses and their ensembles were completed with white shoes and gloves. They carried bouquets of white and pink chrysanthemums.

Miss Stephanie Caldwell, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Caldwell, West Monroe, served as flower girl. She wore a white full skirted frock with matching shoes and headband of pink and white. Her bouquet was of pink and white chrysanthemums. Candles were lighted by Miss Janet Stevenson of Monroe, niece of the bride, who wore a pink organza full-skirted dress with a matching headband and wrist corsage of pink and white.

Serving as best man was John F. Jones and groomsman was Sammy Hargrove. Ushers were Mike Wallace, cousin of the bride and Dwight Ramsey.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wallace wore a sheath of blue lace over taffeta with beige accessories and a corsage pf pink and white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue dress with white accessories and a white corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship hall of the church, where the bride's table, covered with a white cutwork cloth was centered with an arrangement of white and pink sweetheart roses, flanked by crystal candleholders with tall white tapers. The pink punch, decorated with a frozen ring of pink rosebuds was served from one end of the table by Mrs. Tom Dillon. Mrs. Ken Elliot, Shreveport, served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Juene Wallace, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book. She was wearing a blue chiffon frock over taffeta and a pink corsage.

For a wedding trip to Shreveport the bride was wearing a navy blue jacket ensemble with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The couple will be at home temporarily in West Monroe, prior to Mr. Hammons' assignment with the air force. Mrs. Hammons, who is presently teaching at Ransom School, was graduated from West Monroe High School and Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Hammons graduated from Downsville High School.

Men Prefer General Air Of Femininity

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

As with art, most men will say they know nothing about women's clothes, but they know what they like.

They like a general air of feminity. This doesn't exclude a tailored look, but they dislike a mantailored look. A suit should have a soft touch somewhere, in scarf, or jeweling.

They like hats, and many even like the slightly mad ones. They equate hats with femininity. Most like the brimmed ones, the colorful ones.

Men like color anyway. I've yet to meet a famous man who said he liked black on women. Most like the soft colors—pink, blue, lilac, but they also love red and zingy mixtures of color, on the right woman.

Men like grooming. To them it's part of femininity. Hair, complexion, white gloves, shoes in perfect repair, are to them important parts of a woman's clothes. They couldn't be more right!

New Ideas Help To Cool Home In Summer

There are at least ten ways to make your home more comfortable during the hot weather, according to the construction research bureau, national clearing house for building information, that do not require much beyond common sense to put into effect.

First, you'll feel cooler in a room that looks cool. Light colors—ice blue, blue green, pale yellow—have a definite psychological effect. Elimination of clutter, simplification of decorative scheme, has a similar effect on the housekeeper whose work is lessened. A smooth clear resilient tile floor such as vinyl asbestos or solid vinyl is quiet, more easily cared for and seems much cooler.

You'll be cooler if you keep the direct sunlight out of the house. Awnings and shades will protect individual windows. Keep the windows closed during the middle of the day. Open them and all doors when the cool of evening arrives.

Simple movement of air is important as it speeds up evaporation, lowering actual body temperature. A window fan is most effectively used during the day when, by opening the windows on the shady side just far enough, it pulls air from there through the house, exhausting it to the hot side.

REVERSE PROCESS

At night the same theory applies to the attic fan. Open the windows where the coolest air is and pull it up through the house and out attic louvers. When it is possible to move enough cool night air through the house, a satisfactory level of comfort can be reached so the house can "coast" pre-cooled into the next day.

Running an attic fan to move air through just the attic during the day (shut the door to the attic) will prevent a great storehouse of hot attic air from accumulating.

Based on the same theory, a window fan can be used to excellent effect by letting it blow air across a bowl of ice into the room. This will help circulate cooled air throughout the room, much the same as drawing in evening air by means of an attic fan.

Parties for graduating seniors have filled the calendar with gaiety during the past week or more. Luncheons, boating parties, conversational hours, swimming and patio parties are favorites with young people, and are being planned daily.

WEST MONROE high school graduate, Miss Bennie Grant, is pictured at left with her mother, Mrs. Bailey Grant and hostess, Mrs. T. Arthur Grant Jr., at a party in her honor Saturday, May 19 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Honoring BENNIE GRANT, who is a senior at West Monroe High school, MARTHA GRANT was hostess for lunch at Bayou DeSiard country club last Saturday. The honoree chose to wear a mauve outfit with matching shoes, which was complimented by the all-pink theme of the luncheon table. Martha used a center piece of pink peonies on a pink - covered table. Ruby goblets and place cards tied with pink bows completed the appointments. Tomato cocktail, shrimp salad plate, and assorted desserts were served to fifteen guests.

Martha and Arthur were hosts at another party, this a supper dance last Thursday at home honoring DENIS M'DONALD, CHRIS EBY, and DOTTIE AMMAN. Individual tables set up around the patio were covered with yellow, red, or green checked cloths, each centered with candles in wine bottles and laid with gaily colored plates and cups. The meal included barbecued chicken, baked beans in individual pots, potato salad and slaw, and soft drinks served from an iron pot filled with ice. About fifty Neville classmates attended the party.

ROSEMARY UPSHAW was guest of honor when MARTHA STINSON entertained with luncheon at Highland Park country club last Thursday. Giant pink daisies were used in the centerpiece. Tiny figures of graduates in caps and gowns stood at each of the places for ten guests.

On Monday, some thirty - five Neville seniors attended a patio party given by FRANCES ADCOCK and CHARLOTTE DENT at the Adcock home. Guests of honor were SALLY BARHAM, ELLEN FERGUSON, and MIKE WILSON. Entertainment included swimming, skin diving, and water skiing. For lunch later, the young people were served fried chicken, potato salad, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, with hot biscuits. Dessert was homemade ice cream with chocolate and butterscotch Brownies.

Another Monday party was a conversational hour attended by fifty Neville senior girls and honoring MARY ANN CALDWELL and LINDA COLLET. Hostesses for the party were JUDY EVANS and PAT MADDEN, who entertained in the Evans home.

A Maypole decorated the refreshment table.

A Beachcombers' party complimented SUZANNE MESSINA Wednesday evening. Hostesses were MARTHA MESSINA, in whose home the party was held, JEAN WILKINSON, and BARBARA MESSINA. At the entrance to the patio, hung a beach towel decorated with a beatnik saying "Like Welcome."

Tropical plants and hurricane lamps decorated the yard, with bongo drums and ukuleles also in evidence. Tiny palm trees were favors given to each guest. A beachcomber's hat filled with tropical fruit centered the refreshment table, where the buffet included ham, rye bread, potato balls, and assorted cakes. Iced drinks were served from an aluminum boat. Eighty girls were invited to attend the party.

An all - day party on the water was hosted by ELLEN ABINGTON, SARA M' SHERRY and GERRY SPERRY at the home of SUSAN JOHNSON on Thursday. About sixty seniors were included in the group invited for swimming, boating, and picnic lunch on the terrace at the water-edge. Fresh fruit in watermelon shell was first course and decoration. The main course was spaghetti casserole served with hot breads, relishes, and chocolate cake for dessert.

Friday ELLEN YANCY and CHE CHE LILES entertained with brunch, complimentary to MAUREEN KELLY. Twenty girls attended the party on the Liles patio. Blue checked cloths covered individual tables, which were centered with yellow daylillies. The buffet table, also decorated with daylilies, offered a meal of sausage and pineapple, scrambled eggs with cream cheese and chives, hot biscuits, with coffee or fruit juice.

All Neville senior girls and their "lady teachers" were invited to a conversational hour yesterday afternoon when MILDRED HARMON honored MARY ELLEN FRANCES and MARIE MINARD complimented BECKY WRIGHT. The party was held on the patio of the Harmon home on Lakeshore, overlooking the bayou. Guests were invited to come in pedal pushers or shorts for an afternoon of boatriding, badminton, croquet. Refreshments included sandwiches, cheese straws, and cupcakes decorated with pennants saying "Good luck," "Congratulations," and similar timely messages.

Yesterday MARTHA UPSHAW complimented ROSEMARY UPSHAW with luncheon at the Paragon. Spring flowers in assorted colors decorated the table. A miniature basket of vari - colored spring flowers marked each place. The twelve guests' names were inscribed on ribbons entwined in the flowers.

Things were busy yesterday for the BEN COBBS, with two parties planned. Robertine and Amanda invited thirty - five girls for a swimming party at the pool atop the Penn hotel in the morning. Honorees were JODY BIEDENHARN, MAUREN KELLY, and HELEN TOUCHSTONE. After a swim, the group was served a cold buffet from a table decorated with yellow gladioli.

Later in the afternoon, Robertine and Ben were hosts for a boatride on the river, honoring HARVY PERRY and BILL ETHRIDGE. After swimming and skiing, the group were served supper up the river. Twelve couples attended.

Whatever the season, Monroyans are ready to entertain for newcomers or those planning to move away. On Monday, VIRGINIA WARNER entertained at a bridge, a farewell party for TAYLOR SPRADLING, who leaves June 1 to return to Clarksdale, Mississippi to make her home. Greenery and lemon daylilies decorated the Warner home for the party. Cherry tarts were the dessert served to eight guests. In the bridge games, the honoree won high, with MARGARET LAND, second.

Hardly a newcomer, but new in the neighborhood, JANET MORGAN was welcomed with a block party Wednesday morning. Hostesses were JOAN KING and EILEEN RUBIN, who entertained at the Rubin home on Pargoud boulevard. Blue hydrangeas centered the table where Danish pastries were served with coffee and iced drinks.

Out at Strauss Playhouse, the Little Theatre is presenting "Come Blow Your Horn", one of the gayest comedies to be seen on the local boards in years. We urge our readers to run, not walk, to the telephone this afternoon and call for reservations. An added attraction for the run of the play will be exhibit of paintings done by members of the recreation department's art class.

For her twelfth birthday, SUSAN LARY was honored at a party which had about everything. Twelve little girls went to Forsythe park, where they attended a Little League ball game. Then followed supper in the park, with fried chicken, corn on the cob, and baked beans on the menu. The whole group then returned to the Lary home for a slumber party.

Members of Bayou DeSiard country club are anticipating the opening of the swimming pool, to be marked by a family party at the club this coming Saturday night June 2. A water exhibition is planned to be followed by swimming for all. Young people will have hamburger supper, with dancing on the pool terrace. A barbecue supper for their parents is planned for the bayou terrace later in the evening.

For the graduates, here are some anonymous lines entitled "Living":

To touch the cup with eager lips and taste — not drain it:
To woo and tempt and court a bliss, and not attain it:
To fondle and caress a joy; yet hold it lightly,
Lest it become necessity and cling too tightly:
To watch the sun set in the west without regretting:
To hail its advent in the east, the night forgetting:
To smother care in happiness and grief in laughter:
To hold the present close —not questioning hereafter:
To have enough to share — to know the joy of giving:
To thrill with all the sweets of life — is living.

Curves Return To Style In Fashion Silhouette

Just as styles for milady are continually changing from slim to full . . . from no waistlines to waistline definition — so, too, do the words in the fashion vocabulary take on varied meanings.

Although fashion writers talk about silhouettes, there is no "one" real silhouette this spring. This year silhouette actually means "shape." Curves, bosoms and flares come into their own, with "shape" foremost and important.

Slim sheaths are shaped to have and hold curves; skirts on dresses dome rather than flare fully; while coats are gently eased into hemline fullness from the waist down.

The bosom shapes up with tailoring details and creates a new look to the bodice. There's delineation to the bodice too that's achieved by set-in sleeves with narrower lines. Even sleeveless fashions have more style to the shoulders and more bosom definition that they have shown in the past. This anatomical area gains further definition in gay little jacket, bolero and capelet toppings with fitted or demi-fitted fronts and pert, flared and full backs.

With the return to the "theorum of curves," logically the "princess" takes on new importance. High waistlines key the cut and details of the princess and it's usually executed as a lithe skim-the-body style or a coat-dress.

Lawns Need Special Care

By AUDREY DAWSON

A lawn needs some special care during the summer months. To prevent a brown appearance on a newly clipped lawn, mow on a regular schedule. The mower blades should be spaced to fit the type of lawn grass. St. Augustine should not be cut too close, especially during a dry season as at present. Do not allow a thatch to build up in lawns. Remove the clippings periodically to prevent build-up of thatch. It is best to run the mower a different direction each time you cut grass.

Additional applications of fertilizer can be made at monthly or six week intervals during the summer. Apply approximately 10 pounds of 8-8-8 per 1,000 square feet.

Watch for mildew on crape myrtles, verbena and zinnias and other plants. Sulphur is still best to control mildew, but be sure the plant is dry or the sulphur will burn. Watch for mildew on the new growth because it is most prevalent on new shoots.

CONTROL

White flies on ornamentals can be controlled by using a spray of 4½ ounces of oil emulsion or three tablespoons of 57 per cent malathion emulsifiable concentrate in three gallons of water. The infested shrub has a blackened appearance due to a sooty mold which grows in the honeydew given off by the whitefly. So to prevent the mold it is necessary to control the white fly.

Do you know a home economist who would like to travel. The Peace Corps will give her an opportunity to see such countries as Brazil, Venezuela, Nicaragia and India.

The Peace Corps is asking for 500 home economists to serve as home demonstration agents, 4-H Club leaders, teachers of nutrition and health, clothing and textile designers in many countries throughout the world.

Dr. Clara Tucker, head of the Home Economics Department of LSU has been asked to recommend interested home economists to the Peace Corps within the next 12 months. So if you are interested, write directly to her or to the Peace Corps, Washington 25, D. C.

RUGS

Do you want wall to wall carpeting or should you use a rug? There is no correct answer. It depends on you. Wall to wall carpeting makes a room look larger and ties adjoining areas together. Some homemakers have found it cheaper to put down a plywood floor and carpeting than a hardwood floor and a rug.

Room size rugs come in standard sizes such as 9x12 or 12x15. A rug should come within eight inches of the wall in a smaller room and 12 inches in a larger room.

There are many advantages of the room size rug. It may be reversed if one end gets more wear than another. It may be moved to another room if necessary. When a person moves, a room size rug can be moved too. They can be cleaned more thoroughly since they can be taken up and sent to a cleaner.

A rug of good quality may be a wiser choice than poor quality wall to wall carpeting. "Throw" or "area" rugs should not be used without some protection for the carpeting. The heavy backing on the rug wears the pile of the carpeting.

Mrs. Rankin Earle, chairman of the Women's Committee of Farm Bureau, reminds all members to attend the important meeting Monday, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. R. T. Faulk, Jr., 1404 Forsythe Ave. So be sure to come and help make plans for the activities which Ouachia Parish will be responsible for at the state meeting on Baton Rouge this July.

UPHOLSTERY FABRICS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to upholster or have some furniture upholstered be sure to take plenty of time to shop and select your material. The improved fabric finishes and the bright clear colors offer you a wide choice. Plastics, too are available in interesting textures and colors and may be the fabric that suits your needs best. Flat fabrics are replacing rough ones. Many have silicone textile finishes which give durability to the fabric. They also have water repelling and wrinkle resistance that greatly improve their service ability. Many of the new fabrics are treated for spot and stain resistance. Labels describe the advantages and give directions for care. Silicone and similar finishes resist soil that is water saluable. Other finishes patented by manufacturers resist oily soil, permanent moth proofing prevents damage from insects.

A THOUGHT

If this earth is not a better place because you are here then you are a failure no matter what wealth, titles or position you have.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Wild Flowers In Southland

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

More and more gardeners are beginning to discover how disease - free and adaptable our Southern wild flowers are.

Many of them are greatly sought after by the most sophisticated gardeners of Europe. These people, who have grown the plants from all over the world, consider our foam - flower, yellow jessamine, atamasco - lilies, shooting stars, shortia, butterfly-weed and even our goldenrod, to be amongst the choicest and most beautiful flowers of the world. Yet it is a really well - informed southern gardener who has even heard of all the flowers on this short list.

BLOOM TOGETHER

In mid - spring this year, there were blooming in sight of each other in a woodsy southern garden the following: wild irises from Louisiana, meadow sage and St. Bruno's lily from the European alps, native "meadow - lilies, or atamosco - lilies, a beautiful pink phlox from Louisiana and Arkansas, native smooth - leaved phlox, bright yellow sundrops and low yellow chrysogonum. What a feast. All of these American and foreign plants were growing and thriving together, creating a fine garden of easy - to - grow plants.

Around the wooded edges of this garden, the light billowy masses of the snow - white or creamy fringe tree scented the air. The coral honeysuckle or woodbine bloomed with fringe tree in a red and white combination. At this time, yellow jessamine had just gone, but the larger trumpets of cross vine, yellow inside and terra - cotta outside had opened.

UNFOLDING

In the woods, the umbrella magnolia was unfolding its beautiful, but none too pleasant smelling flowers, while the large-leaved magnolia unrolled its huge leaves and buds and the yellow-flowered cucumber - tree magnolia was coming into flower. All three of these are native southern trees, easy to grow and greatly sought after in other parts of the world. They are available from southern nurseries, but few gardeners know them outside the sections of the south where they are wild in the woods.

It is only fair to say that some of our showy wild flowers like the little creeping pink phloxes have been taken into our gardens. A good many people have tried, too, to dig up the showy range butterfly weed and grow it. Butterfly weed is one of the few wild plants difficult to handle because of its deep position in the ground. Perhaps the deep location of the root is the reason why it is so drought resistant.

TRANSPLANT

Wild flowers, for the most part, are not too difficult to transplant. After you replant them, give them shade and water and a mulch of leaves. In just one season, usually, they will take hold and grow, and, in gardens where they have less competition than in the wild, they respond amazingly to cultivation.

There are some beautiful books on our southern wild flowers: Caroline Dorman's Flowers Native to The Deep South; Greene and Blomquist's Flowers of the South; Coker and Totten's Trees of the Southeastern States; Brown's Louisiana Trees and shrubs; Ellen Schultz' Texas Wild Flowers. Ask your library for a list of southern gardening books by your columnist (The Southern Packet).

Classic Roles Are Suggested For Performers

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Strasberg, director of the Actors' Studio, says the time has come for young American performers "to face classic roles" in public performance.

The move, he says "would end some of the criticism that Method Acting has received." Its naturalistic aspects, which contrast with traditional formal acting style, he feels have been overexaggerated.

"In rehearsals, some of our members have done scenes from the classics that would amaze those who complain."

REPENTENCE AND RETRIBUTION

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Thieves who swiped a 150 - pound religious statue from the lawn of a Roman Catholic convent here apparently found it too heavy a load on their consciences.

A nun told police she saw two men returning the figure to the lawn under cover of darkness after it had been missing for a week.

$9 REPLIES

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Supervisor Horace C. Johnson spent $140 of his own money to prepare and mail 2,000 questionnaires asking his constituents how they felt about a suggested increase in the Erie County sales tax. He got 15 replies.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

This week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for her suggestion is Mrs. Gertrude Whitlow, Glendale, Mo., who says: Don't throw away old shoes:

"Turn your old shoes into something new, special and different! You can cover your shoes with a print fabric to match or compliment your dress. Any fabric can be used, including organza, silks, satins, cottons, brocades and velvet. Your choice is unlimited. My teenage girls love them, too. See if you don't get the same reaction.

"If you haven't any old shoes, don't forget the possibility of rummage sales for an 'extra' pair. Be sure to notice the size of the heels, get some that are currently in style. You may cover leather, suede, patent leather, or fabric. If you are covering them in a lighter fabric than the shoes, you may have to use a layer of silk organza under your fabric for a lining.

"1. Cut the fabric on the BIAS, first cut the section for the toe, beginning at each side seam on your shoes. Always allow a little extra on all edges.

"2. Millinery type glue is advisable because you can wipe off any excess without fear of the glue spotting the fabric. Spread lightly on the section you will be working with. Place the fabric on this section, STRETCHING as you work to avoid wrinkles. If your fabric is sheer, cut a piece of solid colored organza as a lining, now treat the two layers of fabric as one.

"3. With a nail file carefully push the fabric into the seam at the edges of the soles. Don't trim the excess edges at this time.

"4. Be sure to let each section dry thoroughly before beginning another. After the front half is finished, fit another bias piece for the back half, turning over a very small fold to finish the raw edges where the seams join at the sides of the shoes.

"5. Before covering the heels, carefully pull up the leather that finishes the inside of the heels. After you have covered the heels and the glue is dry, glue the piece of leather in place again. This will cover the raw edges of your fabric.

"6. After the shoe is thoroughly dry, carefully trim the excess fabric from around the edges of the sole with a SHARP razor blade.

"7. The last step is to turn under about ½ inch at the throat of the shoes and glue in place."

CURVE NECKLINE

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have noticed that some of the necklines on Jackie Kennedy's dresses seem to curve upwards instead of staying flat. Can you explain just how this effect is achieved?"

Mrs. J. R. H.

Dear Mrs. J. R. H.:

You are very observant, you will notice that some of your newer patterns will have this new type neckline. The pattern itself is actually curved up slightly at the neckline seam. The effect should be a slightly rounded one, which means that we use a little "padding" inside the facing.

For this padded look, cut a piece of cotton flannelette on the bias, about 2 inches wide. Turn under ½ inch and machine stitch close to the fold. This will give you a double thickness. Carefully slip-stitch the folded edge as close to the seamline of the neck as possible. This should be next to your garment and will be covered by the facing. It is necessary to cut this extra strip on the bias so it will be smooth at the curve of the neckline. If you desire more padding, take a double layer of fabric.

LOW DARTS

"Dear Eunice:

"When I make a dress for myself, I always get the darts too high. Just where should the end of the dart come on me?"

Mrs. D. M.

Dear Mrs. D. M.:

A dart that comes from the waistline up to the bust, should end ½ inch to 1 inch below the TIP OF THE BUST. If you are large, the dart can end slightly lower in order to give you more fabric where you need it.

If the dart is at the side of your bodice, it should be opposite the TIP OF THE BUST. If you have to lower the darts under the bust-line, you can be certain you will have to lower the side darts.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Tailor's thimble. This is a thimble with the end taken out. The correct way to use a thimble is to push the needle with the side of the thimble. Also, if you do a lot of sewing, your finger will not perspire with a tailor's thimble. I can't sew without one and you wouldn't be able to either if you try it.

Please send your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Center Collects Sets Of Shows When They Close

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York City Center, a budget-conscious theatrical enterprise, has found a fine way of saving on part of production costs.

When shows close on Broadway that seem good prospects for eventual reshowing at the Center, their sets are obtained and stored away. Because sets are usually burned after a show closes, original producers are agreeable to donating them instead to Jean Dalrymple, director of the Center's drama and light opera companies.

Settings for 14 shows have been collected, including "Kiss Me, Kate" and "The Music Man." Miss Dalrymple already has made arrangements to get the "My Fair Lady" props — when and if that show ever closes.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Beauty Is Arrayed In Flower Displays

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Last week's flower show was brought to the T. V. and Garden Center by the Rayville Garden Club. Their president is Mrs. David Burke Jr., An array of beauty was displayed both in flower arrangement and horticulture specimens. The flower show was judged by Mrs. Guy Kincaid, an accredited flower show judge from Winnsboro.

Mrs. Kincaid also commentated on these arrangements on the T. V. show.

The first design, perpendicular in form, was made by Mrs. Joyce Boughton who used iris foliage for her line material in a tall brass compote container. For her secondary line she used five white carnations. One of these was brought down low in a curving line to create rhythm and break the height of the tall container.

FILLER

For filler she used several pieces of dark green leather fern. These were placed around the focal flower which was one large rose colored peony. This was indeed an eye catcher. Mrs. Kincaid remarked that it would have been better had the arranger used more transitional material in the design which would tie the large peony in with the other part of the design better, thus, give more rhythm or even flow. This design was placed on a marble base which gave it good balance. It would be lovely for the living room table.

Mrs. David Burke made the next design — longlasting arrangement using the lovely Bells of Ireland for the triangular line. These had been lightly sprayed with white paint - showing some of the green through the center of the bells. These were secured in a holder placed in a shallow milk glass bowl which had then been placed to one side on top of a milk glass cake stand. For filler around the focal area she used white sprayed Cunninghamia foliage. The focal area was a grouping of the lovely glamorized artificial wax fruit. By "glamorized" we mean fruit covered with sequins. These seqins were held in place with straight pins. This is a tedious job, but, well rewarding. The sequins used on this fruit were the iridescent type-blending into colors of light pink, blue and green. Perfectly beautiful to look at. This is an all year design, appropriate for many occasions. It was very lovely.

MULTI-COLORED

Mrs. John Gilbert used multicolored pansies in the free-standing pyramid design that she made in a large green compote glass bowl. The only filler used in this design was the foliage of the pansies. This was a lovely and colorful arrangement that could be used in many places in the home, especially suitable for the coffee table or the dining table. Mrs. Kincaid remarked that it was rather unusual to have such lovely pansies this late in the season, with such long stems.

Easter lilies inspired Mrs. W. M. Hallock to make a lovely church design. The lilies with their buds were used in a large white urn - type container to form a massed triangle design. Lilies need no other flowers to help them "show - off" their lovliness. So often we see them used alone in this manner. They are so distinctive. This design would indeed enhance the church altar or sanctuary.

The oriental feeling was brought out in the last design made by Mrs. Archie Faires. For line material, depicting the Heaven, Man, Earth triangle design, she used the waxy foliage of the Burford Holly. For focal interest she used three cerese into pink glads, massing the larger blossoms at the base of the design. This line was placed in a black compote oriental - type container. A black footed teak wood base was used for proper balance to the design. A design of this type is always lovely in the hall to greet your guests, or, in the living room on a long, low coffee table.

An array of lovely horticulture displayed by this club included Japanese iris grown by Mrs. James Craig and Mrs. Julia Hennington. Three colors of calla lilies, white, golden yellow, and light pink, were grown by Mrs. Hennington, also. Mrs. Foster Jones displayed her lovely painted daisies rose and gold shades. Mrs. J. D. Cartlidge sent an array of lovely daylilies.

Speaking of daylilies — You will not want to miss the annual event of the Dixieland Daylily Society - a tour of gardens which will be held Sunday June 3, from 9 a.m., until 5 p.m. The public may visit these various gardens of the members of the Dixieland Daylily Society. There will be thousands of different varieties of daylilies in full bloom, representing the world's greatest hybridizers which include some of our local hybridizers.

WELL KNOWN TYPES

The most famous new daylily Satin Glass, can be seen in several of these gardens. Some well known locally produced daylilies are Gentle Breeze, Dub Hill, Golden Showpiece, Pappy Gates, Florine Turner and Goodie Goodie. The following gardens will be open for this tour: Mr. and Mrs. Julius Irving, 1010 Civic St., Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Turner, Swartz Road; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill, 304 Anderson, West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Collier Murphrey, 202 Slack St., West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates, 1007 Meadowbrook Dr., West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Pylant, White's Ferry Road, West Monroe; Mrs. E. W. Earl, 3708 Cypress St., West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Norris Lane, West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Calhoun; Mrs. Fred Cox, Clear Lake near Rayville; Mrs. R. M. Westmoreland, Clear Lake, and Mrs. J. D. Cartlidge, Highway 80, West, Rayville.

Watch for next week's program on the noon T. V. show Wednesday noon, and Garden Center show for the rest of the week. The Suburban Garden Club of Ruston, will present this show. Their president is Mrs. Earl S. Mitchell.

While driving around to view the lovely gardens, be sure to go by the yard of Mrs. M. O. Bullock, 611 Downey Lane in Monroe, and look at the lovely new fountain.

I had a chance to go by and see this fountain one day last week. I came away feeling refreshed after viewing the cool spray that came from a pyramid of native rocks. The pool about the fountain is edged with terra-cotta colored brick forming a planter.

Mrs. Bullock has filled this planter with plants suitable for rock gardens, low growing santolina, and foliage plants that enhance the atmosphere of the gardens.

HAPPY ENDING

Show Plagued By Chick Pox

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fans of "The Untouchables" will be interested to learn that a case of chicken pox almost put the television series off the air.

That's the way the story is told by Bill Shiffrin, bustling agent for head untouchable Robert Stack. Shiffrin tells quite a story. So let's let him:

"We had reached the point in negotiations when Bob was about to sign for the fourth year. Let's face it: Bob doesn't need the money, but he was on fire about the show. He felt it hadn't reached its potential, and there was a new production team that looked great.

"ABC told us they had to have an answer by 2 o'clock the next day. But Bob was home sick with the chicken pox. Well, we talked it over on the phone that night before zero hour and everything was just about set. He'd let me know his final answer the next day.

"The next day Bob was having his worst siege; chicken pox can be rough on adults, you know? The doctor had put him out, and he couldn't talk very well.

"What was I to do? Desilu was screaming at me. ABC and the sponsors were waiting in New York for an answer; they had to know, so they could buy other time if 'The Untouchables' was going on.

"Now it was 11:30, and I decided the only thing to do was go see Bob and somehow wake him up. But first I thought I'd better see if I had chicken pox, you know?

"My mother lives in Connecticut, but winters in Miami Beach. I called for Mrs. Rebecca Levin at her hotel, but she was out on the beach sunning. I left a message for her to call. I couldn't call my sister in New York because she was a schoolteacher and working. I couldn't reach my brother in St. Louis or my other brother in Brooklyn. My sister in Long Island was younger, so she wouldn't know if I had chicken pox.

"So I got the network and the sponsors on a conference call and told them the whole situation.

" 'How far does an agent have to go?' I asked them. They decided I was sincere and I was given until the following morning to get an answer.

It all has a happy ending. The Untouchables will be back on the air next season. Bob Stack recovered from the chicken pox.

And, for the record, Shiffrin did have the chicken pox as a boy.

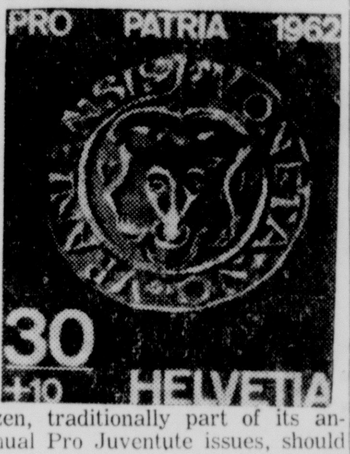
Stamp News

The always beautifully designed "Pro Patria" series, 1962 edition, of semi-postals has just been issued by Switzerland, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America. There are five stamps in the set. Four are devoted to the fine arts and the fifth honors an outstanding Swiss citizen.



Swiss postal authorities decided that the tribute to a Swiss citizen, traditionally part of its annual Pro Juventute issues, should be featured in the Pro Patria set instead. The honored individual this year is Jean Jaques Rousseau. His likeness appears on the 5 c plus 5 value.

The four fine arts stamps depict old Swiss coins from different cantons. The 10 plus 10 shows a silver half-thaler from the canton of Obwalden. The 20 plus 10 features an old ducat from Schwyz. The 30 plus 10 bears a batzen coin (a small copper-colored coin) with the coat of arms of the canton of Uri. Another batzen of copper and nickel, for Nidwalden, is pictured on the 50 plus 10.

Proceeds from the stamps will be donated to homes for the aged and for various Swiss cultural endeavors.

Collectors who would like to have a special remembrance of the "Project Mercury" stamp on first day cover can now obtain an attractive framed memento. It consists of a cachet cover mounted under glass on a sky blue background dotted with stars and a space capsule. Appropriate inscriptions appear below. The framed souvenir is 9½ inches by 12 inches. Each will have the owner's name and address on the first day cover. The cost is $3.95 each. Orders can be addressed to the Washington Press, Maplewood, N. J.

Austria commemorates the centenary of the death of Johan Nestroy by issuing a new 1 schilling stamp. A likeness of Nestroy, famous Viennese author, playwright and actor, appears on the stamp. Theatrical masks are in the background. He was born in 1801 and died in 1862.

'Cinderella' Film Slated On Thursday

The full company and orchestra of the famed Bolshoi Ballet Company will be presented on film Thursday in the Technicolor production of "Cinderella," at the Paramount Theatre. The single performance will begin at 8 p.m.

The Sergei Prokofiev ballet features Raisa Struchkova as Cinderella, and Gennadi Lediakh as the Prince.

The film, first viewed at the Vancouver Film Festival in Canada last year, proved to be an excellent success, drawing a great number of young people. The filmed ballet was definitely created for the camera, not the stage, and utilizes charming backgrounds and makes the most of the use of color.

Tickets are on sale at the theatre box office or may be ordered from "Cinderella," Post Office Box 1612, Monroe, Louisiana.

Standby Gets Chance To Act In Play Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Sorrell Booke finally got on stage in "Fiorello!," although it took a revival of the musical to turn the trick.

During the original run on Broadway, Booke was standby for 15 months to Tom Bosley in the key role. Bosley never missed a performance.

Booke got to play the part when he was chosen to take over in a limited return engagement.

INDONESIAN SAYS

Guinea Landings Due To Continue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia promised Saturday Indonesian forces will continue to land in West New Guinea in efforts to wrest the territory from the Dutch.

In a letter to acting U. N. Secretary-General U Thant, Subandrio at the same time repeated Indonesian acceptance of a proposal by U. S. diplomat Ellsworth Bunker for settlement of the long-festering dispute over the jungle territory.

The Dutch government said Thursday it was ready to accept the Bunker plan as a basis for further negotiation with Indonesia —but without any prior pledge to transfer administration of the territory to the Jakarta government. The chief Netherlands delegate to the United Nations, Carl W. A. Schurmann, formally informed Thant Saturday of the Dutch stand on the Bunker plan.

In Hollandia, New Guinea, the Dutch government Information Sevice reported Saturday an Indonesian parachutist was killed near Teminabuan in extreme west new Guinea in latest fighting with Dutch armed forces.

Dutch Prime Minister Jan E. de Quay urged Thant on May 16 to request Indonesia to refrain from all aggressive action against New Guinea.

Thant himself told De Quay Tuesday such a plea would be one-sided but that it was appropriate for him to appeal to both the Netherlands and Indonesia to refrain from aggressive action.

Subandrio said the landings in West New Guinea were not aggression. He said "The armed forces of Indonesia have only been doing their duty by giving full protection to Indonesian nationals while moving in an integral part of the Republic of Indonesia, namely West Irian."

Subandrio's letter charged that Dutch aggression "has been the more naked of late by the dispatch of more Dutch land, sea and air forces" to West New Guinea.

The Bunker plan, made public officially here Saturday after issuance elsewhere the last few days, would have the two sides agree on two years U. N. administration of West New Guinea and the transfer of the territory meanwhile to Indonesian administration with a guarantee that the Papuan inhabitants would get self-determination a few years later.

LITTLE THEATRE FINALE

'Blow Your Horn' Wins Humor Honor

By JOHN CALE
Staff Critic

"Come Blow Your Horn," a Neil Simon farce which opened at Strauss Playhouse Friday, is the funniest comedy to come this way through and media in many a year.

The play opened on Broadway in February, 1961, and is still going strong. The Little Theatre of Monroe was fortunate enough to earn performance rights for an amateur group by virtue of the commendable work done in "Bye Bye Birdie." to close out the 1962-63 season.

Cast for the local production—which will run for six evenings including a Sunday performance—includes:

Claude Fuller	Alan Baker
Bettie Gibbs	Peggy Evans
Arthur Griffith	Buddy Baker
Bob Evans Sr.	Mr. Baker
Gail Sawyer	Connie Dayton
Roslyn Haas	Mrs. Baker
Francis Yeldell	A Visitor

This appears to be a small cast, but one of the richest comedy devices was the matter of the unexpected person making an entrance.

Richard Clark's direction passed a test in that three members of the cast were making their debuts, and he worked them right into the fabric with a group of veterans.

Word economy was the most noteworthy feature of Neil Simon's script. In fact, there's the possibility he wrote half the play, then took the same lines, shuffled them and passed them out to different members of the cast in order to reach some sort of resolution at the final curtain. At any rate, it is a relief to see playwrights turning to real funnybone ticklers rather than the bombastic cracks which have filled such bygone comedies as Gore Vidal's "Visit to a Small Planet."

LOCAL CAST

Once again, Roz Haas walked into a "mother" part similar to her role in "Bye Bye Birdie," only in this situation, she has two sons. If possible, the casting this time suited her even better, and her telephone "answering service" in Act II was one of the high points of opening night.

The two sons, played by Arthur Griffith (younger innocent) and Claude Fuller (elder post-bachelor), afforded some smooth-running dialogue at the beginning of the last act. In fact, it was at this moment that the play stopped being an ordinary farce and turned into a humorous, but accurate, study in adult development.

On leave as vice president of a large chemical concern, Robert Evans was not too far afield in the play as head of an artificial fruit firm. This was a family business, however, and there seemed to be some difficulty in getting the elder son, a salesman, to sell also to kiss his Aunt Gussie.

Evans played with maximum authority, although, his frequent glances to the upper right gave the impression he was reading his lines from a teleprompter.

Three Northeast beauties — Bettie Gibbs, Gail Sawyer and Francis Yeldell — rounded out the cast. Work in the Northeast production "Nine Girls" brought an added measure of poise to all of these young actresses. Bettie Gibbs appeared far more at home as a film - role - seeking comedienne than as last year's "nurse with the birthmark" in "Mr. Roberts." And Gail Sawyer showed acting ability beyond her years in the scene where she cut off the bachelor's son's escape route.

The single set of a New York bachelor apartment, lighting and costuming: — all were expertly carried out with the timid tingle of a short - circuited telephone contributing the only awkward (but still comical) situation for opening night.

A large, colorful display of paintings, many of them depicting Monroe and Ouachita Parish scenes and painted by Mrs. Courtney Oliver's class from the Monroe Recreational Department, will hang in the Strauss Palyhouse lobby throughout the run of "Come Blow Your Horn."

Mrs. Taylor, 56, Succumbs; Rites Are Set Today

Mrs. Velma K. Taylor, 56, a resident of West Monroe, died at the St. Francis hospital Saturday after a short illness. She is survived by her husband L. A. Taylor of West Monroe.

Funeral services are slated for 3 p.m. this afternoon at the Farmerville Church of Christ, to be conducted by Brother, F. C. Bailey, assisted by Brother Kenneth Brantley. Burial will follow in the Taylor cemetery near here under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Other survivors are one son, Jesse Neal Taylor Jr., Farmerville; one daughter, Mrs. Buford G. Berry, Alexandria; three brothers, Clyde Kennedy, Arthur Kennedy and Agee Kennedy, all of Farmerville; two sisters, Mrs. Herbert Green, Farmerville, and Mrs. I. F. Derks, Morgan City and five grandchildren.

Pallbearers are Ray Johnson, J. Christy, Jake Haley, Rassie Kennedy, S. D. Kennedy, and [illegible] [illegible]. The body will remain at the funeral home until one hour before services.

Blast Kills 8; Blamed On Gas

ASBESTOS, Que. (AP) — An explosion which shattered a two-story home, killing eight persons, apparently was caused by leaking propane gas, authorities said Saturday.

The dead were Mrs. Paradis; Mrs. Reynald Lambert, 44, who lived on the lower floor, two of Mrs. Lambert's children; Huguette Briere, 19; Lucy Pellerin, 11; Louise Toutant, 8; and a boy identified only as Bourassa.

HEIGHTENS TENSION

Four Blasts Rip Red Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—Four blasts in 15 minutes ripped the Red wall in Berlin Saturday and heightened tension over the fatal shooting of an East German border guard.

About 50 East German police rushed to the scene and West Berlin riot police appeared when one predawn explosion knocked a six-foot hole in the wall that snakes for 25 miles across the city. Another blast buckled the masonry. What damage was done by the other two detonations, if any, could not be seen from the West.

Western authorities said they did not know who set off the explosions, but speculated they were the work of resistance groups behind the wall.

The East German News Agency ADN declared, however, the blasts were a continuation of "murder attacks" begun Wednesday when an East German border guard was shot and killed in an exchange of fire with Western police.

Otto Winzer, deputy foreign minister of East Germany, fired off protest letters to the three Western Allied commandants, charging that West German extremists set off the explosions to torpedo United States-Soviet talks in Berlin.

Saturday was the funeral of the guard, 21-year-old Peter Goering, and the East Germans gave him a martyr's honors while turning the occasion to bitter propaganda uses.

The Communist regime did not mention that its guards fired first in the Wednesday battle — on a 14-year-old boy swimming a canal to escape to the West.

Western police said they fired back when the Communist guards turned tommy guns on West Berlin police helping the seriously wounded boy out of the water. The injured boy was reported improving, his life no longer in danger.

The scene of the explosions was in the Bernauerstrasse area, where many dramatic escapes from East Berlin have been made through the wall. Several wooden screens put up by Communist authorities to block the view from the West have gone up in flames recently. Only people in East Berlin could get close enough to set them afire.

This supported speculation that the blasts too were set off by East Berliners.

ADN charged however that the blasting was a continuation of attacks which included the throwing of explosive objects over the wall at East German guards. This has been going on since Thursday night, ADN declared, and one undetonated explosive was picked up.

The agency quoted experts as saying the recovered object was a British H36 hand grenade found near the old Reichstag building. A British spokesman said this was a type which had been widely scattered over Europe since World War II. No British soldier threw this one, the spokesman added.

ADN quoted experts as saying cartridges of donarit, a German demolition material widely used in Europe, were used to blast the wall.

The East German interior minister, Karl Maron, in a latter to West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt, also charged Westerners were responsible for the blasts.

A West Berlin guard watching East Berlin workmen repairing the hole in the wall said: "They're in an ugly mood over there. They're thristing for revenge.

The Communist press has been making the maximum of the death of the border guard Goering for the past three days. All East German radio stations went off the air for a minute during his funeral.

Drivers Booked In Twin Cities After Crashes

Two persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages by Twin City police Saturday.

Monroe officers apprehended John Joseph Moss Jr., 35, of 1134 S. Hobart St., Los Angeles, Calif., at 1:40 a.m. Saturday. He was taken into custody after crashing into a telephone pole and was charged with DWI, reckless driving and damage to property.

West Monroe officers booked Irvin Deiter, 35, of 110 Hines St., West Monroe, for DWI, no driver's license and leaving the scene of an accident.

Police received a report at 1:55 p.m. Saturday from Thelma Griffin of 301½ North Fourth St., West Monroe, that her car had been struck by another vehicle while it was parked on Natchitoches St. The other car had left the scene.

Officers later found the vehicle that matched the description of the hit and run automobile and placed Deiter under arrest for the accident.

GOP Assails JFK Choice For Mission

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Republican Policy Committee assailed Saturday President Kennedy's designation of economic adviser Walter W. Heller to head a study of economic conditions in Western Europe.

The committee said in its weekly staff memo that Kennedy's decision to analyze Europe's current prosperity for tips on how to boost the American economy "is becoming a real Alice-in-Wonderland" story.

"Probably for the first time in modern history the White House apparently thinks it has to go outside the United States to find out something about how to maintain a strong economy," the memo said.

The GOP committee said Heller, who now heads Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, assisted a Marshall Plan team which was sent to West Germany in 1951 to advise that country how to get back on its economic feet.

The result, the Republican group said, was a brightly packaged guide to economic perdition.

"Dr. Heller and the team suggested, among other things, that in order to recover West Germany should: (1) not pay any attention to balanced budgets; (2) not worry about inflation; (3) not have excessive concern for price stability; (4) not be overly timid about creation of new credit; and (5) be sure and let the government play the dominant role in the economy."

But the Republicans said West Germany chose an opposite course in which its economy was based "on a sound currency, a balanced budget, the elimination of price controls, incentives to business and individuals to save and invest, and encouragement to private enterprise rather than government-directed economy."

"So, by doing everything opposite to the Heller report, West Germany became the envy of all Europe in its recovery and prosperity—that is the actual, documented record," the memo said.

URGE TIGHTER CONTROLS

House Probers Say U.S. Trade Aids Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators reported Saturday that U.S. trade has served to strengthen Communist nations and urged tightened controls over exports to Red bloc countries.

They question whether present trade policies toward Poland and Yugoslavia should be continued, and called for positive action by the United States to induce its allies to stop trading with Cuba.

The recommendations were made by Rep. A. Paul Kitchin, D-N.C., chairman of the Select Committee on Export Control and its two Republican members, Reps. Glenard P. Lipscomb of California and Delbert L. Latta of Ohio.

The other two committee members, Democrats Edward P. Boland of Massachusetts and B. F. Sisk of California, joined in asking close control over exports to the Soviet bloc. But they filed a separate statement calling the report "an unfortunate and unsubstantiated reflection on the administration of export controls during the past year."

The Kitchin committee's investigation dealt with administration of the Export Control Act, which is due to expire June 30.

It recommended extension of the act with amendments that would increase the President's authority to deny export licenses and stiffen the penalties for violations of the act.

It called also for better enforcement of the entire export control program, and described as inadequate the present provisions on prelicensing investigations, examination of outbound shipments and tracing of shipments to insure against illegal diversion to a Communist country.

The government was urged also to keep closer scrutiny on foreign subsidiaries of American firms to make sure they are not shipping strategic goods to Soviet bloc nations.

The report said total U.S. exports to the Soviet bloc in 1960 amounted to $193.4 million, of which $143.1 million represented agricultural shipments to Poland.

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — King Hussein and British-born Princess Mouna celebrated their first wedding anniversary privately today. Tomorrow, Hussein will address a crowd celebrating Army Day, the anniversary of Jordan independence.

HAPPY FATHER DAY
AP

WHEN FATHER is the focus of attention, Mom can make a hit by manning the camera. With results like this, it may even turn out to be a home run. What a team!

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

June could be a busy month for photo fans.

It's a time to go over cameras and equipment for the strenuous summer and vacation season ahead.

It's a time to tidy up the negative files and picture albums of past shooting to clear the deck for the deluge to come.

And it's a time to warm up the shooting finger and the viewing eye for events such as Fathers Day, June weddings and graduation activities.

When Father's great day arrives and Pop is in the center spotlight, it's time also for Mom to desert the kitchen and view the proceedings from behind the family camera. And while he's playing 'King for a Day,' it could be that Mom's pcitures turn out better than anything he's done lately. Even if he calls it "beginner's luck," it's worth trying.

So for you ladies getting ready for the event, here are a couple of incidental tidbits which may come in handy.

If there is one almost universal camera setting likely to yield a picture on most normal shooting occasions, it is this: 1-50th of a second at f-11 with the camera focused at 10 feet.

Set any complicated or adjustable camera with these adjustments and you're ready to shoot with box - camera simplification. It will work fine when shooting outdoors in sunlight with such black-and-white films as Verichrome Pan, All Weather Pan and Plus - X. It will also produce satisfactory results with such color films as Anscochrome, Dodacolor and Kodachrome II.

And when you move indoors and add a flashbulb, the same setting will work at the normal camera - to - people distance—around eight feet.

CHANGES

Of course, for specific pictures, changes may be necessary for more accurate focusing, and more exact meter measurement may alter the exposure setting. But for an impromptu candid or a quick grab shot, you can't be far off if you leave the 1-50-f-11-10 foot combination on the camera at all times — and shoot without fussing at the next opportunity.

Are you baffled by the problem of when to use blue flashbulbs and when to fire clear bulbs? Here's simple, straight answer from Don Mohler, General Electric expert:

"Use blue flashbulbs with daylight-type color film no matter where you shoot — indoors, outdoors, day or night. For anything else use clear flashbulbs."

WE'RE SMOKING ENTERTAINING OURSELVES MORE

CHICAGO (AP) — Measured by federal excise tax collections, smoking, drinking, travel and entertainment all increased among Americans last year.

The Commerce Clearing House reports there was a distinct drop in revenues from taxes on new cars, television sets, air conditioners, furs and other durable goods.

Collections from alcohol taxes jumped $106 million, while tobacco taxes were up $63 million. There also were gains in retailers' taxes on jewelry and cosmetics.

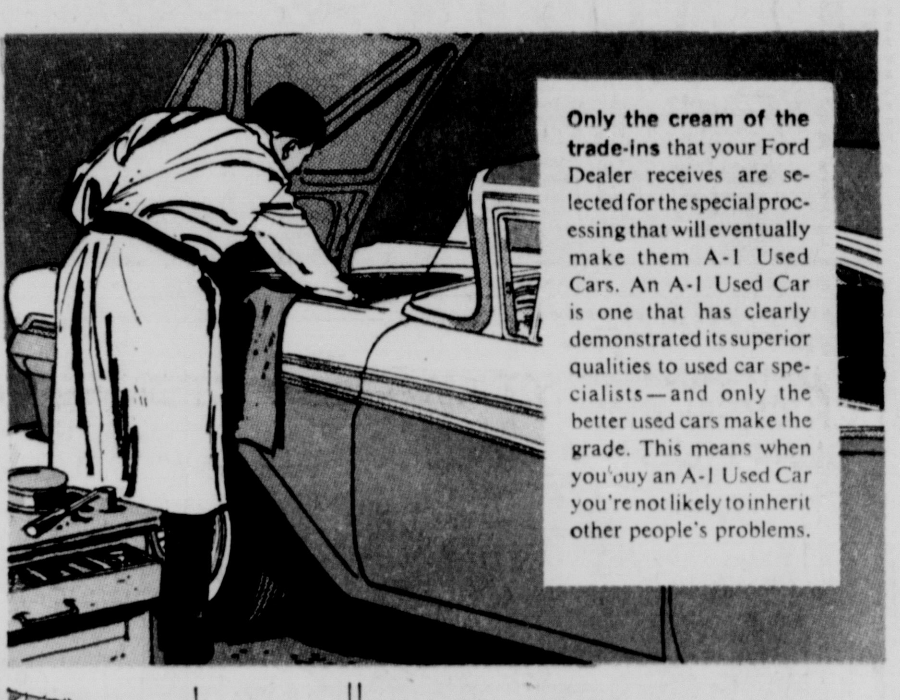
Why the man who buys an A-1 Used Car is the best prospect for another

He knows that only quality trade-ins receive the special processing that makes them A-1 Used Cars. That's why he keeps returning to his Ford Dealer to get an A-1 Used Car at the price he wants to pay. This year, your Ford Dealer's been selling a wide variety of cars and taking in a wide variety of trades. He's pricing his used cars low to keep them moving—and make room for more. See your Ford Dealer now for the best in used car buys!



Only the cream of the trade-ins that your Ford Dealer receives are selected for the special processing that will eventually make them A-1 Used Cars. An A-1 Used Car is one that has clearly demonstrated its superior qualities to used car specialists—and only the better used cars make the grade. This means when you buy an A-1 Used Car you're not likely to inherit other people's problems.

Quality is carefully controlled on A-1 Used Cars. All points of wear are carefully noted. And each car is inspected, road-tested and reconditioned if necessary before it goes on sale. These important steps are taken to give you durability, top value and pride of ownership. Used cars that bear an A-1 sticker tell you that this is a top quality car!

You can count on the man who makes the sale. Your Ford Dealer's in business to stay. He wants to keep you as a customer—and, some day, sell you a new car. HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When something spills or cooks over in your oven . . . just sprinkle salt on it immediately. When the oven is cool, use your pancake turner and pick up the burned pile of goop. Wipe with damp sponge.

By adding salt to my cooked starch mixture, I find that it keeps my iron from sticking.
Jeanette Bolton

Ladies:

Terrific! I had scalloped potatoes boil over yesterday . . . and what smoke and smell.

I immediately grabbed my box of salt and poured it on the burned spills. Smoke died down, odors left, and I just kept cooking.

After removing the food, I closed the oven door so the heat would stay in the oven. Next morning, I just used my pancake turner and scraped up the awful mess.

I suggest that women not try to clean a mess like this when it happens. Close the oven door and let the heat finish your chores. There is always tomorrow! Remember it. And if you died tonight think of the energy you saved! Isn't life wonderful?
Heloise

SHOE POLISH PAINT

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found that I can use white shoe polish applied to a piece of cotton to "spot" my white walls.

On the one room that is colored, I saved a medicine bottle full of the original paint. I pour some into a saucer, dab the cotton into this and cover any mark that is made by a piece of furniture, handprints around light switches, etc.
—June Little

BURGER THINS

DEAR HELOISE:
Save the covers from cottage cheese and dip packages. Wash and dry.

When you have collected about a dozen, buy three or four pounds of ground beef on sale. Lay a cover on the drainboard and put one-half cup of meat on the deep side (top) of the cover. Press with your hand and stack one on top of the other for freezing.

When you want a late snack, just pry one or more off the stack and there you are! The lids can be used many times.
— La Veda Hayman

PERFECT FOIL

DEAR HELOISE:
The grandest tip I have is to put an underlining of heavy foil under your ironing board cover.

The foil reflects the heat of the iron and the clothes iron and dry twice as fast. If you have no heavy foil, two layers of the regular foil will do beautifully. These should go directly under the top cloth on your board.

This also keeps your board from getting damp when ironing many sprinkled clothes.
— Marchelle Richards

DIAPER PINS

DEAR HELOISE:
For mothers who have those dull baby diaper pins: take a bar of pure baby soap (it's softer and doesn't crumble as badly as some others), leave the wrapper on the bar and stick your pins in the soap.

Pins will go through the diaper ever so easily and the wrapper will keep any little bits that might flake in one container. Later this same bar can be used to bathe baby.
— Dorothy Burns

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a way to save money on razor blades. Use a jar big enough for your razor to drop into. Fill it with just enough mineral oil for the head of the razor to be covered. Keep razor here after rinsing and using. Use jar with lid.

Result? I get 15 shaves from one razor blade . . . and I have a tough beard.
— Robert Link

ANY MILDEW

DEAR HELOISE:
Mildew in closets is caused by a lack of circulation. I installed wooden louver doors on all my closets and I have had no mildew since.

Metal grills can be installed in paneled doors. These grills come in all sizes and fit any standard door. Even cutting an extra inch off the bottom of a closet door helps.

If fungus has the upper hand, burn all possessions and move your family immediately to a desert!
— Bayou Dweller

MOTOR TROUBLE?

DEAR HELOISE:
I disconnected my refrigerator and removed the bottom panel. When I looked under it and saw the dust and lint on the motor, I was amazed. We had been having trouble with it and were going to call the repairman.

When I plugged the refrigerator back in after cleaning, it worked like new again. It's a good idea to clean this part of the refrigerator once a month.
— Mrs. L.W.T.

DEAR HELOISE:
Whenever I have to shorten a skirt, I just use my ironing board. You can stick the pins right into the padding when measuring the hem. Also . . . it need not be removed until the pressing is done.

After pressing, hand sew the hem while the dress is still on the board.
— Merce Brown

PLAIN PROOF

I FOUND out about the many uses for rubbing alcohol some years ago and have been using it ever since. I have found it a wonderful mildew and mold remover. So have all my friends.

Any alcohol is effective, but I use plain rubbing alcohol as it is much safer.

If people will try it on refrigerator gaskets, I am sure they will be charmed with the results.
Mrs. M.N.W.

SEW-BELTS

DEAR HELOISE:
About the best thing I have learned in years in sewing is to use iron-on tape when lining homemade belts. This is the only way I have found to get the material straight.

I press the tape on one side of the material along the edge. Turn the material over the belting and just press gently. Now my belts don't look homemade any more.
— Irene Cohen

WATER MARKS

DEAR HELOISE:
To remove white water marks from table tops, etc., I apply mayonnaise and rub it in. Let stand and wipe clean with a soft cloth in an hour or so. No mark will be left. At least I have never had one.
— Sara Jane
